FRANCE TURNS DOWN GERMAN PLEA FOR ARMS

Rejects Request for Private Talk.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 7.—The French cabinet met again this afternoon and gave its unanimous approval to the ringing "No!" which Premier Herriot has decided will be France's answer to Germany's request for equality in armaments.

The French reply to the "aide memoire" is not expected to be dispatched to Berlin until Friday at the earliest. The chief reason for the delay now is that Paris is waiting on London.

It is taken for granted here that the British sympathies are with France in Germany's request, but it is felt that Downing street may propose some change or addition to the Quai d'Orsay draft. By holding up a reply until London has rendered an opinion the French will be able to answer Germany in the name of the allies—at least that is how they have it figured here—instead of just on her own behalf.

Chief Points Revealed.

The text of the French reply, or rather the draft which the cabinet considered today, was not revealed, but government circles were authority for its main points. While the document is expected to answer the German argument that membership in the league of nations entitles her to equality with other nations in all respects, the French answer will emphasize the question of procedure rather than the juridical basis of the German claim.

The reply will turn down flatly the German request for man to man conversations between Paris and Berlin and will voice an equally emphatic disapproval of mixing up modification of the Versailles treaty with the disarmament conference. If the Germans question the accepted interpretation of the Versailles treaty and the league covenant the matter must be referred to arbitration by the league council or the world court, the reply will argue.

Must Get Consent of All.

If it is the treaty itself that the Germans desire to attack they cannot do anything legally, even if the French have no objections, without the formal consent of all the signatories. Wilhelmstrasse will be told. Some stress will also be placed on the fact that the military clauses in the treaty of Versailles form the basis of many other post-war treaties and that the entire edifice of post-war Europe will be imperiled if they are tampered with.

Passing lightly over the possibility of Germany winning equality through the disarmament of its neighbors, the French note will interpret the German demand as applying to nothing more nor less than the right to rearm. The international political and economical situation and the progress of the disarmament conference will be invoked to show that Chancellor Franz von Papen's desire to rearm is untimely more than ever.

THE TRIBUNE understands that advisory opinions by all the governments which are signatories to the "confidence accord," with the exception of the British, have been received and that they will be referred to liberally in the French note.

Ready to Call New Election.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The government prepared today to plunge Germany into the turmoil of another election, the fifth this year, in the event that the reichstag proves recalcitrant when it meets again next week.

The date tentatively selected for the voting is Nov. 6. The election will be held if the reichstag is determined to place on its agenda a motion of no confidence in the ministry of Chancellor Frans von Papen, or a measure designed to cancel the economic program drawn up by the chancellor and made effective by emergency decree.

On the day the new reichstag held its first session—Aug. 30—President von Hindenburg signed an undated decree dissolving the reichstag, and the chancellor may wield this club whenever he sees fit.

The decision to hold another election was based on the government belief that the Von Papen ministry is much stronger with the public now than it was at the time of the last election, when it had been in office only a short time.

The only chance of the reichstag avoiding dissolution is through adjournment, which would mean tacit toleration of the Von Papen ministry.

FIND ANOTHER MRS. BERN IN MOVIE TRAGEDY

Jean Harlow Knew, Says Brother.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—From two sources tonight came information that Jean Harlow was not the first love of Paul Bern, her "ascetic" husband, who killed himself in their home early Monday morning.

His brother, Henry Bern, who arrived in Hollywood tonight from New York by airplane to attend the inquest tomorrow and the funeral, explained at one of the stops that Paul had lived with another woman for years before his marriage to Jean. He asserted Paul had continued to support her, in a sanitarium after a nervous breakdown, and that Miss Harlow knew about it.

Tell of Red Haired Woman.

Dispatches from New York told of a comely red haired woman who had lived at the Hotel Algonquin as Mrs. Paul Bern for ten years and paid her bills with checks sent her fortnightly from Hollywood by the motion picture executive. The woman, about 35 years old, whose name was said to be Miss Dorothy Millet, left the hotel in the first week of this year.

Hotel officials said Bern would call on the woman about once a year, when he came to New York on business trips. He made his last visit in October, 1931. Employés said that during her ten years' stay at the hotel Mrs. Bern lived in comparative isolation and took no extended vacations. She was a quiet, bookish person and rarely had visitors.

Little was known about Mrs. Bern's early history. None seemed to know where she lived before she met Bern, but there seemed to be a general understanding that she had played minor roles on the legitimate stage at one time.

After the Christmas and New Year holidays this year Mrs. Bern gave up her rooms, arranged to have her trunks shipped to San Francisco, and left. She gave no forwarding address, but it was understood that she intended to spend some time in San Francisco with "friends I haven't seen for years."

Henry Bern was reported to have said his brother "lived openly" and "had no secrets." Asserting his brother had been happy in his marriage to the actress, Henry said:

"I will be frank about it. Paul never was married before, but he lived with a woman a long time. She had a nervous breakdown, a derangement, but he took care of her; kept her in a sanitarium. Miss Harlow knew of it. He told her. And many of his friends knew of it."

Won't Attend Inquest.

The 24 year old widow was too distraught today to talk, but Marino Bello, her stepfather and spokesman, asserted he knew nothing of another woman and added that he was certain the actress had known nothing of it.

It was virtually certain tonight that Miss Harlow would not attend the inquest tomorrow, though a subpoena had been served on her. Her doctors said she was in no condition to be moved and Coroner Frank Nance said that if he were shown a doctor's certificate that she was too ill to appear h could do nothing more.

At the same time Dr. Frank Webb reported that an autopsy on the body had disclosed a condition which may have contributed to the tragedy. He refused to elaborate his statement.

Keep Facts for Brother.

Officials at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, who have been acting in a dual capacity as conservers of the dead man's memory and his widow's film future, said that information in their possession about Bern's physical condition and mental moods would be revealed to Henry Bern and to no one before him.

In connection with reports that her husband's sensational death would result in Miss Harlow's retirement from films, Louis B. Mayer, head of the studio holding her contract issued a denial that the actress was "through." At the time of Bern's death, she had completed half of her scenes in a new film.

Mayer admitted he had had a 20 minute radiophone conversation with Dr. E. B. Jones, personal physician to Bern who is in Honolulu, and who had cabled he could explain the motive for the suicide. Mayer refused

MERCURY FALLS TO 54°; COOLEST SEPT. 7 SINCE '98

Chicago enjoyed another day of ideal early autumn weather yesterday after an abnormally chilly night. By 6 a. m. yesterday the temperature had dipped to 54 degrees, the lowest for Sept. 7 since 1898. The sun rose in a cloudless sky, however, and by afternoon the reading was 68. Fair weather, with slowly rising temperature, is forecast for today.

The corn crop is maturing rapidly in the cool, dry weather, according to reports from downstate and Iowa. The crop bulletin issued by the Springfield weather bureau states that corn generally is safe from frost in northern Illinois, but that soft soil may impair the crop in southern Illinois.

"Stubble plowing continues," the bulletin says. "Pastures have been improved by rains. Soy beans are being cut for fodder and the apple harvest is on."

Ninety-four per cent of Iowa's corn crop will be safe from frost by Oct. 15, Charles D. Reed, director of the Iowa crop bureau, announced at Des Moines. In the last week corn made "excellent progress," Reed said.

Babe Ruth Ill; Leaves Yankee Club in Detroit

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth will not play in the New York Yankees' series with the Detroit Tigers, which opens here tomorrow. And if fears of New York club officials are realized, Ruth may not even get in the world series, should the Yanks win the American league pennant, which now seems likely.

Accompanied by Mrs. Ruth, the Babe left for New York at 8:30 o'clock tonight, after being seized with severe pains in the stomach.

Mark Roth, secretary of the New York club, said it was feared Ruth had been stricken with appendicitis and that he had gone to New York for examination and treatment by the Yankee club physician.

Leaves Without Warning.

Ruth's illness struck him suddenly and he left Detroit without notifying either Roth or Arthur Fletcher, Yankee coach, who were in charge of the team in the absence of Joe McCarthy. The Yankee boss stopped off to visit at his home in Buffalo after the Yankees played an exhibition game at Binghamton yesterday.

Roth and Fletcher received the first news of Ruth's departure from newspaper men, after the Babe had been seen boarding a train at the Michigan Central station.

Both expressed surprise when told Ruth had gone home and when asked the reason therefor, Roth scurried around a bit, quizzed several Yankee players, and then confirmed the story that Ruth had packed up and gone home.

"He was seized with a pain in the stomach and called up McCarthy at Buffalo," Roth said. "He told McCarthy he thought he was getting appendicitis and Joe gave him permission to return to New York."

Home Run Crown Periled.

If Ruth is kept out of the game for any considerable length of time, it will mean the loss of his home run championship for this season to Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia Athletics' first baseman. Foxx has hit 51 homers this season, against 40 for Ruth, and has a fair chance of passing the Babe's all time record of 60 home runs established in 1927. The Babe's total of 40 for this year is nine behind his record schedule of 1927. In that season he hit his 48th and 49th on Sept. 7.

Ruth's career has been interrupted frequently by illness and injuries in recent years. He was incapacitated last in April, 1931, when he tore a ligament in his leg while chasing a fly ball at Boston and was out of the game for two weeks.

ON RELIEF LIST, BARRED AT POLLS BY OLD MAINE LAW

Lewiston, Me., Sept. 7.—Their names stricken from the voting lists, 350 unemployed Lewiston residents today were without the right to exercise the suffrage in Monday's state election.

The action was taken by the Republican controlled board of registration after a 10 day open hearing under an old Maine statute authorizing disfranchisement of persons receiving municipal relief within a 90 days period.

Headed by Herbert C. Holmes, corporation counsel and defeated candidate two years ago for United States senator, Democrats vigorously protested the board's action. Holmes, in a telegram to President Hoover, charged the law was obsolete.

A writ of mandamus for the return of the name of one person to the list was denied by Superior Court Justice Harry Manser in a test case.

WIFE DIVORCES MATE; WILL PAY HIS DOCTOR BILLS

Mrs. Juliette L. Tennant, 273 Central avenue, Highland Park, was granted a divorce yesterday from William G. Tennant, former president of a Chicago automobile finance company, by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan.

Tennant is now ill in a home at Oconomowoc, Wis., and Mrs. Tennant agreed to pay his medical bills, at the rate of $40 a week, for the next two years. She testified that they were married in 1912 and that Tennant deserted her in December, 1929.

Mrs. Tennant was granted custody of three children, Isabelle, 17 years old, and Barbara and Jean, twins, 14 years old. She asked no alimony.

U. of C. and Texas 'U' Plan Observatory

A great astronomical observatory, housing an 80 inch reflecting telescope that will be one of the finest in the world, is to be constructed and operated under a cooperative agreement between the University of Chicago and the University of Texas, the terms of which were announced yesterday.

This new plan of scientific cooperation, according to the announcement of Dr. Frederic Woodward, vice president of the University of Chicago, will save hundreds of thousands of dollars by eliminating duplication of equipment, maintenance and operating personnel.

U. of C. to Provide Staff.

The University of Texas, with a bequest from the late William J. McDonald, now in excess of $840,000, will erect and maintain the observatory, and the University of Chicago will provide the director and staff. Tentative plans call for the location of the observatory on a peak of the Davis mountains, in the extreme western part of Texas, some 500 miles from the university at Austin.

Experts of the staff of the Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, located at Williams Bay, Wis., said yesterday that the Davis mountain peaks afford unsurpassed visibility for observations. The proportion of clear nights also is much higher there than at Williams Bay.

Dr. Struve to Be in Charge.

Dr. Otto Struve, director of the Yerkes observatory, will also direct the new institution, to be known as the William J. McDonald Observatory of the University of Texas. Dr. Struve will divide his time between the two observatories and the University of Chicago will pay the salary of a resident assistant director, as well as two observing assistants and the necessary maintenance staff.

As a result of the agreement the University of Chicago has abandoned plans for the erection of an observatory with a powerful reflecting telescope in one of the southern states. The 40 inch telescope of the refracting type at the Yerkes observatory is ideal for certain astronomical research, but another instrument of the reflecting type was deemed necessary for the university astronomers to further research in the field of astrophysics, in which Yerkes has been a pioneer.

The 80 inch reflector, now being designed at Yerkes by Dr. Struve, will be surpassed in size only by the 100 inch reflector of the Mount Wilson observatory, and its power in the observation and photography of remote nebulae will not even be excelled by that instrument, according to the Yerkes experts.

Invented by Newton.

A reflecting telescope, the invention of Sir Isaac Newton, has a concave mirror, and parallel rays of light from the objective striking this mirror converge on a flat surfaced one, some distance away, and are reflected at right angles to form the image in the focus of the eyepiece. In the refracting telescope the rays of light from the objective are converged by use of lenses instead of by a curved mirror.

The type of mounting of the McDonald telescope will be similar to that of the 72 inch instrument of the Dominion Astrophysical observatory at Victoria, B. C., and the 69 inch Perkins observatory telescope at Delaware, O. But it will differ from these telescopes in permitting the light from the stars to pass into a closed chamber with a constant temperature, where a physical laboratory will be maintained.

Noted Astronomers Aid.

In planning the agreement the universities had the advice and support of Dr. Struve, Dr. George E. Hale, organizer and first director of Yerkes; Director Emeritus Edwin B. Frost of Yerkes, Dr. Henry Gordon Gale, dean of the physical sciences division of the University of Chicago, and others.

Dr. Struve said the observatory is to be completed by July 1, 1938.

RELIEF NEEDS FOR WINTER PUT AT 36 MILLION

Legislators Stunned by Request.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Illinois lawmakers, meeting in special session today, were stunned when they were notified by the emergency relief commission that the amount needed to meet the unemployment problem for the next six months is 36 million dollars.

All other phases of the extraordinary session faded into insignificance as this figure was placed before the general assembly in an interim report of the relief commission which was created early this year as a war measure to meet the terrific effects of the depression.

There were flocks of bills introduced in both houses, there was a celebration of Speaker Shanahan's seventieth birthday, there were minor outbursts of various sorts; but the fact that stood uppermost in the tangle of the first day was that Illinois—possibly with federal aid—must set aside a million and a half dollars a week for the winter ahead.

Stunning Effect Evident.

The report of the commission did not come up for formal discussion in either chamber. It was mentioned in an hour's informal conference in Speaker Shanahan's office. There the stunning effect was evident. Some fifty members of the house expressed their hopelessness of meeting the situation. The senate, already in session, received and advanced some thirty-three bills to second reading, but there the subject of the tremendous need of the unemployed was not gone into in detail.

Most of the members of this legislature face contests for reelection in November. There are lame ducks who have no chance of coming back. Under these conditions it is considered extremely unlikely that any bill to increase taxes, whether it be for state or county sales tax, for an increased gasoline tax or the diversion of the present gas tax from the road fund, whether it be for tobacco tax or chewing gum tax, has much chance for passage.

The sales tax of 2 per cent is the only method of raising revenue that is considered a possible means of raising the relief fund required for the state, and downstaters particularly are emphatic in saying that their constituents oppose a levy of this sort. Therefore the report of the relief commission left the legislators staggering.

Invite Pomerene Advice.

Because of this situation there was unanimous house aproval of a resolution by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago inviting Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, to appear here next Tuesday and tell the assembly just what he and his associates deem it necessary for Illinois to do before it can increase the nine million dollar allotment to the state from the 300 million congressional appropriation for relief.

Passage of this resolution apparently brought things to a standstill on the relief problem until word is received whether the former Ohio senator will come here and clarify the situation.

The report of the emergency relief commission, placed on the desks of all members under the supervision of Chairman Edward L. Ryerson Jr. and Corporation Counsel Sexton of Chicago, who is one of the hard working members of the commission, set forth that the amount of money needed for distribution among the stricken of the state between now and next March is $36,673,000.

Chicago Commission Report.

That section of the report dealing with this prospect read as follows:

"It is very difficult, with the data on hand, to estimate the need for future state or federal funds in Illinois. The estimate herewith submitted is believed to be conservative, however, and the total figure of $36,673,000 is submitted as the minimum need for state or federal funds in Illinois during the period Sept. 1, 1932, to Feb. 28, 1933, inclusive, in addition to all local public and private funds which are now or may become available during the period.

"The estimate has been based on the present low relief standards. The average cost of relief per family in Chicago is less than $24 per month; in areas outside Chicago the average varies widely, but is in all cases much below $24 per month. The estimate makes no provision for the payment of rent, as rents are not now being paid to any considerable extent by Illinois relief agencies.

"It now appears that rents may have to be paid in the future; if they are to be paid, the estimate here submitted will have to be increased by at least twenty-five per cent. The estimate covers future cash needs only; it has been assumed that future local donations of food, clothing, etc., and future distribution of flour through the American Red Cross will continue at approximately the present level. The estimate covers only those areas in Illinois in which it is believed that state or federal funds will be needed during the period covered by the estimate.

Based on Normal Season.

"The estimate has been increased for the fall and winter months by no more than the normal seasonal increase [except that provision has been made for the fact that a number of Illinois counties not now receiving state or federal funds will require such funds during the coming months]. If the increase this year is more than seasonal, the estimate will be too low. It is believed that relief needs during this fall and winter will increase by at least the normal seasonal amount. The latest employment data submitted by the Illinois department of labor gives no definite indication of any permanent improvement in the employment situation in Illinois. If an increase in employment occurs this fall, it will probably have relatively little effect in decreasing total relief needs during the period covered by the estimate.

"Inasmuch as Illinois counties have been required to make the fullest possible use of available local funds before securing state or federal funds, it is believed that the amounts which can be made available for expenditure from local public and private sources during the period covered by the estimate will be relatively small in most areas.

Insist on Area Funds.

"Most Illinois cities are planning private relief drives for the coming fall. As these drives are, in most cases, planned to start in October or November, as the general economic situation is most unfavorable, and as the sums raised must be distributed throughout the ensuing twelve months, the amounts actually available for expenditure prior to March 1, 1933, will probably not be sufficient, on the whole, to offset the seasonal increase in relief needs. The commission is insisting, however, that every effort be made to secure a maximum of private funds in each Illinois area receiving state or federal funds. In the great majority of townships now receiving state or federal funds a maximum of tax anticipation warrants has been issued against the 1932 tax levies and the proceeds already expended for relief. In most of these townships little or no further local public money can be made available until the next township tax levies, held in the spring of 1933.

Statistics of Needy.

"The following data should be considered in connection with the estimate submitted herewith:

"1. In the month of July, 1932, an estimated number of 180,600 families received material relief or work relief in those areas in Illinois to which state or federal funds have been allocated; 125,600 families received such relief in Cook county, and approximately 55,000 families in other areas to which allocations have been made. In addition, 16,400 single men and women were cared for in shelters in the city of Chicago alone during the month of July.

"2. On Aug. 31, 1932, state or federal funds had been allocated to 50 Illinois counties, and reports received by the commission indicate that a number of additional Illinois counties will require state or federal funds during the coming fall and winter.

"3. Obligations incurred against the state and federal funds distributed through the commission totaled in June, $3,355,476.07; in July, $3,855,728.18; and in August, $4,470,598.76."

$31,496,000 in Cook County.

There followed in the report detailed estimates of the monthly requirements of the commission until next March, showing Cook county's needs as $31,496,000 and the needs of other counties as $5,177,000. This tabulation showed that the demand for relief in the state as a whole would raise from $738,000 in September to $842,000 in October, to $935,000 for next February.

In the rush of the first day of the session this subject did not receive full consideration. For an hour after the time set for convening—4 o'clock standard time—there were some fifty members of the house in Speaker Shanahan's office; but they reached no conclusion beyond the decision to invite former Senator Pomerene to appear here next week.

When the houses met there were the expected floods of bills—thirty-three in each, to be exact—which included something like a dozen bills for various forms of the sales tax and the usual "bug bills," such as the proposed tax on chewing gum. In the senate, which is a clubby body, all bills were advanced to second reading without discussion, but after the first stage of excitement had passed in the house all bills there were referred to the committee of the whole, which may hear them tomorrow.

Pension Bills Advanced.

The exception to the house rule to consider all bills before advancing them came in connection with the three Chicago pension bills. They were boosted to second reading before the objections to this procedure started. That there will be opposition to these bills in their present form was indicated by Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic federation and the Chicago Bureau of Public Efficiency.

The Chicago school teacher situation was brought before the session in an unexpected way. It had been thought there would be a bill to exclude Chicago from the operations of the "N. S. F." law, but the bill brought down by Ralph Condee, assistant attorney for the Chicago board of education, and introduced by Representative A. O. Galvin, would repeal the "N. S. F." check law for the entire state.

There is considerable opposition to this move among downstaters and it is conceded the bill will have to be amended if it is to have a chance for passage.

Representative Howard Doyle of Decatur started a storm in the house when he sought fruitlessly to pass a resolution for the appointment of a special committee to investigate lobbying during the special session. He charged that road contractors and material men have organized an effort to prevent diversion of the gasoline tax money for relief purposes. But he was defeated in both a rising vote and a roll call.

The Governor's Message.

Gov. Emmerson's message, read in each house, was something of a repetition of the emphasis upon the emergency nature of the situation contained in his proclamation calling this session. In part it follows:

"At this time we are confronted with an emergency which because of its imminence and possible results temporarily eclipses any other problem. We are obliged to furnish the necessities of life to hundreds of thousands of persons who, because of lack of employment, are unable to earn their daily bread. Millions of dollars have been provided and expended for this purpose. Nine million dollars was secured from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and this will be exhausted not later than Sept. 30. No more will be forthcoming unless further efforts to provide funds are made by the state and its political subdivisions.

"This is the emergency. As governor, it is my duty to convene the general assembly on extraordinary occasions. It is your duty as the general assembly of the state of Illinois to enact such laws as you in your discretion determine will best meet the emergency. The proclamation for this special session will permit you to exercise your discretion.

"The time which you have for consideration is very limited. It is entirely inadequate to permit discussion of other legislative matters."

School Board Votes Down Tuition Charges for Crane, Normal and Evening Classes

A plan to charge tuition at the Normal and Crane Junior colleges and fees at the night schools was voted down by the board of education yesterday afternoon. The vote will mean another day's layoff without pay for 20,000 teachers and other school employés, in the opinion of Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan. Last week it was announced that five days' layoff would be necessary to balance the budget if tuition were charged.

Trustee Joseph P. Savage made the motion that the schools start operation next week without levying charges on the pupils. Mr. Savage, a hold-over trustee, was supported in speeches by three other appointees of a former administration, Trustees James A. Hemingway, H. W. Caldwell, and John A. English. Trustee Robert F. Carr and Mrs. W. S. Hefferan voted for the Savage motion after some demur.

The tuition plan was recommended several weeks ago by the school board's committee on educational economy, headed by Trustee Caldwell. It was suggested by Supt. Bogan.

Layoff Only Way, Bogan Says.

"It is humiliating for me to propose tuition after preaching the benefits of free public schools," said Mr. Bogan at yesterday's meeting. "There is only one alternative for saving this money and that is by shortening the entire school term another day. That will mean another cut for all employés in the schools."

Charging tuition would effect a saving of $37,500 at the Normal college and $127,500 at Crane college for the remainder of the year, according to estimates of school officials.

"I voted for a $15,000,000 cut in the school tax levy," Mr. Caldwell declared, "with the understanding that we would get some money. None has been forthcoming and I am against any further reductions."

"The question in my mind," said Trustee Carr, "is whether you want to handicap all the younger pupils in the schools by shortening the term."

"Another Burden on Teachers."

Mrs. Hefferan asked why the schools as a whole should be sacrificed.

"You can find the money by cutting down on operating costs," she said. "You are just placing another burden on the unpaid school teachers. I am going to vote for Mr. Savage's motion only because the schools must open next week and the superintendent must know what preparations to make."

According to Mrs. Hefferan, the teachers have already taken approximately an 11 per cent cut in salary.

"The board has slashed 23.7 per cent from its expenditures for last year," Trustee Caldwell said. "Those who made us promises of money have not fulfilled them. They said they would do everything in their power to help us obtain funds, but they have been inactive."

Interchange Brings Laughter.

"Pardon me," interjected Mr. Hemingway, vice president of the board, who was presiding in the absence of President Lewis E. Myers, "are you speaking of the mayor's advisory committee?"

"I'm not mentioning any names," answered Mr. Caldwell, "but you seem to know who I mean." There was a ripple of laughter from the crowd of school teachers in the room at this remark.

The discussion on tuition was precipitated by an opinion of the school law department, signed by Ralph Condee, assistant attorney. The opinion cited decisions holding that a board of education cannot go beyond its powers, but stated that the question of charging tuition at the Normal and Crane colleges had never been determined.

"The school board might indulge in the experiment of charging these tuitions on the theory that they are not common schools within the purview of the cases above cited, and that maintenance of these schools is optional," the opinion concluded.

Parents Plead for School.

A group of mothers and fathers whose children had been attending the Burroughs elementary school at 3542 South Washtenaw avenue, which was recommended closed recently by the superintendent for a saving of $30,000, delayed the meeting nearly an hour. The delegation, headed by Ald. Bryan Hartnett [12th], urged the trustees to reopen the school.

"If you can spend $100,000 on the Strayer report," asserted one woman, "you can find $30,000 to keep our school open. My little girl will have to walk more than a mile and cross dangerous streets to get to the other school she's sent to."

Trustee Savage replied that the school board had been placed in a financial plight because the city council had delayed passage of the tax levy ordinance for the schools until it had been trimmed by $15,000,000.

The question of Burroughs school was placed in the hands of Supt. Bogan, who announced he would meet with the delegation tomorrow.

Ask Legislative Action.

The trustees adopted a resolution, upon the recommendation of Frank S. Righeimer, special attorney, asking the special session of the legislature to adopt a bill empowering the school board to issue tax anticipation warrants to pay off its bond obligations. On Jan. 1 bond obligations to the amount of $4,200,000 will fall due and this legislation is the only means of obtaining the funds, Attorney Righeimer explained.

The board took no action about the N. S. F. check situation. These checks, issued to teachers when cash is not available, impair the value of tax warrants, according to security experts, who will not approve the board's 1932 warrants on this account. Attorney Righeimer told the trustees that Mr. Condee is in Springfield with a bill asking repeal of the N. S. F. check legislation, but that lawyers for teachers' organizations had not reached an agreement on the question.

A contract for 67,000 tons of coal, costing $300,000, to heat the schools until Jan. 1, was held up until the next meeting of the board on Monday because of protests of bidding companies. John Howatt, chief engineer, had recommended that the contract be awarded to the Moulding-Brownell corporation of Chicago, which had agreed to take payment in the board's warrants for full face value.

WOMAN TRIES TO END LIFE; UNION LEADER BLAMED

Miss Marie Densmore, 40 years old, 7027 Jeffery avenue, swallowed eight tablets of poison in an attempt to end her life in a taxicab at 51st street and the outer drive early this morning. In her pocketbook was a note charging Marcus (Studdy) Looney, reputed czar of the Excavating, Grading and Asphalt Teamsters' union, with spurning her love.

At the Jackson Park hospital she fought the doctors, declaring she wished to die. She was brought to the hospital by Harold Anderson, 6163 Eberhart avenue, the cab driver. She took his cab at 71st street and Jeffery avenue and told him to drive to the loop. At 51st street and the outer drive she told him to stop so she might get a drink. She returned to the cab, saying she had taken poison, he said.

"This is just to say good-by," she wrote to Looney. "I found out you had Mabel all the time you were with me. Also that you talked about me, which I never did about you. I have always loved you. If you think you did right, all right. I forgive you. I am going out."

The note was signed "Has Been Marie."

Bandit Wounds Victim, Then Gives Him a Drink

A nervous bandit shot John Hagopian, 40 years old, 802 Clark street, during a holdup in the latter's fruit store at 1720 Sherman avenue last night. The bullet grazed Hagopian's scalp and the robbers gave him first aid and a drink from a bottle of gin before they fled.

WORKERS' HASTE PLAYS PART IN TUNNEL TRAGEDY

Engineer Says Safety Lay in 15 Minute Wait.

Impatience to go below and get their night's work done led to the death of three workmen and the injury of six others who crashed in a large steel bucket to the bottom of a 175 foot shaft leading to the new city water tunnel in Chicago avenue near Halsted street Tuesday night.

Testifying at the inquest in the county morgue yesterday, James J. Versluis, 1631 West 105th street, engineer in charge of the tunnel construction, revealed that by waiting fifteen minutes the men might have gone below in a passenger elevator, guarded by regular safety appliances.

"The passenger elevator was of the type used in apartment buildings, with push button control," Versluis said. "The safety device got out of order, but the electricians would have had it fixed in fifteen minutes."

Says Men Were in Hurry.

"Then why weren't the men allowed to wait?" asked the deputy coroner.

"They didn't want to," said the engineer. "They had a job which could be done in six hours or in eight hours, just as they chose. They wanted to go below and get started. Use of the bucket was not forbidden. It was tested for a capacity of 15 tons."

Versluis, who has been working on the $13,000,000 tunnel project for three years, cleared up some of the confusion regarding the operation of the bucket and explained the mechanical defect causing the accident. He could not account for the occurrance of the defect, however.

"The bucket," he explained, "was suspended from the boom of a derrick on solid ground above. A cable from the bucket passed through the boom to an electrically driven spool at the base of the derrick.

The Boom Cable Breaks.

"It was not the cable on the bucket which failed. It was a separate cable, which controlled the raising and lowering of the boom.

"Somehow a section of the boom cable became pinched. Under the load of the men the cable parted. The boom crashed down on the mouth of the pit, bringing a jerk on the bucket which parted the suspensory cable.

"When the cable parted the bucket fell, the overhead gear crashing down on the men as the bucket struck bottom."

TEACHERS REPLY TO OBJECTIONS ON TAX PROPOSAL

Members of the all-city publicity committee, composed of teachers' representatives, sent a letter last night to County Treasurer McDonough in answer to his objections to the special collection of 1932 school taxes by deputized teachers. Mr. McDonough contended two weeks ago, when the plan was proposed, that the necessary bonding of such deputy collectors would be too costly and that racketeers would impersonate the teacher collectors.

According to the letter, which was signed by Mary L. Leitch, chairman of the committee and a teacher of salesmanship at the Hyde Park High school, bonding of 1,000 teachers as collectors would cost approximately $5,000. This sum should be paid by the board of education, she declared.

AQUITANIA BUILDING AUCTIONED TO COUNTY FOR TAX JUDGMENT

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday auctioned off the Aquitania apartment building, 832 Argyle street, to satisfy a judgment for $163,383 obtained by the county for nonpayment of taxes from 1924 to 1926. The property was bid in for the amount of the judgment by Deputy County Controller O'Connor.

The county will get a certificate of sale on the building, but cannot take actual custody for two years. During that period the building will continue to be administered by the Straus National bank, trustee for holders of a bond issue on the property which originally amounted to $1,200,000.

The bondholders or the owners of the original equity in the building may redeem the certificate of sale within two years. If they fail to do so, the county will be granted a master's deed, giving it title to the property. In that event the county will hold the property as trustee for all of the taxing bodies to which the building corporation owes taxes.

A similar sale was held of a plot of ground owned by the Illinois Central railroad at 149th and Halsted streets, Harvey. It was bid in by the county for $8,068, the amount of a judgment for delinquent taxes in 1897 and 1923.

FIND SCORCHED CAR OF DOCTOR LONG MISSING

Discovery of a scorched and blood stained automobile at Marion and Ontario streets in Oak Park yesterday led the Oak Park police to believe for a time that they had come upon a clew indicating the murder of a missing Evanston physician.

Residents of the neighborhood told Oak Park police they had seen men abandon the car about 2 a. m. and depart from the scene in another machine. The car bore no license plates and the scorches and blood stains within appeared old.

Searching beneath the cushions, the police found a pair of license plates issued early this year to Dr. Frank Lock, who formerly maintained offices at 1801 Dempster street, Evanston, and lived at the Evanston Y. M. C. A.

Evanston police learned that Dr. Lock sold his practice on March 16 to Dr. William Kroger of Evanston and had left the Y. M. C. A., announcing he was going to Reno, Nev. From the fact that he left so long ago, police became somewhat doubtful as to whether the auto clews had any connection with Dr. Lock's disappearance.

Investigation of the engine numbers on the abandoned car showed that prior to the time Dr. Lock acquired it the machine had been reported stolen from Morris Goldberg, 3121 North Damen avenue. The date of the reported theft was April 29, 1931.

VANDALS RUIN MEN'S CLOTHING WORTH $120,000

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Vandals destroyed $120,000 worth of men's clothing in the plant of Jack Siegel, 160 5th avenue, over the holiday week end, it was disclosed today when insurance adjusters went to the factory to estimate the damage. In a dozen raids on manufacturers over the last two months about $500,000 worth of clothing had been destroyed, it was disclosed, presumably because of the current strike of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union.

POUR ACID ON CLOTHES.

Four men entered the Best Dyers and Cleaners' shop, 407 East 75th street, yesterday and destroyed $500 worth of clothing by pouring acid on it. Eli Sharff, manager, told police that the shop was operated independently of any union or cleaners and dyers' association.

Prosecution Rests Case in "Third Degree" Retrial

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The prosecution rested today in the retrial of three Nassau county policemen charged with first degree manslaughter in connection with the death of Hyman Stark, robbery suspect, who died following a "third degree" session in Mineola police headquarters July 15. The first trial of the three men—Deputy Chief Frank Tappen and Detectives Harry Zanders and Lester Pearsall—ended in a jury disagreement.

NEWTON BAKER DENIES TALE OF SNUB BY HURLEY

Protests to Paper That Fired Reporter.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Patrick Jay Hurley, most emphatically, indignantly, nay, sulphurously, repels all accusations and insinuations that he had anything to do with the discharge of Reporter Drew Pearson of the Baltimore Sun, who had uttered writings displeasing to the cabinet member.

DREW PEARSON.

If there be government officials who intimidate Washington correspondents and their editors and publishers for the purpose of insuring the publication of none but laudatory mention of the administration, Mr. Hurley wishes it distinctly understood that he is not one of them.

He has exercised only the right of any man to resent slander and to denounce the publication of untruths, but, he insists, he never has taken advantage of his official position to procure punishment of their author.

"Wholly False," Hurley Says.

"Mr. Pearson's assertion that I threatened to get him discharged is wholly false," said the secretary. "Nor is there any truth in the remainder of his account of our interview. I never complained to his employers. I do not know any of them and have had no communication with them. I never suggested his discharge to anybody."

But if the Republican secretary of war did not lodge a complaint with the Democratic Sun, a Democratic former secretary of war did, and a few days thereafter Mr. Pearson was fired. If anybody brought about the discharge of Mr. Pearson, according to the Hurley theory of the incident, it was former Secretary Newton D. Baker.

Learns Author's Name.

"More Merry Go Round" was published about the middle of last month. Mr. Hurley learned that it contained a chapter entitled "The Cotillion Leader," in which his life and deeds were disparagingly treated. He resolved not to read it. He learned that its anonymous author was Mr. Pearson, who reported war department news for the Sun. He resolved to ignore that fact.

But on Aug. 26 the Sun printed a dispatch from Mr. Pearson to the effect that Mr. Baker had been snubbed when attempting to call on Mr. Hurley to pay his respects. Mr. Baker, who had not seen the story, was apprised of its publication. Mr. Hurley denies that he caused it to be brought to Mr. Baker's attention.

Baker Writes Sun.

At any rate, Mr. Baker addressed the following letter to the Sun:

"August 26, 1932.

"The Baltimore Sun,

"Baltimore, Maryland.

"Gentlemen: I am told that a news story appeared in the Sun of this morning to the effect that on the occasion of a visit by me to the war department on Tuesday of this week employés in the office of the secretary of war failed to recognize me and treated me with discourtesy. There is not a syllable of truth in the story. I visited the war department, saw Gen. MacArthur on business and, as I was leaving, stopped at the office of the secretary of war to pay my respects. I was immediately recognized and greeted with kindness and courtesy by the employés in the office of the secretary and happened to find the secretary of war himself in his outer office. He at once recognized me and, turning aside from the gentlemen with whom he was in conference, greeted me cordially and kindly.

"Secretary Hurley and I have been friends since 1916. I have admired his career as secretary of war and think the government fortunate to have his strong, vigorous and intelligent leadership in army matters. Toward me Secretary Hurley has been uniformly gracious and considerate, and my experience on Tuesday last was, as all my other experiences in the war department have been since I left it, attended with every circumstance of cordiality and good will.

"I would be glad to have this letter given as much publicity as the story it attempts to correct.

"Very truly yours,

[Signed] "NEWTON D. BAKER."

Sun Publishes Letter.

The Sun published the letter. At the same time Mr. Hurley summoned Mr. Pearson and denounced the story of the Baker snub as wholly untrue. Mr. Pearson explained that he had obtained the story from Capt. Abraham Robert Ginsburgh of the secretary's publicity staff, who is described in "More Merry Go Rounds," as the ghost writer of the Hurley speeches. In view of the source, Mr. Pearson had regarded the story authoritative.

Mr. Hurley says that in the presence of Mr. Pearson he telephoned Capt. Ginsburgh, who was out of town that day, and that the captain denied he had given the information to the reporter. Thereupon Mr. Hurley charged Mr. Pearson with faking the story.

According to the war secretary, he never brought up the matter of Mr. Pearson's authorship of the chapter in "More Merry Go Rounds." But Mr. Pearson, says Mr. Hurley, came to him voluntarily the next day with a copy of the book, saying that he wished to correct any injustice he might have done the secretary. Mr. Hurley says he then saw the book for the first time and read the chapter and pointed out to Mr. Pearson plenty of injustices.

Also Charges Ingratitude.

To all the other counts in the indictment of Mr. Pearson the secretary adds that of ingratitude. He has recounted how Mr. Pearson induced him to use his influence with President Hoover to obtain for Mr. Pearson's father the position of governor of the Virgin islands, which the father now holds. How Mr. Pearson could repay him for this service with "The Cotillion Leader" passes Mr. Hurley's understanding.

Mr. Hurley feels that he has had an unfortunate experience with one newspaper man, but it has not shaken his faith and confidence in the entire profession. He assured me that in the light of his experience 99 per cent of newspaper men are honorable and fair.

Hope for Peace

MANCHESTER, Eng., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A ray of hope appeared in the Lancashire textile situation today when employers expressed a willingness to arbitrate.

During a meeting lasting half an hour, the central committee of the manufacturers' association drafted its reply to the offer of Sir Henry Betterton, minister of labor, to sponsor a meeting with union leaders. The association said it would attend such a meeting, if invited.

The Leigh Manufacturing company reported a good response has been received from its notices that it would reopen if enough employés agreed to report.

BEAUTY SHOPS FORM INSTITUTE UNDER SQUIRES

An "Institute of Certified Beauticians," an organization of independent beauty shop owners, was formed last night at the Hotel Sherman. The meeting was conducted by Allen Bennett Forsberg, an associate of Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago economist and until recently virtual dictator of the Chicago cleaning and dyeing industry.

According to Mr. Forsberg, the beauty shop owners have retained Dr. Squires and his staff to plan a program for price stabilization in the industry, enforcement of laws, and the promulgation of better working and business conditions. Approximately 200 beauty shop owners have signed up for the organization, Mr. Forsberg declared. The goal is 1,800 members.

Members of the new institute will be given identification shields, which bear a typical vanity mirror as their symbol. Forsberg said several University of Chicago students had been employed to get members for the institute. The amount of membership dues was not divulged.

DUNNING INMATE DIES.

Gustave Rademske, 79 years old, an inmate of the Chicago State hospital, died in the institution yesterday. Other inmates said Rademske had been pushed to the floor by a fellow patient, but an autopsy indicated that heart disease caused death.

LICENSE TO WED REFUSED NORTH SHORE ELOPERS

Emily H. Watson, 19 years old, daughter of Dudley Crafts Watson, artist and lecturer, and George B. Lake Jr., son and namesake of a prominent physician, drove from their Highland Park homes yesterday to Racine, Wis., where they went to the county clerk's office and sought a marriage license.

They were refused because they did not have the health certificates demanded by Wisconsin law. They left saying that they would return next Monday.

Later Miss Watson was reached at her home and asked about her wedding plans. "There isn't going to be any wedding," she replied. "I talked to my parents and we decided I'd better go on to college."

If You See Cop with Bag He's Not a Snipe Hunter

Detectives Earl Flannery and Frank McKune were called into the office of Acting Captain John Benson of the Town Hall station last night. Each was given a potato sack. They were told not to return until one of them brought back he rooster which has been disturbing the slumbers of residents in the 1400 block of Berteau avenue, who complained to Commissioner of Police Allman.

PEDDLER KNOWS HIS DOLLARS, SO A COP IS IN BAD

$7,516 Found in George's Rags Isn't Enough.

Because a 73 year old peddler was able to recite exactly the denominations of the bills in a bank roll found in his possession when he was arrested, Patrolman John Fry of the Chicago avenue police was suspended yesterday pending investigation of a $1,000 shortage in the bank roll.

The peddler is George Karnavalos, 73 years old, 873 Milton avenue. He sells pies on the Oak street beach and Navy pier. Patrolman Fry arrested him Tuesday evening because he had no peddler's license. Karnavalos had, by actual count, twenty-one patches on his pants. His shoes, also a mass of patches, he had worn for sixteen years, he said.

Find $7,516 in His Rags.

But when policemen searched him at the station they found three rolls of bills, totaling $7,516, hidden away in his rags. The bills were mostly of the old style large size. Karnavalos was locked up for the night for safekeeping and yesterday morning Menelaos Chopis, Greek vice consul, was notified. Later Capt. Charles McGurn asked Karnavalos how much money he had had.

"I had eleven $500 bills. I had twenty-six $100 bills. I had six $50 bills. I had ten $10 bills, and three fives and a one," replied the old man in prompt but broken accents.

Captain Figures It Out.

Capt. McGurn figured that out. Then he counted the money before him and found two $500 bills less than Karnavalos had claimed. He asked who had arrested the peddler and was told it was Patrolman Fry. When the captain learned also that Fry had walked his prisoner into the station instead of summoning the patrol wagon, as required by regulations, he suspended the policeman.

Vice Consul Chopis took his countryman to the city hall and, over the protests of Karnavalos, who asserted that he was too poor to buy one, purchased him a peddler's license. Then they went and put the rest of the money in a bank. Next week, Mr. Chopis promised, old George is going back to Greece. He has a wife and five children there whom he has not seen since he came to America thirty-eight years ago.

EXPLAINS NEW PROCEDURE IN BIGAMY CASES

A new rule of procedure in bigamy cases, laid down by Gov. Emmerson, was explained yesterday to Municipal Judge Donald S. McKinlay when Walter P. O'Halloran, 1834 East 72d street, a radio engineer, was arraigned before him on a fugitive warrant obtained by authorities in Boston, Mass.

Sergt. Mark Morrison of the Boston police told Judge McKinlay that Gov. Emmerson had refused to issue extradition papers for O'Halloran, who was charged with abandoning his first wife and their two children.

The governor decided, Sergt. Morrison said, that O'Halloran owed a debt to his Chicago wife and their two children as well as to his Boston wife, and refused the extradition papers when O'Halloran agreed to support both families while his first wife is obtaining a divorce.

Woman Shot in Bank Holdup; Hunt Bandits in Two States

Police of Chicago and southern Wisconsin joined Lake county authorities last night in an effort to trap four nervous gunmen, who shot up the Lake County State bank of North Chicago in a holdup yesterday, leaving a woman bookkeeper near death and two men less seriously wounded. With their lookout at the wheel and $2,018 loot in their pockets, the quartet escaped in a dark blue sedan.

The woman victim, Mrs. Moneta Steffen, 25 years old, who lived above the bank at 1610 Sheridan road, was in the Victory Memorial hospital at Waukegan while 25 special deputies patrolled the country roads in search of clews. Attending surgeons said Mrs. Steffen was at the point of death.

Woman Victim Near Death.

"Shotgun slugs tore away part of her lower jaw," said Dr. A. E. Budde. Worse still, a pistol bullet lodged in the back of her neck, close to the vertebrae. To remove the bullet would mean immediate death. To leave it there may also be fatal. Her chances of recovery are very unfavorable."

It was Mrs. Steffen's bewilderment, apparently, which provoked the gunfire. The robbers stalked into the bank shortly after the noon hour, two gripping pistols and the other two brandishing shotguns.

One marched up to the teller's cage, his shotgun wabbling in his nervous hands. At his command for hands up, Mrs. Steffen leaned forward uncertainly.

Bandits Begin Firing.

"Don't try it, don't you dare touch those alarm buttons," the robber warned. Then all four began firing indiscriminately.

Mrs. Steffen retained her footing as the shotgun blast tore into her face, but fell when the pistol bullet pierced her neck. The robber ran behind the counter, searched beneath it for nonexistent alarm buttons, then jerked the woman to her feet.

Shotgun slugs ricocheted from the stone floor and marble counter, striking two others. The assistant cashier, Howard J. Davis, 1805 Greenfield avenue, North Chicago, was struck above the right eye. A customer, Otto Gast, 1639 Commonwealth avenue, North Chicago, was struck in the right cheek, one pellet penetrating his right eye.

Shouting threats and curses, the robbers herded the two men into a rear room, one dragging Mrs. Steffen along. The two with pistols scooped the teller's cages clean of cash and were ordering the president, William R. Dalziel, to open the vault, when one of the others became nervous.

Gunmen Take Flight.

"This is getting dangerous," he said, glancing at Mrs. Steffen's face. "Let's get out of here."

Within three minutes Sheriff Tiffany had a robbery bulletin and a description of the car broadcast on the police radio. A North Chicago police squad took up the pursuit, chasing the robbers north on Jackson street and west on Green Bay road, where they lost the trail.

First aid treatment sufficed for Davis and Gast. A physician removed the pellet from Gast's eye and advised him that with careful treatment his sight would be unimpaired.

Evanston Will Celebrate More New Lights Tonight

Two more units of Evanston's new lighting system wil be placed in operation tonight with a celebration which 25,000 persons are expected to attend in Fountain square of the suburb's downtown shopping district. The crowd will be entertained by clowns, troubadours, style shows, and a fifteen piece orchestra. Evanston department stores will hold open house. The program will begin in the afternoon with an entertainment for the children. Mayor Charles H. Bartlett and Ald. Albert J. Smith will address the evening assemblage.

NEW ECONOMIES NECESSARY, SAYS SENATOR WATSON

Further Taxes Possible, Hoosier Believes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Further economies were predicted as a necessity and further taxes were foreseen as a possibility today by Senator James E. Watson (Rep., Ind.), majority leader of the senate.

His statement was made while commerce, interior, and agriculture department officials conferred with Budget Director J. Clawson Roop and his assistants over the budget estimates for 1934. The budget hearings opened yesterday and will continue until the end of October.

Tax returns under the new revenue bill, designed to raise more than a billion additional dollars, have so far been disappointing. On Saturday, the last day for which figures were available, the deficit for the fiscal year 1933 totaled $401,864,657, or within approximately 3 millions of the deficit on the same date last year.

May Seek More Revenue.

Senator Watson believed that no general revision of the revenue act would be necessary at the next session but he expected to see several minor amendments made, looking to the raising of further revenue. At the same time, he declared, it must be the business of congress further to reduce expenditures and keep appropriations at a minimum.

Concerning the political outlook the Indiana senator brought word more welcome to Republican ears.

"Republican prospects are much improved in my state, although there is no denying that Ohio, Indiana and Illinois form a battle ground in this campaign," Senator Watson said.

The three reasons that Senator Watson gave for improved Republican prospects in Indiana and the country generally were the character of Governor Roosevelt's speeches, the acceptance speech of President Hoover, which he said had met with wide approval; and better economic and business conditions.

Points to European Voting.

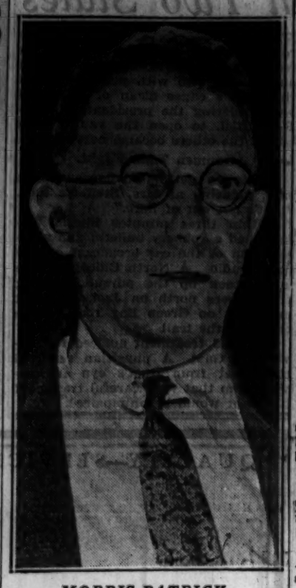
"The country, in fact the world, is conservative in times of stress," Senator Watson went on. "This has been demonstrated by elections in Germany and Great Britain. In spite of taxation, reduced incomes, unemployment, and the economic storm, those countries veered to conservative government when the people expressed themselves.

"The United States similarly is pinning its hope on a conservative government."

Similarly optimistic news was brought to President Hoover today by Edward C. Martin, Pennsylvania state chairman; James M. Hazlett, chairman of the Philadelphia Republican committee, and Paul Shoup, vice chairman of the Southern Pacific railroad.

The two Pennsylvanians predicted confidently that their state would once more be safely in the Republican column in November. Mr. Shoup was equally confident that the better general business tone would be continued. Recent gains in freight car loadings, he said, were an excellent sign.

SHOOTS HIS SON



MORRIS PATRICK.

John Patrick, 26 years old, was shot twice in the abdomen and critically wounded last night by his father, Morris Patrick, 46 years old, during a quarrel at their home, 1130 South Whipple street. The father, a custodian in the office of Municipal Court Bailiff Al Horan, was held by Lieut. Edward Cullopy of the Marquette police.

The father told the police he was reproving another son, Leonard, 18 years old, for keeping late hours, and John interfered, saying Leonard was old enough to take care of himself. In anger the father drew his revolver.

Finger prints of John, taken at the county hospital, revealed that he had a record as a burglar and that he was wanted as a suspect in the holdup of the Halsted Exchange National bank on Oct. 8, 1931.

GOV. ROOSEVELT CARRIES FIGHT INTO VERMONT

Urges Unity of Nation to Regain Prosperity.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rutland, Vt., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—This rock ribbed Republican Vermont hasn't been carried by a Democratic candidate since the civil war, but that fact failed to daunt Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today.

He came to Rutland and sowed some seeds of Democratic doctrines which he hopes will not fall on the famous but cold Vermont granite.

Talking at a luncheon of a hundred Democratic leaders, and later at the state fair grounds to a crowd of the neighbors of Calvin Coolidge, whose Plymouth home is only 22 miles from Rutland, Gov. Roosevelt told the Democrats that Vermont will be with all the other 47 states, in the Democratic column, next November. He told the fair visitors, in a nonpolitical vein, that the hour has come for the whole nation to pull in unity toward prosperity.

Cheers Vermont Leaders.

The optimism of Gov. Roosevelt had its effect on the local Democratic leaders, who have lapped many triples this last half century and more without ever tasting the sweet sap of political preferment.

Gov. Roosevelt, who has broken several precedents since his nomination, declared with a chuckle at today's luncheon that he was smashing still another old custom.

"I understand," said the governor, "that this is the first time within the memory of the oldest settler that a Democratic candidate for the presidency ever has come to Vermont during the campaign.

"Well, I'm here, glad to be here, and I hope to come back often. While we're breaking this precedent, let me assure you that we are going to break another precedent next November."

"I am not now conceding nor will I in the future ever concede the electoral vote of the state of Vermont to the Republicans. We're going after it."

Confident of New York.

The governor also expressed his certainty of carrying his home state of New York.

"There is unity in our state," he declared, "although some of the Republican newspapers would have you believe it is not so.

At the fair grounds the crowd in the race track grand stand hailed the candidate with cheers and applause. He spoke briefly, stressing the need for people in all sections of the land and all walks of life to surge harmoniously toward a common goal of better times.

"People in the cities cannot be prosperous unless the people in the country are prosperous," he declared. "The agricultural population of these states has been at low ebb, not for just two or three years, but for eleven or twelve, and we are now realizing that without the farmers' help in the purchase of the cities' manufactured products the cities are helpless.

"We must pursue one aim, regardless of party, for party has nothing to do with it, and that aim is to work toward national planning, toward a scheme of government which will aid all peoples."

Breaks Into Girls' School.

Gov. Roosevelt visited several other cities and towns of Vermont on his return drive to Albany, and in each of them delegations of citizens had gathered to greet him.

At Bennington Gov. Roosevelt accepted the suggestion of local leaders that he visit Bennington college, a school for girls.

Led by an escort of Vermont state troopers, the governor arrived at the outer gate of the school grounds and found it barred and padlocked.

The troopers fired several shots from their revolvers, shattering the lock, and the party rolled in to wave greetings to the girl students.

Former German Official Here Sentenced for Fraud

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Willi Strehlow, a former German consular secretary, was sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment today for embezzling funds while stationed in Chicago. Strehlow said he had been the victim of "a badger game" and that the "Chicago underworld" had terrified him into stealing the money. No sum was mentioned.

Wife in England Has U. S. Pick Up Belated Husband

Joseph Dimery, 109 East Oak street, a former major in the British army, was held at the detective bureau last night for immigration authorities on a charge of overstaying his entry. His wife in Leeds, England, had written to immigration officials stating her husband should have returned six weeks ago. Dimery is a dealer in antiques.

CZECHS PERMIT TROTZKY'S VISIT FOR HIS HEALTH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 7.—The way apparently was open today for Leon Trotzky to come to Czechoslovakia for his health and take that cure he has been seeking ever since Josef Stalin exiled him from Russia to the Isle of Prinkipo in the Sea of Marmara.

The Czech ministry of interior today received the former Red dictator's acceptance of Prague's terms. Trotzky agreed not to trouble the Czech republic. Among other things he pledged to refrain from communist propaganda of any kind and not talk to the Czech Reds while he is here. Only one thing stood in Trotzky's way tonight. The Prague government demands the formal assurances not only of Turkey that she will take Trotzky back but that the countries en route will permit him to pass.

According to information here, Turkey is now ready to permit him to return. Jugo-Slavia today decided that Trotzky's presence, even in transit, might be dangerous to the safety of the republic and barred him from crossing its frontiers. It is believed that Trotzky probably will take a plane via Rumania. He plans to spend two months in Czechoslovakia.

TWO PICKPOCKETS FINED.

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green yesterday imposed fines of $200 each on Eliot Wright, 4656 Indiana avenue, and Fred Harris, 4238 South Parkway, both Negroes, who, according to police, have long records as pickpockets.

Why are Deaths Increasing?

Each year sees number of automobile fatalities multiplying.
58,552 killed in 5 years ended in 1921.
98,551 killed in 5 years ended in 1926.
152,732 killed in 5 years ended in 1931.
WHY?

Caution

Today, for your safety, put your best tires in front. Time was when, for traction, your best tires went logically on your rear wheels. It's the blow-out in front that does the damage when you are really "traveling"—damage that's too often fatal.

The Greatest Gamble in the World —and human lives the stake

IN THE HARD DRIVE for more tire business "price" is on parade . . . $5.93, $4.93, $3.93 . . . second lines, third lines and even fourth lines boldly bid for the tire buyer's dollar.

Tires on today's bargain counters are unsafe at over 25 miles an hour. Yet these "built to a price" tires are expected to go up to 60 and better. Unlike most merchandise, tires directly affect human safety. When quality is taken out to meet lower prices, danger takes its place.

Shall we close our eyes to this vicious practice—or shall we face the facts?

The General Tire & Rubber Company sees no reason to lower quality. These are times to increase quality . . times to give the tire buyer the advantage of the lowest cost of raw materials in history.

In the face of a great barrage of bargain-price appeals and unwarranted claims for inferior tires, General adheres rigidly to absolute Top Quality.

General has proved that thinking motorists place a higher value on their lives than the small difference in price between Generals and ordinary tires.

17.6% Increase in Sales Shows Growing Demand for Top Quality

General is running full time. Sales for the first 6 months are 17.6% ahead of last year. Is there any other tire manufacturer with a record that even approaches this? We think not.

For a negligible difference in price you get the exclusive advantages of General's patented no-breaker-strip construction. That means full plies from bead to bead—blowout-proof—skid-safe protection, luxurious low-pressure comfort plus the economy of General's famous big mileage.

MAINE TO VOTE MONDAY; NATION AWAITS RESULTS

Balloting to Be Watched for U. S. Trend.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—After the liveliest campaign the Pine Tree state has witnessed in the last generation its voters will go to the polls on Monday and elect a governor and a state auditor, three members of the house of representatives and members of both branches of the state legislature. Like its 47 sister states Maine will cast its vote for presidential electors in November.

Since the last presidential election Maine has become slightly less of a factor in the electoral college. From having four congressional districts in 1928, the state in the recent congressional reapportionment was reduced to three and by virtue of this change will have only five presidential electors where four years ago it had six.

Interest at High Pitch.

But interest in the vote at Maine's early state election, viewed rightly or wrongly as affording a test of the trend of political sentiment throughout the country in a presidential year, has not diminished. In fact, all reports indicate that it is running higher this year than in any presidential year since 1916 when the world war was in progress and Woodrow Wilson and Charles Evans Hughes were the presidential candidates of the major parties.

The Republican state committee now is making its usual canvass of the vote through party workers. Chairman Daniel F. Fields, of the Republican state committee, conducting his fourth state campaign, predicts that the Republicans will elect their candidates for governor and state auditor by "substantial majorities," all their three candidates for congress and an ample majority in each branch of the legislature.

Democratic Leader Hopeful.

Chairman James A. Dooley of the Democratic state committee is credited even by his Republican opponents with having built up the first militant state organization the Democrats have had in Maine for a generation or more. Mr. Dooley, while supplying no figures of his own pronounced the higher Republican claims exorbitant.

"We are not conceding a thing to the Republicans," he said. "We have some Democratic counties, notably Androscoggin and Knox, which will furnish Democratic majorities to offset the Republican majorities in other counties. The outlook in the Second Congressional district certainly looks good to me and I believe we can elect our candidate for governor, too.

There are two things that are giving the Republican leaders in the state anxious hours during a campaign which has been fought by the Republicans mainly on national issues. One is the economic conditions which the country has been through during the last three years and which they fear may have started undercurrent dissatisfaction which will come to the surface on election day.

Dry Issue May Count.

The other is the pronunciamento of President Hoover in his speech of acceptance in favor of changing the 18th amendment which would involve a certain relaxation of the rigor with which the prohibition laws now are fraught. There had already been indications in the state of ardent drys who up to the time the acceptance speech was made had made common cause with the Republicans becoming restive and on the verge of breaking away from their party affiliation.

The Republican candidate for governor is Burleigh Martin, president of the state senate.

The Democrats nominated Louis J. Brann, a lawyer and for five terms mayor of Lewiston, one of Maine's industrial centers.

Texas Ratifies 'Lame Duck' Amendment; Is 17th State

Austin, Tex., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Texis legislature ratified formally today an amendment to the federal constitution which would eliminate the "lame duck" sessions of congress. It is the seventeenth state to ratify.

Sails Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Mayor Cermak of Chicago ended his European tour today and prepared to sail for home tomorrow morning.

He arose early today to watch the changing of the guard at St. James's palace, after which he laid a wreath on the cenotaph—the memorial to the British empire's war dead. At noon he was received by Sir Maurice Jenks, London's lord mayor. He was accompanied by H. Gordon Selfridge, former Chicagoan and London department store owner.

The mayor appeared tired. His European trip started as a vacation, but was converted into a crusade in behalf of Chicago and the 1933 Century of Progress exposition.

CONNECTICUT G. O. P. DEMANDS DRY LAW REPEAL

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Adopting a platform that called for repeal of the 18th amendment and for revision of the state enforcement act and which demanded no increase in state taxes, the Republican state convention today placed a full ticket in the field, including Hiram Bingham, whom it renominated for United States senator. Prof. Charles M. Bakewell of Yale university was named the party's nominee for the new congressman at large which has just been allotted Connecticut, and Jonathan H. Trumbull for governor, after a two years' rest, following nearly six years as governor.

A delegation of women representing dry organizations of the state protested against the views of Senator Bingham on 4 per cent beer, but the resolutions committee did not adopt their recommendations for milder treatment of the prohibition question.

Senator Bingham urged continued high tariff, adequate military protection, retrenchment of federal expenditures and opposition to government ownership. He said that he was "glad that President Hoover in his speech of acceptance has recognized the evils of prohibition and the necessity for a change."

SUICIDE VERDICT IN POISON DEATH.

TOM MIX PLEADS TO GET DAUGHTER FROM EX-WIFE

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Tom Mix, screen star, carrying on his contest for custody of his 10 year old daughter, Thomasina, testified in Superior court today his former wife, Victoria Olazabal of San Francisco, apparently was neglecting the child.

Letters from Thomasina to her father were read, one of them saying: "I want to come home. Won't you write mother a diplomatic letter and ask her if I can come?"

Mrs. Olazabal and her husband, Don Manuel de Olazabal, an Argentine diplomat, were in court to oppose Mix's move for a modification of the divorce decree. They were accompanied by Thomasina, who broke into tears when she heard the reading of this letter: "Dear dad—I want to come home. I am sick and tired of it. I am tired of being told to shut up and be quiet—and that by Don Manuel."

ALLMAN REPLIES TO CRITICISM OF TRAFFIC ARRESTS

Two Judges Kept Busy in Speeders' Court.

Commissioner of Police Allman replied yesterday to the criticisms directed by municipal court judges, officials of motorists' associations and others against the police traffic safety campaign. He said he had inaugurated the drive for the purpose of reducing the number of automobile fatalities, and that the campaign would be continued.

In the speeders' court at 11th and State streets 710 cases were called yesterday before Judge William E Helander and Judge Justin F. McCarthy, who heard cases in chambers to help his colleagu. With this cooperation the call was concluded by 2 p. m., which in many courts is the accepted hour for closing. The day previous Judge Helander had sat for nearly 10 hours to hear 1,055 cases, and out of his exhaustion came the comment that the police were not using good judgment in making arrests.

Allman Answers Criticism.

"The attaches of the municipal court went on vacation Saturday at noon and returned to work Tuesday morning," Commissioner Allman said. "The police worked Saturday afternoon, Sunday, and Labor day, so that of necessity there was a large number of cases for the traffic court on Tuesday morning. The court could have made some provision to handle the cases.

"I will have accurate figures shortly that will constitute a reply to the charge that the police are making many arrests for unimportant violations of the traffic code. The police are concentrating on the violations suggested by the National Safety council for strict observance, and the number of arrests for violations other than these have been comparatively few."

Judge McCarthy heard regular traffic cases in chambers while Judge Helander heard 480 cases involving failure on the part of the motorists to buy state license plates or city vehicle stickers. Of the number called, 405 showed receipts for recently purchased licenses and their cases were dismissed, and 75 obtained continuances in which to buy licenses.

Clerks Work Till 4 A. M.

The court opening was delayed an hour as four clerks, who had worked until 4 o'clock in the morning following Tuesday's rush, labored to prepare the day's call. Last night it was reported that more than 1,800 alleged traffic law violators had been arrested yesterday. The sleepy clerks were heard to complain that they receive no pay for overtime.

"Isn't that a shame," commented a policeman attached to Commissioner Allman's office. "I've worked on a number of cases without overtime pay and besides that I'm getting a 78 days' pay cut or 21 per cent while the political temporary employés in the Municipal court are being docked only 13 per cent."

Theodore Lipke of Cayuga, Ind., spent Tuesday night in a cell at the Marquette police station because the car he was driving was equipped with Indiana but not Illinois license plates. In court Mr. Lipke admitted that the car belonged to a friend, a resident of Chicago, who should have Illinois and Chicago licenses.

Will Investigate Complaint.

Cases of alleged abuses of police authority will be investigated by Commissioner Allman. One of these was the complaint of Andrew Scavidi, 1369 Girard street, who was locked in a Hudson avenue station cell. He said: "At midnight my brother came with a $50 bond to get me out, but the desk sergeant said he was going home then and couldn't bother with it. So I stayed in jail all night."

Flight Commander R. L. R. Atcherly of Great Britain, who amused thousands of Chicagoans at the national air races here two years ago, yesterday accepted an invitation of Maj. R. W. Schroeder to appear in the American Legion air meet at Sky Harbor airport next Sunday. Commander Atcherly will do his famous "crazy flying" exhibition in a Curtiss Fledgling [Wright motor].

It was "Miss Wander," the small red Cessna racer [Warner motor] flown by Roy Liggett of Wichita. Kas. Liggett's plane was one of the speediest at the Cleveland races.

William Ong of Kansas City has entered one of the small racers built by Benny Howard, Chicago mail pilot, in the Legion races. He will fly the racer to Sky Harbor from Cleveland. Howard's racing planes are Menasco powered. E. M. [Matty] Laird of Chicago, plane designer, has entered his Ranger powered plane in the speed event. John Livingston of Aurora, a consistent winner, has entered his yellow monocoupe [Warner motor].

New Type Stinson.

Jack Kelly Jr. of Detroit has entered a new type Stinson monoplane, with retractable landing gear, in the speed contest. It is powered by a Lycoming motor and will be one of the few stock model planes competing. Capt. Al Williams, famous stunt pilot, has been invited to enter his Curtiss Hawk pursuit plane [Bliss Jupiter motor] in the speed races. He plans to demonstrate two way radiophone while stunting his plane.

This morning a preview of the speed and stunting events at the Legion meet will be given to inmates of the Edward Hines Jr. Veterans hospital in Maywood, and at noon the same program will be staged for 6,000 employes of the Western Electric company's Hawthorne plant in Cicero.

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

LAND BANK SITES REVEAL NEW TYPE OF LOBBYING

R. F. C. Quarters Mecca for Summer Visitors.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today announced the selection of Raleigh, N. C., and Jackson, Miss., as sites for agricultural credit corporations to serve the third and fifth federal land bank districts, respectively. Macon, Ga., was named as the site of a branch office for the Third district, while Montgomery, Ala., was chosen as a branch office for the Fifth district.

It was a routine announcement, but the story behind it gave rise to strong belief that the corporation had grown weary of refusing to confirm or deny the "official" announcements of unofficial spokesmen.

The story likewise served to focus attention on a shift in the lobbying scene, from its winter quarters on Capitol Hill to a new summer environment at the headquarters of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the new home loan bank board. It revealed also how members of congress, the supposed victims of winter time lobbying, have gone in for persuasive activities this summer in a big way themselves.

Differing Statements.

The story behind today's announcement grew out of a statement last week by Representative Edward L. Pou [Dem., N. C.], that the board of directors of the corporation had "officially" chosen his favored town of Raleigh as the site of the Agricultural Credit corporation for the states of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Mr. Pou's statement had scarcely been uttered when Representative Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.] announced, likewise "officially," that Macon, Ga., was the lucky town. Anxious inquiries at the corporation as to just what was what, brought the statement that the city for that district had not been selected.

Hardly had the corporation's phones stopped buzzing with these queries than Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] started them up again with an "official" announcement that he had succeeded in his efforts to have the board name Jackson, Miss., as the headquarters of the Agricultural Credit corporation for the states of Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana.

Rep. Pou Finishes Second.

Again the board was deluged with inquiries as to the authenticity of Senator Harrison's announcement and again the board, with evidences of increasing annoyance, declared it would neither confirm nor deny.

Today's announcement was a victory for Representative Pou and Senator Harrison. Representative Crisp had to be satisfied with second money.

Spokesmen Pou, Crisp and Harrison have not been the only winter time politicians-summer time lobbyists to visit the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.], lately Democratic keynoter, spent some time there recently in connection with a loan for a dock in his home city of Paducah. Senator John S. Cohen [Dem., Ga.] brought a large delegation of fellow Georgians to the corporation today to begin negotiations for a 10 million dollar loan for a sewer project in Atlanta and a $1,000,000 loan for relief of destitution in Atlanta and the surrounding county of Fulton.

Next to the Reconstruction Finance corporation as a mecca for the new order of lobbyists, is the federal home loan bank. Chairman Franklin W. Fort, speaking of the recent banking and industrial conference called by President Hoover, made an allusion to the flood of applications which followed the board's announcement that it would locate a nice new federal home loan bank in eight cities throughout the country. And most of these applications were backed up by the recommendations of congressmen and senators, "striving to please."

Only today, Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] called upon Chairman Fort personally with the avowed purpose of "conferring" with him in connection with the selection of directors for the home loan bank in Indianapolis.

DEMOCRATS PLAN A HUGE CAMPAIGN PICNIC ON SEPT. 18

Mayor Cermak Will Be Main Speaker.

The Democrats of Cook county, it was announced yesterday, will begin their organization activities for the campaign on Sunday, Sept. 18, with a picnic for ward and country town organizations in Riverview park. More than 125,000 persons attended a similar gathering two years ago.

The meeting will not mark the formal opening of the campaign, for Judge Henry Horner, candidate for governor, and the other state candidates will be on speaking tours. Judge Horner will start his downstate campaign tour Monday night at Rockford. Congressman William H. Dieterich, candidate for United States senator, begins tomorrow afternoon with a speech at the Perry county fair at Duquoin. Thomas F. Donovan, the candidate for lieutenant governor, also starts tomorrow, appearing at Melvin.

Cermak to Attend.

Mayor Cermak, who will return from his European trip before the picnic is held, and Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, will be the star attractions at the gathering. It is expected that the picnic will give the public an opportunity to see and hear the mayor for the first time since his recent illness. He is reported in the best of health and ready for an active campaign.

Officials of railroad employes' unions, representing a membership of 300,000, have started a campaign drive for Judge Horner, operating through the Horner for Governor Men's club. It was announced at the Democratic headquarters yesterday. E. O. Dugan, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, is president of the rail men's club.

Horner Speaks Today.

Judge Horner will speak today before a meeting of welfare workers in St. Charles. Len Small, the Republican candidate for governor, also will speak from the same platform.

Some 2,000 members of the Hamilton club are expected to attend "open house," a homecoming affair, today, launching the Republican campaign in Chicago. J. W. Maloney, chairman of the political action committee of the club, and Henry J. Allen and C. W. Ramseyer of the Republican national committee headquarters will be speakers at a luncheon. Mrs. Donald I. Graham, chairman of the women's auxiliary membership committee, will preside at a tea for the women.

SENTENCED FOR SHOE THEFT.

George Darling, 32 years old, 417 North Clark street, was sentenced to 60 days in the bridewell yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden for the theft of five pairs of shoes from a Negro delivery boy.

MELLON, BACK IN BRITAIN, DENIES WAR DEBT TALKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon returned from his vacation visit in America today. He immediately denied he had talked with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, while he was in America concerning war debts or the coming world economic conference. He said he had not met Norman in the United States.

Mr. Mellon insisted his stay in the United States was only for a respite from his ambassadorial duties in London and had no significance in connection with world finances.

IDENTIFY ASYLUM FUGITIVE.

Charles Wayne Metcalf, 23 years old, who was arrested a week ago when he tried to break into a gasoline filling station at 1901 West 69th street, was identified yesterday as an escaped inmate of the state hospital for the insane at Jacksonville. He was returned there.

SPAIN TO SHARE JESUIT RICHES WITH HER NEEDY

30 Million in Confiscated Properties Affected.

MADRID, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The national assembly tonight approved a law providing for the distribution for social welfare of about $30,000,000 worth of confiscated Jesuit properties.

It was stipulated that in case Jesuits did not appear in a legal writ as the owners of alleged Jesuit properties such holdings would also be confiscated and the listed owner receive 5 per cent of the former annual income.

This disposal of Jesuit properties followed within seven months a governmental decree dissolving the order in Spain, its birthplace 400 years ago. Confiscation was ordered, and today's law provided for disposal.

4,000 Jesuits Affected.

The January decree called for disbanding of Jesuit chapters within 10 days. The new constitution had provided in its religious article that Jesuits could not live community lives in convents, and some 4,000 were affected.

Many Jesuits left for France, although it has been reported that many others remained in Spain disguised in civilian clothes and distributed in private homes.

When the confiscation order went into effect the bishops were intrusted with the churches of the order. At that time it was also estimated that the Jesuit holdings in Spain amounted to $100,000,000, but they were in the main securities, mostly in the hands of private individuals or companies, and hence beyond confiscation.

Shrines and Colleges.

The most valuable buildings now consigned to social welfare are the Madrid Art institute, the Madrid Industrial institute, the Beusto Commercial and Literary university at Bilbao, the Jesuit shrine at Loyola, and Barcelona college.

The Jesuits were founded by Capt. Ignacio Loyola in the village of Azpetia in the Basque country. After an adventurous early life, Loyola, the son of a wealthy family, devoted himself to the foundation of the order and became St. Ignatius.

The settlement or center of the Jesuit organization, now known as Loyola, is built around the founder's castle-like home, which is still carefully preserved. This center, to which devout Jesuits from many countries heretofore have made their annual pilgramage, was one of the order's most cherished possessions.

FIND ANOTHER MRS. BERN IN MOVIE TRAGEDY

Jean Harlow Knew of Her, Says Brother.

to make public any information he had obtained.

While Nance was making preparations for his official inquiry, in an out of the way undertaking room in the little suburb of Sawtelle, near Santa Monica, others who had been drawn into the Bern death inquiry minimized some of the details which provoked public interest.

Police searched in desultory manner for a so-called second suicide note which, according to early statements, had been left by Bern and which never became public.

Several police officials said they had found no actual indication that a second note had really been seen by any one and were not bothering much to search for it.

Attorney Mendel Silberberg, representing Miss Harlow, paid a visit to Coroner Nance's office this morning and urged that the official inquest be abandoned. The attorney argued that the law was satisfied and that an investigation could legally be closed when investigating officials reached a determination that a violent death was a case of suicide and not homicide.

Coroner Nance said he had not been officially satisfied and declined to countermand his orders for an inquest.

Witnesses Called by Coroner.

Those subpoenaed by the coroner for the inquest, in addition to the 24 year old widow, are Clifton Davis, Negro gardener at Bern's home, whose early statements are a basis for the reported existence of the second suicide letter; Marino Bello, Miss Harlow's stepfather; Irving Thalberg, producer at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, who was first notified of Bern's death and spent two hours in the Bern home before police were notified; E. Greenwood, motion picture studio manager, who joined Thalberg in the Bern home prior to officers' arrival; John Carmichael, the servant who discovered Bern's body and telephoned Thalberg; "Slickum" Garrison, Bern's chauffeur, who discovered the absence of one of Bern's two guns from the dead man's auto last Saturday, and Blanche Williams, Miss Harlow's colored maid.

Attorney Silberberg said the family had been informed that Bern kept documents and valuables in a safety deposit box in Hollywood, but that no attempt had been made to reach the box. Bern is supposed to have carried $75,000 in life insurance policies and to have possessed wealth at one time estimated at about $400,000.

As far as is known to R. D. Knickerbocker, his attorney, Bern left no will. If no will is found his wife will receive half of the estate and the other half will go to relatives.

It was intimated by friends today that the film executive's estate will not be large. While his salary was great, he spent a great deal on charities and was reported to have lost heavily in the stock market in 1929.

Doctor Sure Bern a Suicide.

[Copyright, 1932, By The Chicago Tribune.]

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 7.—Dr. Edward Jones declined to reveal the substance of his conversation by radiophone today with Louis Mayer in Los Angeles, but expressed the opinion here that Frank Bern's death undoubtedly was suicide.

"I talked with Mayer for 20 minutes this morning in my capacity as studio as well as personal physician to Bern. I do not feel free under professional ethics to reveal our conversation, but probably Mayer will release it in Los Angeles. There isn't any doubt, however, that Bern committed suicide. I am all broken up about it, for he was one of the finest fellows I ever knew and there was not any reason for him to do it."

JEAN HARLOW 24 YEARS OLD.

Records of the Lake county clerk in Waukegan show that Jean Harlow is 24 years old, although her age is given as 21 in the moving picture colony. She was married in Waukegan to Charles F. McGrew on Sept. 21, 1927. The marriage license shows that she was born March 30, 1908.

Divorce Is Off

MRS. RUDY VALLEE.
[Acme Photo.]

Reno, Nev., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Styling herself "just a little fool" to have thought of a divorce from Rudy Vallee, Fay Webb, actress, announced here today that a midnight telephone conversation had effectively patched up all the differences between her and the crooner. She has dropped her divorce plans.

"Rudy," she said, "never wanted one, although he was just a perfect dear and told me that if I thought divorce was best, that was what I should get. But I was wrong, and we love each other more than ever now. We both admitted that last night."

When Mrs. Vallee arrived here yesterday, she stated that she had come to establish residence prior to suing for divorce, and that a reconciliation with her crooning mate was "impossible." Hyman Bushel, attorney for Vallee, accompanied her.

Mrs. Vallee and her father left Reno by train for San Francisco later in the day. After a brief stay in southern California, she will go east to rejoin her husband, who is now appearing in Atlantic City, N. J.

OFFICERS' HUNT FOR PRIEST AND TEACHER FAILS

Ottawa, Ill., Sept. 8.—[Special.]—Relatives of Colette Haley, 21, missing Streator teacher, who is believed to have been kidnaped from her school eight miles west of Streator yesterday, today were aiding Sheriff B. J. Welter in his search for the girl and for Father William Courtney, 40, Catholic priest of Alexis, for whom Welter holds a kidnaping warrant. Miss Haley's brother, James F. Haley of Streator, signed the complaint on which the warrant for the priest's arrest was issued.

School children who saw their teacher leave in an auto, after she had answered a knock at the school door yesterday, informed Sheriff Welter today that another woman was in the car as it drove away. They could not see who knocked at the door.

Sheriff Welter learned today that Father Courtney went to an Ottawa garage yesterday and borrowed a sedan. The owner says the priest told him he had to go to Alexis to conduct a funeral service.

Miss Haley disappeared from her home Aug. 25, and was missing ten days. Members of her family say that when she returned she told them she had been taken to Chicago by the Rev. Mr. Courtney and threatened by him. They told the sheriff today that she had informed them she was afraid to go to school yesterday.

Nicaragua Names Envoy for European Money Mission

HAITI GRANTED OWN ARMY IN NEW U. S. TREATY

Pact Is Submitted to Island's House.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A new treaty between the United States and Haiti providing for Haitianization of the Garde d'Haiti, among other things, was submitted today by the Haitian government to its parliament for ratification.

The document was worked out between the American minister, Dr. Dana G. Munro, and the Haitian minister of foreign affairs, Albert Blanchet, and was hailed as representing all the concessions to Haiti recommended by the Hoover commission headed by W. Cameron Forbes two years ago.

Financial Agent Provided.

The fiscal provisions included appointment of a financial representative to be nominated by the President of the United States. His duties would be to supervise and administer customs, make provisions for the bonded debt service, and assist the government to maintain a balanced budget. This representative also would supervise the internal revenue. These things are hypothecated to the debt service under the existing bond contract.

The Haitianization of the Garde d'Haiti would be completed under the agreement by December, 1934, and upon Haitianization the United States would maintain a military commission of five officers for the guard.

Withdrawal of the marine brigade and the scientific mission now in the republic would commence as soon as practicable, but not later than January, 1935.

TREATY SIGNED IN 1916.

A treaty between the United States and Haiti went into effect in 1916 and under it the United States agreed to assist in the establishment of a stable government. That treaty was to have expired in 1936.

It provided for American advisers for the constabulary, finances, public health, public works and agricultural training. The last three named were turned over to Haiti in 1931.

MUSIC FESTIVAL RECORDS TO GO ON SALE TODAY

Proceeds to Supply Free Ice to Needy.

The Chicagoland Music Festival records will go on sale today. The proceeds of the sale will go to THE TRIBUNE free ice fund. The first consignment of records has come from the manufacturer and will be available to the public at THE TRIBUNE public service office, 1 South Dearborn street, the lobby of the Tribune Tower, and at Lyon & Healy, 243 South Wabash avenue.

A demonstration machine will be set up this morning in the public service office. There will be eight sets of earphones. By the use of these, visitors will hear again the singing of "America" by a massed chorus of 125,000 persons in Soldiers' field on the evening of Aug. 20, the "Hallelujah Chorus," led by Noble Cain, "Old Man River," sung by Robert Burdette, and nine other Music Festival numbers. These are all listed in the accompanying coupon.

To Be Played Over W-G-N.

At 11:15 a. m. Friday the set of four double faced records will be broadcast over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE station, so that thousands who attended the festival may hear the numbers again. Those who wish to order any of the records may order from the Festival Record department, Tribune Tower, by marking those desired on the record coupon.

The Free Ice fund will use the proceeds to supply ice to needy homes until cold weather.

New Gifts to Fund.

Individual gifts arriving yesterday for the fund included $7.51, the earnings from the lemonade stand at Surf street and Pine Grove avenue, managed by Robert and Peter Bernays, Phoebe Betts, June May, and Charles and Marjorie Ann Gratz. Mrs. Joseph Halle Schaffer sent $5, and $1 came from "Want Ad Jingles," making a total of $3,226.21 now in the ice fund.

The Camp Algonquin fund, which sends tenement mothers and children to the camp on the Fox river for two weeks' vacation, received $10 from J. L. C., making a total of $5,058.30 in the fund.

St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty Hearings Postponed

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Hearings on the St. Lawrence waterway treaty by a senate foreign relations subcommittee will not take place until after the November elections, it was announced today at the office of Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.], subcommittee member. Senator Glenn's office stated that Senator William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho], foreign relations chairman, had sent word of the postponement. The hearings originally were scheduled to begin in September. Senator Borah gave as the reason for the delay, it was announced, the impossibility of getting the subcommittee members together because of their campaign activities.

HARRISON PARKER NAMED IN NEW FRAUD WARRANT

Harrison M. Parker, former president of the North American Trust company, who is under sentence of one to ten years for embezzlement, was named yesterday in a new warrant charging him with embezzlement of $249,710 in cash and securities of the trust company. Parker was found guilty by Judge James J. Kelly on Aug. 27 on a charge of appropriating $100,000 of the trust company funds. He is at liberty on bond pending an appeal.

The new warrant was issued by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court on complaint of John Jacob Arnold, present head of the North American Trust company, now located at 127 North Dearborn street. Three other warrants were issued in which Parker and two former directors of the company, A. D. Foyer and Emil F. Engelbeck, are charged with conspiracy to obtain the $249,710. Judge Padden set Parker's bond at $60,000 and fixed bond for the others at $45,000 each.

NEW YORK BOARD RULES MAYOR'S OFFICE "VACANT"

Orders Election for Nov. 8 —McKee Cutting Costs.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The board of elections ruled today that the office of the mayor of New York City is "vacant" and ordered an election on Nov. 8 to choose a successor to the wisecracking "Jimmy" Walker, lately resigned.

All hands concerned were ordered to proceed forthwith to "make all necessary preparations" for the event.

The ex-mayor, who quit to avoid being "lynched," as he put it, as a result of disclosure growing out of the so-called Seabury graft investigation, is awaiting the people's call to try for a "vindication comeback" at the polls, despite the tide of sentiment supposed to be rising against him in high political circles. Various other "possibilities" of varied political leanings are getting their lightning rods up.

McKee Pursues Economy.

Meanwhile, Mayor Joseph V. McKee—who agrees for purposes of the record that he is only an "acting" mayor despite the charter provisions making him the bona fide occupant—is assiduously looking to his future with a series of reforms headed by an "economy program" which he launched so dramatically yesterday by lopping $15,000 off his own salary and enough off the pay of other high salaried officials to save the taxpayers a cool $2,000,000 a year.

McKee said today that he had made "only a start" on his economy program. He indicated an intention to continue on down through the entire civil list, cutting salaries from the top down.

"But not from the little fellows," he reiterated. "I won't cut a salary below $2,000."

Lectures on Cost Cutting.

"Economy is the spirit of the times," the new mayor sermonized in discoursing on his reform movement. "I don't expect anything but coöperation from the employés enjoying salaries fixed by law. We are facing a great major financial crisis and the city employés realize it. They'll all help."

Meanwhile backing up their confidence in the new administration in a practical way, bankers today made a loan of $17,000,000 to the city of New York on the most attractive terms the city has been able to command in many months.

Coincidental with the hasty preparations to handle this financing, the market for New York bonds advanced sharply, adding materially to the ground which they began to gain immediately after Mayor Walker handed in his resignation.

About the time the bankers were putting their O. K. to his economy move the new mayor—who incidentally rides to and from work in the subway—announced that he wouldn't have any use for the $18,000 limousine in which his predecessor sported about the town. At the same time he ordered the mayor's two chauffeurs and a bodyguard sent back to their departments for reassignment to other jobs.

The car, which the city bought and paid for, was, by Mayor McKee's order, turned over to the department of plant and structures. Just what use that department may have for it wasn't immediately apparent.

Mayor McKee, in announcing that he would not use the limousine bought for Mr. Walker, also said he intended to make a thorough investigation of the cost of upkeep and the uses to which all city owned cars are put.

There's going to be a sharp curtailment in the business of "public receptions" to visiting celebrities, too, the mayor indicated.

We started to buy...

then our own sales went up 26%

An experience of interest to all businesses, large or small, that want to help speed up recovery.

By JAMES H. RAND, JR., President
Remington Rand Inc.

WHEN we announced on August 25th that we had decided to buy immediately $4,500,000 worth of materials for the balance of 1932, our desks were flooded with congratulatory messages, including one from Secretary of Commerce Chapin.

We appreciate these expressions. At the same time we are pleasantly surprised to note that our own sales are now running 26% ahead of a month ago.

We don't know just what caused these increased sales. But we do know what a lift and what an optimism they have given our own organization. And we know that right today Remington Rand salesmen are spreading that feeling to many thousands of other business men, in every line of industry. Think what an endless chain such a movement can become.

In commodities alone, if all American industries were to place orders for four months ahead, upwards of 5 billion dollars worth of goods would immediately be scheduled for production.

And why shouldn't every industry buy commodities now? The necessary facilities are ready. In commenting on Remington Rand's action, the Wall Street Journal said editorially; "This is precisely the kind of thing for which the regional committees may wisely encourage manufacturers to borrow and banks to lend."

Moreover, the chart below by Colonel Ayres of the Cleveland Trust Company, shows that many commodities are now at the lowest point in 100 years.

More than that, the N. Y. Times Annalist shows that following the extreme drop of 1930-1931, commodity prices have gone up substantially since June.

We believe these facts alone will continue to encourage buying in almost every line. But there is one more selfish reason which goes beyond actual facts, and yet is as real as your own firm's good-will: When you buy now you kindle a spark that runs all through the organization . . . a dynamic spark that says, "come on now, lets go." And then sales come in.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

DOWN GO THE TAXES.

Three counties in the metropolitan area have recently taken steps to force a tax reduction. Lake county's board of review has ordered a 15 per cent saving; Will county is to have a 10 per cent reduction, and Kane county 25 per cent. The tax spenders are complaining, but these boards of review see the handwriting on the wall.

The tax collections and the state of mind of the taxpayers have combined to force these reductions. In Lake county, for example, the total tax bill this year was 6 million dollars, but only four and a half million has been collected. It is apparent that the point of diminishing returns has been reached and passed. The higher the rates, the less the governments can get to spend. The only way to increase the incomes of governments now is to reduce the rates to the point where more people can pay.

The temper of the taxpayers is rising. They know that their own expenditures as individuals have been reduced to fit their incomes, and they can see no reason why the governments should be unable to slash their expenditures also. Officeholders managed to defy the taxpayers during the first months of the depression, but know that to do so now will be fatal.

It is interesting to observe that the national congress has not yet felt the force of public opinion to anything like the same degree. The local governments are closer to the grass roots. The citizen who demands a cut in his local taxes, even though it involves a reduction in the standard of the schools to which he sends his children, is in deadly earnest. Congressmen will learn about that, too.

THE BLUNDERING HERD.

There were and are thousands of grass fed steers on the western ranges. There was and is a huge amount of corn on Illinois farms intended to be used in fattening range cattle for the market. The railroads have facilities more than ample for moving the western cattle to the feeding lots of the corn belt, but until recently the normal flow of feeders to the east has been interrupted for lack of credit.

A number of stockyards officials, sensing the situation, provided some of the needed credit. Every one involved in these transactions is benefited. The ranchers will get a better price for their animals. The corn belt farmers will get a better price for their corn. The railroads will increase their revenue and the packers will get the kind of beef animal that their market demands. In short, business judgment operating on a business problem has proved of widespread value. Once more the economic axiom that a transaction generally benefits both buyer and seller has been proved correct and once more the economic fallacy that in a trade one party is always the loser has been refuted.

But now that business judgment has shown the way, a cry is being raised to have the government take the movement in hand. It seems incredible, but it happens to be true. A government which has done all it can through the farm board to bring ruin to agriculture can be expected to ruin ranchers and corn growers alike if it ever gets its hands on this project. A government which has been in the business of lending money to stock raisers for years and lacked the wit to meet this obvious need is going to fail again, with disastrous results for farmers and taxpayers alike, if its accomplished blunderers are placed in command. If, with all its pay rollers, statisticians, stockyards regulators, and phony cooperatives of cattle men, it never did the farmers anything but injury what possible reason can there be to suppose that it now will do anything but injury?

Private enterprise has seen a need and met it. The government will perform its maximum service to all concerned and particularly to the farmers if it keeps its clumsy hands out of the business.

FALLACIES OF THE DIRECT PRIMARY.

We reprint in part today a vigorous attack upon the direct primary in which Editor Chandler of the Los Angeles Times develops the opinion that "not only has it failed to remedy the ills at which it was directed; it has given rise to a horde of new abuses."

"If it be true," says the Times, "that the old conventions became an instrument for thwarting the will of the people, the direct primary has proven doubly so. Surely the time has come to profit from our mistakes and our experience; a change for the better not only is desirable; it has become imperative if our elective machinery is to be fashioned and geared to the needs of the day." The direct primary, the Times asserts, is to a greater degree responsible for the deterioration of the standards of public service than any other factor in our local and national politics.

We agree with this in the main, but with emphasis upon the part played by the multiplicity of elective offices in the breakdown of the direct primary experiment. It is true that, as the Times points out, the direct primary puts a premium upon personal and political hypocrisy and threatens the free use of candor and courage in public affairs, but the abolition of the direct primary will not abolish, though it should diminish, this evil which arises from weaknesses in human nature and which no change of political machinery can repeal. But by presenting to the voters directly in primaries and even in elections a list of candidates for a great number of public offices, from dog catcher to President, we make intelligent voting impossible and insure to the demagogue and the unscrupulous boss more irresponsible power than they ever possessed under the system of representation and party control expressed by the convention. This Mr. Chandler illustrates in pointing out that "in Los Angeles county alone, this month, more than one million voters face the task of choosing from 456 candidates the best available nominees for United States senator, for eight members of the house of representatives, for thirty members of the state assembly, for twenty-two places on the Supreme court, for district attorney, and for four members of the board of supervisors."

In such a process political organization has maximum power with minimum responsibility. Far from being a move in the direction of popular self-government, the direct primary and the multiplication of elective offices make popular self-government virtually impossible. Far from breaking the power of the boss, they increase his power and relieve him from a large part of responsibility for its abuse.

We agree with Mr. Chandler that the results of this false democratization of our political machinery are little short of disastrous and if continued will be wholly so. There is no need more urgent in our political evolution than the correction of these electoral methods. It is not, as he notes, necessary merely to revert to the former system and its special evils, but it is certainly our duty to ourselves to evolve methods which avoid the greater evils of the direct primary and restore the benefits of representative government.

PLEDGED CONGRESSMEN.

Missouri has 13 seats in the house of representatives. There are 13 Democratic candidates for these places. Each has pledged himself to vote for modification of the Volstead act and for submission of repeal of the 18th amendment. It is interesting to note, by the way, that five of these candidates had the indorsement of the Anti-Saloon league in the primary which nominated them, but we would specially emphasize the fact that individual pledges are the only way to insure practical results in present political conditions.

There is no clear central issue between the Republican and Democratic parties in this campaign. The difference on liquor control is nothing to sit up nights about. Both party declarations favor reduction in public expenditure. If there is to be assurance of prompt and adequate results for relief from destructive taxation and the conditions produced by the régime of prohibition it must come from congress and it must come from the election to congress of enough senators and representatives who can be relied upon to enact the necessary legislation and to take the necessary course respecting prohibition and retrenchment.

What is wanted is not oratory but action. The recent session demonstrated the weakness of party discipline in both parties. It demonstrated that party leadership and party mandates were not to be relied upon. The voters must send representatives to the federal legislature who are definitely pledged to definite action upon retrenchment and upon prohibition. The reëlection of Mr. Hoover or the election of Mr. Roosevelt will not insure relief. The election of a Republican or a Democratic congress will not insure it. A President cannot compel it. A party organization cannot compel it. The only thing that can be relied upon is enough pledged votes in congress. This is the main task of the citizens of the United States at this election.

Editorial of the Day

THE DIRECT PRIMARY MENACE.

[Los Angeles Times.]

Those who succeeded in fastening the direct primary upon our political system proclaimed that it would wrest from the politicians and repose in the people the full right and privilege of selecting the most desirable citizens for public office. The processes—sometimes defiled and not infrequently subverted—by which party conventions were brought into being and made to function were assailed as vicious obstacles to liberty and the popular will.

Even the defenders of the convention system recognized the justice of many of the charges made by honest critics, and so, with more enthusiasm than reflection, with more emotion than reason, a change was demanded and effected. The remedy has proven more deadly than the disease. There can be no question that drastic and far reaching reforms in the manner of calling and holding conventions were needed when the direct primary was accepted as a political panacea.

But instead of eliminating the unworthy and dangerous influences in our elections, instead of barring the incompetent, the irresponsible, the corrupt or the venal and controlled individual from seeking and obtaining public preferment, the direct primary has become an effective means for defying the wishes and the interests of the majority. It is the ideal weapon and the strong safeguard of any well organized, intelligent minority.

The direct primary not only presents endless opportunity for confusing and misleading the electorate, it actually encourages mediocre men and women to enter political contests with every hope that success will meet appeals to passion and prejudice, that popularity will follow successful attempts to engender class antagonisms, and that by dodging honest treatment of controversial issues and resorting to base intrigues and cheap and cowardly subterfuges, the mass of voters may be led astray.

This process cannot much longer be endured. A way must be found whereby the people can be assured of safer, surer means of managing their governmental affairs. The problem is for the whole people, for all parties, to attack and solve.

This is not a time for the sincere backers of the direct primary stubbornly and blindly to defend their creation from just censure. Neither does the occasion warrant any sudden and half-considered decision to bring back, unrevised and unchanged, the abandoned system of conventions.

The fundamental requirement is true representation of the people and for the people. A sure means to this end can be found if the thoughtful, patriotic, intelligent element of our citizenship—regardless of section, party, race or creed—will meet the problem with devotion and determination.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Ed.

TROUBLE COMES TO ONE AND ALL.

Washington correspondents seem to lead a sad life. The news from the capital of this great nation has gravitated down to these two simple items on alternate days: "Hoover Seeks Rest in the Rapidan" and "Hoover Returns to Desk from Rapidan." Of course, it doesn't take much time to dash those items off to the breathless public, and then some of the correspondents, having nothing less to do, write a book, always the relief of idle minds. But if they get jocular about the doings of some of the great statesmen in Washington, then the great statesmen get their jobs, great statesmen having no sense of humor. If they had a sense of humor they wouldn't be great statesmen, the voters having a terrible mistrust of great statesmen who have a sense of humor. Or, rather, the sovereign voter does not believe that any man with a sense of humor can be a great statesman. Altogether there are a lot of things we would rather be than a Washington correspondent. Poor things, in spite of the fact that they can drop around to a foreign legation and get a drink of real Scotch almost any time they want it, which is all the time, and help themselves to a cigar every time they call on a congressman, they, like the rest of us, have their troubles. They do have their troubles.

POVERTY PLUS.

I have no gold, acquired from mill or mart,
But I have treasure houses filled with joy;
For long ago, eschewing life's alloy,
I learned that wealth is ever of the heart,
How many Junes have opened up to me
Their horns of plenty; I have kept secure
Ten thousand dawns, and they are safe and sure—
What thief would seek my blessed penury!
Besides all this, I have one friend of old,
And he holds naught from me: his splendid all
Is mine. Thus, rapture laden, do I call
On every man, bent down beneath his gold,
To fling it to the earth, and come to me
That he may know the wealth of poverty.

VIGNETTE FOR GARETH.

The Little Boy comes upward through the cloistered shadows of Crooked Lane (the far frontier of the Kingdom of the Hummers) bearing in his tightly clutched hand bouquets of wilted black-eyed Susans and pendants from the flowering sumac for the dear one of the front porch, even as Ishmael once returned to a waiting Hagar . . .

A streak of molten amber interlaces its way into the background of the deep summer sunset like ivy encroaching upon the Aged Oak. Twilight covets the charm of the swaying mulleins where the Monarchs with indigo spots in their wings are at play: her mirror is the sheen of the plowshare that follows the songs of the reapers. April's solos have given way to the medleys that herald the Equinoctial Retreat: the mourning doves, having done with a truant family, lament the connubial isolation that has outgrown its usefulness; the first of the yellow finches bring, not songs of expectations, but fluttering carols to an Over-Rouged Summer that is eager to be upon her way—that crested gallant of the topmost branches who met the dew-drenched dawns of Spring with an ecstasy that made us giddy with the joy of living is now a molting cardinal who haunts the deepest of underbrush retreats, a humbled Seneschal of the Silences. A wind stirs the poplar and he turns a coat of Milanese armor wrought in platinum to this forerunner of foreboding days that lurk beyond the uplands where the bittersweet has turned to gold . . .

The Little Boy is wistful of face, because only today he had turned a questing look to the heart of the Red Haw, where the nest of the Hermit Thrush once overflowed with the magic of her garrulous brood and she herself from the safety of a near-by twig had revealed to him the sweetness of parental possession: for the nest was barren and the twig was forlorn and, being so, were given over to the wonderment of one who yearned for understanding . . . a wistful Little Boy coming upward through the cloistered shadows of Crooked Lane: Sir Gareth returning from his quest for the Lost Grail. THAT FELLA DOWN IN STREATOR.

ADD HALL OF FAME or Carnegie Medal for Bravery—Mayor McKee of New York, successor to Jimmie Walker, cuts his salary from $40,000 a year to $25,000. Rumor persists that Tammany politicians have instituted a move to have the new mayor sent to the psychopathic hospital.

MR. ROOSEVELT, the w. k. candidate, in his campaign down east, is still hunting for the Forgotten Man. We would say offhand that the Forgotten Man is the presidential candidate this fall. But we note with pride that our peerless leader, Norman Thomas, announces that his party has only sixty thousand dollars for a national campaign. But yesterday the G. O. P. came out with the admission that its campaign war chest is nine thousand simoleons in the red. Sixty thousand bucks isn't much for a national campaign, but it's so much better than being in the red that it reminds us of the story of the mine operator who owned a little railroad connecting his mine with a trunk line railroad and was taunted by some one because his railroad was only five miles long. "Yes," he said, "my railroad is only five miles long, which doesn't compare very well with the New York Central or the Pennsylvania. But I want to say right here that while my railroad is only five miles long it's as wide as any of 'em."

IS THERE NO END to this depression? The cable announced yesterday that England is slowly sinking at the rate of nine inches every hundred years. Or maybe that's what comes of going off the gold standard. R. H. L.

IS INFANTILE PARALYSIS COMING?

SURGEON GENERAL CUMMING is quoted as having said there will be no epidemic of infantile paralysis in 1932. This prophecy was based on the fact that there was a considerable epidemic in 1931, and epidemics in succeeding years have never been recorded. The epidemic of 1931 prevailed in New York City and Brooklyn, from which focus it traveled upstate, principally up the Hudson, along the sound in Connecticut and other New England states, making incursions from the sound into the interior, and up the valleys, such as that of the Connecticut; and, finally, along the shores of the great lakes and as far away as Minnesota.

Experience has taught that during an epidemic nearly the entire population of all ages is made immune, if not previously so. The number made immune by attacks of the disease, both typical and atypical in character, is small as compared with the number immunized in some way without being sick at all. This mass immunity appears to last more than one year in all instances, and for many years in most.

Some of the above data is certainly established fact, and much of it is so nearly established that it is generally accepted as fact. Those of us who live either in or near the regions where there was a considerable prevalence of infantile paralysis in 1931 can accept Surgeon General Cumming's prediction and feel secure. Not so with those who live in parts of the country remote from the region indicated, and this is a large country and there are many millions of people. Of those, a great many thousand were not even remotely in contact with the people of the epidemic areas of 1931. Kugalmass says there was an epidemic in France in 1930, and that did not protect the Brooklyn population in 1931.

Those who live remote from the 1931 epidemic area will do well to be on their guard against the disease this year. The great epidemic of 1916 began with a moderate sprinkling of cases in May. The lesser epidemic of 1931 began with a small group of forewarning cases in June. Any community that is doomed to have an epidemic of any proportions in September and October of this year has already had its warning.

Unfortunately, we are seldom alert enough to see these warnings or, if we see them, we are not intelligent enough, or have not sufficient courage or enough sense of responsibility to act on them. Where is there a community which is warned by one case of infantile paralysis developing in June, July, or August, that realizes the importance of the warning and takes measures for protection then and there? One recognized case always means several unrecognized cases in the same community at the same time.

KEEPING HOME COOL.

A. C. writes: The way to cool the home in summer is to remove the heat. In winter we put heat into our homes for comfort, and in summer the correct method is to dissipate the heat first. Then, if it is not comfortable enough, add some cool air [mechanically]. I cool my own home very nicely and have done the same for others by resorting to the simple principles of ventilation. Schools are usually ventilated by running vents from each room to the attic, and then exhausting all the air from the attic through ventilators in the roof.

I do the same thing in my home. In the side walls of my rooms, just below the ceiling, a small grill is installed so that it is situated between the studs in the wall. The plate above these studs in the attic is removed and this allows all the hot air that comes into our home to be vented from below the ceiling of our rooms into the attic. An attic ventilator situated in the peak of the attic exhausts this hot air to the outside about five changes per hour. As heat always wants to go straight up, you can see how easy it is for that blanket of hot air that accumulates under the ceiling to work its way into the attic. As the sun goes down and the outside air cools the cooler air comes into the home, goes through the grills into the attic, and out through the ventilator, cooling the attic. By nine or ten o'clock in the night my rooms are as cool with this system as they would be without it by two or three o'clock in the morning. And the whole house is cool all morning.

We close the windows and lower the shades on the south and west sides of the house in the afternoon until about seven o'clock, and this keeps the hot winds out during the hot part of the day. By removing the reservoir of hot air in the attic any house can be made much cooler and at a very small cost.

POOR JUDGMENT.

Nervous writes: I am almost frantic with fear. For the last five months red, rosy looking marks have appeared on my body, sometimes accompanied by a hard, white welt in the center. These appear all over the body—back, abdomen, and chest. When they appear on the soles of my feet the part where they appear wells up and it pains terribly for half a day. When these marks appear they itch terribly. A doctor told me it was urticaria, but I have a dreadful fear it is syphilis because I heard a fellow say if you get rosy looking marks on the chest it is syphilis. I don't know what to do.

REPLY.

Ignorance is responsible for most of our fears, but yours appear to be due to bad judgment. A physician told you that you had urticaria, or nettlerash. You heard a fellow say it might be syphilis. Which is the better opinion?

PATENT LAWS.

Rose Hill, Ill., Sept. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a man should be selling a device to dealers claiming to be the inventor of such and after some months it is found that he has no patent but another party has this same article patented [1] is this man liable under the United States patent laws [2] for fraud or obtaining money under false pretenses? 3. Is this a federal offense? During this same time this same man has used the United States mails to sell and market his patents. Does this violate the postal laws? L. K.

1. Under the patent laws he would be liable to the patent holder for infringement of the patent.

2. The dealers could recover against him by civil proceedings.

3. We see no basis for criminal prosecution on the bare facts stated, since his representation that he had invented the device may have been honestly made.

AGREEMENT CONTROLS.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In April, 1930, I turned in my old car for credit against the purchase of a new car. I received credit of $250 for it and was to buy a new car for future delivery, but no definite date was set. Since that time loss of job and financial difficulties have made it impossible for me to even think of taking out this new car. Can I realize any cash from the automobile agency on my credit? I know that the car I turned in was almost immediately sold again as a second hand car by this agency. T. L. M.

As we understand it, the agreement was that you would take it out in trade rather than in cash. We see no reason why this agreement should not be binding upon you. Presumably you will have to accept such settlement offer as the agency is willing to make. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GARBAGE ODORS.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—[Friend of the People.]—I would appreciate your assistance in getting rid of an abominable nuisance in the form of four vile smelling garbage cans located in the rear of the building next to us. The cans mentioned are used by all the tenants and are located about 25 feet from our back porch and about 25 feet from our bedroom windows. The stench from these cans is so strong it is impossible to eat in the kitchen and on a hot night the smell makes sleep impossible. These cans could very easily be moved 50 or 75 feet to the west without any inconvenience to anybody. C. G. H.

You are advised that one of our inspectors made a thorough investigation, which resulted in the following notice being served upon the responsible parties: "Remove broken garbage cans from rear of lot. Have garbage and refuse removed. Discontinue burning garbage and refuse in rear yard." This order will be followed up until a compliance has been obtained.

President, Board of Health.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 8, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congress will adjourn tomorrow. After a nine months' session both houses held protracted sessions tonight to approve the conference agreement on the emergency revenue bill to raise approximately 200 million dollars. This will bring the expenditures authorized by this congress to the vast total of 2 billion dollars. The revenue bill contains drastic provisions empowering the President to retaliate against foreign interference with American commerce, creates a nonpartisan tariff commission, increases the duties on dyestuffs to encourage their manufacture in the United States, provides means to prevent dumping of cheap foreign made goods into American markets after the war, and provides for income, inheritance, munitions, corporation stock, liquor and miscellaneous internal revenue taxes.

WAR SUMMARY.—Fierce fighting is in progress on practically every front of the European war zone. The most important gain for either side yesterday was the capture by the Germans and Bulgarians of the great fortress of Turtukai, fifty miles south of Bucharest, the Rumanian capital, and chief defense of the capital on that side. Berlin announces that 20,000 troops were captured, but more important still is the fact that the movement will delay, if not prevent, the Russians from cutting communications between Turkey and the central empires. The Austrian troops further to the north along the Rumanian frontier and in southern Bukowina have been forced to retreat, Vienna admits. On the western front the French captured German first line trenches on a mile front between Vaux-Chapitre and Chenois, northwest of Verdun. The Russians have won ground in their campaign against Lemberg, capital of Galicia. They are within artillery range of Halicz, an important rail junction 50 miles south of Lemberg, and Halicz is in flames. The Greeks have marched to the important Greek seaport of Kavala and taken possession of two forts that had been held by the Bulgarians.

CHICAGO.—Henry Ford of Detroit filed a suit yesterday against THE TRIBUNE seeking damages of one million dollars. The suit is based on an editorial published June 23, last, entitled, "Ford Is an Anarchist." The editorial was a commentary on the reports from Detroit announcing Mr. Ford's attitude toward employés who joined the National Guard. A vice president of Mr. Ford's company announced to newspaper men that the company would not pay salaries to the men who went with the troops to the Mexican border and that on their return they would be considered for reëmployment on the same basis as new applicants. In a statement some days later Mr. Ford indicated that the men would find their jobs open on their return.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Orders were issued by the war department for the discharge from federal service as soon as practicable of twelve National Guard regiments, comprising about 18,000 men, recently withdrawn to their home states from the Mexican border, and a number of smaller organizations of some 1,500 college and university students. The First and Second Illinois infantry regiments and Battery F, First Illinois field artillery [University of Illinois], will be mustered out under the order.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The treaty providing for the purchase from Denmark of the Danish West Indies for 25 million dollars was ratified by the senate. There was no roll call and less than half a dozen senators, including Senators Norris, Jones and Clapp, voted against it.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—After a stirring address by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage association, the suffragists holding their annual convention here adopted a vigorous program of work for the coming year. The program includes the raising of a million dollars. A campaign for the federal amendment granting woman suffrage will be waged in every state.

PHONE RATES IN WISCONSIN.

Chicago, Aug. 32.—The interpretation placed by Scrutator in Saturday's issue of THE TRIBUNE upon the recent decision of the Wisconsin public service commission, ordering an emergency reduction of 12½ per cent in local exchange rates of the Wisconsin Telephone company for a period of one year, appears to have misconstrued certain portions of the order.

The statement in the article that no provision is made for higher rates upon the return of prosperity is erroneous. The order expressly provides that it is to endure for a period of one year only, the time believed to be necessary for completion of the entire investigation of the company undertaken by the commission. Since the order is temporary and can be altered at any time upon the introduction of evidence warranting a change and is predicated upon the business depression, a return of normal business conditions would apparently result in the restoration of higher rates.

In asserting that those who favor emergency rate cuts ignore the need for new capital for expansion or replacement, Scrutator overlooks the fact that utilities need not expand in a period of declining business. Obviously, new capital requirements have been reduced to a minimum. Furthermore, many companies have greatly overbuilt their properties and will not require additions for several years to come. Scrutator also overlooks the fact that replacement needs are provided for from depreciation allowances and reserves and, therefore, new capital is not required for this purpose by utilities.

However, it should be noted that the Wisconsin commission does not stand alone in its position that utilities should forego normal earnings during the present period of depression. Several other state commissions, including the California, Indiana, Oklahoma, North Carolina, and Washington commissions, have taken a similar position. Speaking for the federal District court passing upon the validity of an order of the Indiana public service commission reducing rates of the Indianapolis Water company, Judge Evans declared that a 6 per cent return under present conditions would not be confiscatory. Contrast this ruling with the United States Supreme court decision in 1926 involving the same properties, where it was held that the reasonable return should be 7 per cent or more.

The theory advanced by these commissions and others who believe that public utility charges should be reduced during the period of the business depression is that it is unsound and unfair to allow utilities a return sufficient to pay operating expenses, interest upon fixed indebtedness, normal dividends upon stock, and a large amount for surplus when their customers are hardly able to earn sufficient moneys to enable them to continue to pay for utility services. Thousands of commercial and industrial enterprises have, during the last three years, been unable to earn sufficient to pay their bare operating costs. These commissions assert that it is not unlawful to temporarily reduce utility rates under these circumstances as long as the utilities can meet operating expenses, fixed charges, and pay a reasonable dividend upon outstanding preferred and common stock.

Finally, it is significant that leading economists, including Prof. Jacob Viner, have advanced the theory that the maintenance of the present level of utility rates is an important factor in the continuation of the present business depression, since a much larger proportion of the consumers' declining income must be used for these indispensable utility services, leaving a smaller margin for the purchase of other commodities. HARRY R. BOOTH.

WAGES IN A COMPETITIVE WORLD.

Washington, Ill., Aug. 21.—I would like to request some of our college economists to give their honest opinions on the miners' situation. The operators base their claim on the competition of the nonunion mines of Virginia and Kentucky. Assuming the miners of Illinois accepted the $5 wage scale, doesn't it presuppose a further reduction of wages in Virginia and Kentucky, and in return another reduction in Illinois? When will it stop? Wouldn't it be better economics at the present time to use the army to force Virginia and Kentucky operators to pay wages sufficient to keep the miners there in a decent standard of living. It doesn't seem logical to me that if this vicious practice of lowering wages continues we can hope to help industry in this present depression. R. MCLAREN.

THE CODE OF THE FLAG.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—I would like to inform Roy W. McCarty, who objected to the position of the flag at the Musical Festival, that the flag was properly displayed, i. e., the blue field should always be uppermost and to the observer's left. Of course, the blue would point east in a north and south street. I would be glad to send Mr. McCarty a copy of "The Code of the Flag" as adopted by the national flag conference in Washington in 1924 and distributed by the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic. [MISS] N. GRACE MALLORY.

NIGHT SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—The board of education will be making a serious mistake if they fail to keep the night school system open. Twenty-five thousand students' education hangs in the balance. The closing of the night schools means that thousands will have to give up their hopes for better education.

Why should a worthy cause such as this be given up after many years of struggle on the part of some of the best teachers and principals in our school system to bring it to its present stage?

Before the closing of the last semester the suggestion of charging $5 and $7.50 for eight and twelve hour courses, respectively, met with the approval of the students. Here we have a broad-minded lot of students who can see the predicament of the board and who are willing to pay what they can to partly defray the expense of the night schools. Can't the board see our predicament? We see theirs. Aren't we paying taxes for the maintenance of the night schools?

I would suggest that at least four schools be kept open, one in each section of the city, for the benefit of the more ambitious students and for the keeping up of the night school spirit. PHILIP DELLEORAZIO.

JOB'S PROBLEM RESTATED.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—In THE TRIBUNE I read where a murderess is soon to be put on the stage at $1,000 per week. I am an honest man, with a family, out of work, and cannot get a job at any price. Why the unfairness of things, as well as the unjustness? ONE WHO WANTS TO KNOW.

ANOTHER FAIRY STORY BLASTED; THEY WERE REAL

Science Told Modern Man Drove Them Out.

YORK, England, Sept. 7.—(AP)—There are reasons for believing that the fairies of folklore were an actual race of men—perhaps driven out by the influx of modern man—the British Association for the Advancement of Science was told today.

It is quite possible, said Rev. Canon J. A. McCulloch, that the stories of fairies are based on facts, and date back to some long-lost race of pygmies of neolithic men who lost in the struggle for survival with the ancestors of man as he is today.

Ghosts of Earlier Race.

The traditional conception of fairies and gnomes bears a close resemblance to pygmies as they are known today. Fairies also may have been thought of as ghosts of an earlier race. They are often connected with burial mounds, and there are parallels in folklore between fairies and ghosts.

Habits of fairies as depicted in fairy tales and habits of primitive men are often similar, he pointed out. Fairies are often depicted as disliking the high civilization of humans, dwelling underground, using stone weapons in preference to iron. There are legends of migrations in connection with dwarfs and fairies that may be based on migrations of ancient man.

Date to Glacial Period.

Ancient men in Britain, who may or may not have been the basis of the fairy tale folklore, date back to glacial times, said Prof. P. G. H. Boswell.

It is now definitely known, he explained, that "man was as characteristic a mammal of glacial and interglacial times as the mammoth and straight tusked elephant.

"Wherever the cradle of man may have been, Asia or Africa, the evidence of prehistoric stations shows that the waves of his successive migrations advanced northwestward across Europe. The British isles were his Ultima Thule, along the road to which he sought his prey. His advance was determined by the extent to which the country was ice free, for we find that successive human industries extend further northward and northwestward as the ice retreated, although the readvances of the glaciers and flooding of the country temporarily drove the new invader back."

GIVEN DIVORCE

John J. Hudjera, a florist's designer, said it with fists instead of with flowers, Mrs. Theresa Hudjera, 24 years old, 6365 North Hermitage avenue, told Judge Joseph B. David yesterday in the Superior court. The judge granted her a divorce on grounds of cruelty when she testified that Hudjera had beaten and kicked her.

DENIES DROPPING OF CASE AGAINST THREE FORGERS

State's Attorney Swanson denied that he had dropped the prosecution of three former county employés who took $24,000 in county funds by forgery. The men were released after they had made restitution of all except $200 of the stolen money and County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough said that prosecution had been waived.

"My understanding is that the county treasurer is still investigating accounts to see if the entire theft has been discovered, or if any one else is involved," Prosecutor Swanson said. "Restitution does not guarantee withdrawal of prosecution, and no agreement was made to waive court action when the money was returned. The men can be found if they are wanted. When I receive the report of the county treasurer I will act."

The forgers are John Fennely, 45 years old, former assistant bookkeeper in the county treasurer's office; James Egan, 31, former clerk in the controller's office, and Daniel Healy, 44, former keeper of the controller's vault. The shortage was discovered on June 27, after an audit. The men were questioned and confessed that they had forged duplicates of checks which were not called for immediately in amounts of from $25 to $200.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY FUND CONTRACTS LET BY ILLINOIS

Hand Labor Will Displace Machinery.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The state highway department today opened its first bids for contracts to be awarded under relief legislation passed by congress on July 21 with an appropriation of 120 million dollars. The Illinois portion of this money is about $5,000,000, and it will all be spent on contracts under today's letting and another batch of proposals to be received next week.

As provided under the congressional act, hand labor is to replace machinery wherever possible, increasing the number of men employed about 25 per cent. Skilled and unskilled laborers will be permitted to work a maximum of 30 hours per week.

3 Metropolitan Area Projects.

The projects include three metropolitan area jobs, although the bulk of the relief money is being allocated downstate. Proposals were received for the construction of a grade separation at Roosevelt road and route 59, a new north and south highway about six miles east of the Fox river, a road designed more to benefit real estate subdivision interests than to aid traffic.

The route 59 job will be the third grade separation on Roosevelt road where there will be little or no cross traffic. The other two structures, under construction, are at Roosevelt and route 53 at Glen Ellyn and at Roosevelt and route 54, just west of the Butterfield road crossing of Roosevelt.

Decatur Street Work Included.

The other two metropolitan area jobs in the day's letting are the widening of two bridges on Roosevelt road west of Wheaton and the paving of 3.92 miles of route 65, a new cut-off for Ogden avenue traffic wishing to avoid Naperville and Aurora.

Two of the projects on which proposals were received today include city street work in Decatur.

The money received from the government for this work will be taken out of the state's regular appropriations for federal aid each year for a decade starting in 1938.

Contractors Start Work on Broadway Paving Job

The Barber Paving company started yesterday to tear up the old wood block paving on Broadway, between Foster and Wilson avenues, preparatory to laying a new asphalt pavement. The work, which will cost $89,000, is one of the two large pavement repair projects paid for with vehicle tax funds which the city is having done by private contractors. All other street repair work is done by city labor.

BRITISH POLICE RAID 'SIDESHOW'; RECTOR IN FLIGHT

Barrel Sitter Has Two Brushes with Law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Rev. Harold F. Davidson, ousted rector of Stiffkey, who was recently convicted on charges of immorality with young women, had two brushes with the law today at Blackpool, the Coney Island of England.

In the first incident of the day police charged him with "aiding and abetting the obstruction of a footpath" by sitting in a barrel on exhibition at four cents a look—a display which attracted 10,000 persons in one day and netted the aged preacher $400.

Pledges to Close Show.

The charge was dropped when Luke Gannon, his manager, promised to close the exhibition.

The Rev. Mr. Davidson and his manager left the courtroom and again defied the law when his manager exhibited the rector within a building. The crowds jammed the building to get a look at the clergyman and again the roadway became impassable.

The police came on the run and intervened to disperse the crowd. The rector and his manager fled amid the cheers of the audience.

The rector exhibited the same ignorance and indifference of court procedure at his hearing in the police court that he displayed during his trial by a church tribunal. Repeatedly he was rebuked for interrupting and lecturing the court.

Rector Addresses Court.

He addressed the court at the opening of the hearing, blaming his predicament on an impostor who opened the original negotiations for the exhibition contract. He explained that he carried out the scheme anyhow in order not to leave Gannon in the lurch.

The chief constable testified that the whole street was obstructed "by Gannon and the former rector of Stiffkey."

The Rev. Mr. Davidson jumped to his feet.

"I am not the former rector of Stiffkey," he cried. "I'm still the rector."

"All right, leave it at that," the constable continued. "The exhibition was a terrible eyesore. If the disgraceful scene continues there will be very serious trouble. I wouldn't be surprised if the barrel were seized and thrown into the sea."

The rector explained that his venture in the barrel was a means of obtaining funds to appeal his conviction in the church court.

Pair Sentenced for Life for Slaying of Policeman

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Edgar Allen Luker and Donald Rohr, both of Indianapolis, were sentenced to terms of life imprisonment today when they pleaded guilty to the slaying of James Ovid McCracken, Muncie patrolman and former major league baseball pitcher. McCracken was killed last April while escorting two theater messengers to a bank.

HARVARD GRADUATE WHO KILLED HIS WIFE IS HELD FOR MURDER

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Dr. Townley Thorndike French, Harvard graduate who shot his wife to death rather than see her face starvation, was today held without bail for murder.

Dr. French killed his wife while she lay sleeping, sat beside her body for 36 hours, and then limped to the nearest police station and surrendered. Several years ago Dr. French was crippled in a fall and since then his wife had supported them both by working as an elevator woman. Seven weeks ago she lost her job.

"For some time past I had pondered what to do," he told the police today. "We were both getting actually weak from hunger and I did not want to stoop to city welfare aid. Finally I figured it out that in 40 days we would both be dead from starvation and that was no way out for my wife.

"I figured out how long a hunger strike kept folks alive and how long we would be able to subsist. What I did was the only happy ending for my wife. She never knew, and died so peacefully while she slept. I thought it better for me to remain alive. I have to die, so I can now explain it all."

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Trapped in a burning automobile, Mrs. Charles Tucker, 45, was burned to death here last night.

FLYERS ASCEND 21,000 FEET FOR MILLIKAN STUDY

CORMORANT LAKE, Man., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Flying Officer R. A. Gordon and Aircraftsman John Fortey, who took off late yesterday in a plane equipped with delicate instruments designed to investigate the cosmic ray, reached here late today after ascending 21,000 feet. They made the flight for Dr. Robert A. Millikan, the California scientist.

The airmen hopped off yesterday. They failed to appear within a reasonable time and a search was started for them by air. The flyers explained they had made a forced landing and were detained trying to free their ship from a sand bar. The results of the flight into the upper air levels cannot be known until Dr. Millikan and his associates have examined records of the instruments carried by the plane.

Saloonkeeper Dies of Wounds; Blame Beer War

John Duffy, 37 years old, who was shot early Tuesday by two men who invaded his saloon at 7082 South Chicago avenue, died yesterday in the St. Bernard's hospital. He is believed by police to have been a victim of the south side beer war, which flared into action with the attempt of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell to regain lost territory. Christ Keegan, 60 years old, the bartender, who was wounded, told police that the gunmen were bandits.

Germany's Jobless Figures Drop 167,000 in a Month

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—Germany's unemployed totaled 5,225,000 at the end of August, a decrease of 167,000 during the month, but still 900,000 above the close of August, 1931. The adoption of more stringent rules caused the total of persons receiving the dole to decline by 59,000 to 698,000. Similarly the receivers of the "crisis support" were reduced 59,000. They now total 1,298,000.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Eva Tanguay, vaudeville dancer, once known as the "I don't care" girl, suffered a relapse today after improving from a heart condition which became critical several weeks ago. She was given a second blood transfusion which, physicians hoped, would restore her strength. Miss Tanguay is 54 years old and has been in a weakened condition since last May.

QUESTION THREE PRISONERS ABOUT WARRANT PLOT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Emmett Harris and Percy Roberts, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

John R. Steele, former banker of Lakeville, Ind., and John Ballwin and Thomas Nelson, bank robbers and ex-convicts, were held for further questioning yesterday regarding counterfeiting of Cook county tax warrants at secret headquarters of state's attorney's investigators.

The three men were arrested on Saturday at the office of a finance company in South Bend, where they were trying to post $5,000 worth of the forged warrants as collateral on a loan. Their arrest was not announced until Tuesday evening, however.

Attorney Abe Marovitz appeared yesterday at the Criminal court building, stating that he intended to file application for writs of habeas corpus on behalf of Ballwin and Nelson. Later, however, he said he had deferred action until today, after talking to prosecutors in the case. He expressed doubt that any charge could be placed against his clients, since their arrest took place in another state.

A Definite Selling Policy That's New in America

There is a personality about an organization catering to the public just as there is about an individual. Peck & Hills, for over 36 years of its business life, has always enjoyed a good reputation among its many customers. Numbered among them are some of the leading retailers of the country.

Year after year it has held old friends and added new ones. Growth has been steady and sure, not spasmodic and sensational; but just as an individual should bring himself up short and take stock of his own efficiency, so should an organization give itself a thorough self-examination.

Were we, as an organization, meeting our responsibility? Were we serving the Nation, which had made our present success possible, to the limit of our ability?

That was the Question We asked Our Organization

Having asked the question we looked around for the answer. Since the foundation of our business we have pursued the same methods in practice today in 90% of the wholesale houses of the country. Ten years ago, five years ago, these sufficed. Today they will not do.

TODAY calls for a larger volume and smaller profits.

TODAY means service, and a proper understanding of what service means.

TODAY calls for a shorter road between manufacturer and consumer.

TODAY means that business, stocks, policies and methods must be adjusted to meet the prevailing condition of our country and the times.

When we weighed every phase of this question carefully, we came to a certain definite conclusion about our organization.

The first one was that we needed some new policies. That settled, we looked around and as a result we brought to each one of our unit organizations a business expert from Grand Rapids, one of the world's greatest furniture centers, and advised with them as to what method we should pursue to make our organization better able to serve all the people of America.

They immediately advised the reorganization of our business to meet present day conditions, and suggested many changes that have been, or will be made in the near future.

They also advised that because of our experience as wholesalers volume methods of economical distribution had been developed that made it possible to reduce considerably the usual markup, thereby making a substantial saving for the consumer.

Considering that we have had 36 years of actual experience in catering to the retailer, studying the wants of the American people, Peck & Hills' nation-wide outlets made it possible for us to easily adopt their suggestions and we know that the values we will offer the buying public will be so attractive that thousands of new customers will be added to our clientele.

A sale of our stocks of merchandise located in thirteen cities of the U. S. in the greatest National Sales Campaign ever sponsored by an organization in the history of our country was conducted to reduce our stocks and assist our reorganization plans which are now complete.

Deferred payments can be arranged and in addition we guarantee complete satisfaction on everything we sell or money refunded. And we will endeavor to so understand the word "SERVICE" that its application will start when you enter any of our stores: in the attention you receive, in our willingness to show goods pleasantly, and to appreciate that the best advertisement any store can have is a satisfied customer.

MRS. L. M. GELLOCK, 2202 W. Monroe Street

THE hat you buy but never wear is the most expensive in the long run. It isn't the price you pay that counts, but the service, the pleasure, the benefits you get.

You can't measure advertising by the rate per word or line. Results are the test. The lowest rate is the most costly, if you don't get results.

And you don't get results from want ads if the public doesn't read or respond to the newspaper.

For 20 years the Chicago Tribune has built reader confidence through rigid censorship of the want advertising offered to it.

The Tribune does not permit its readers to be exploited by unscrupulous advertisers.

It does not knowingly open its advertising columns to misrepresentation, extravagant claims or fraud.

It does not destroy the confidence of readers in all advertisers in the Tribune because of open or tacit tolerance of the reprehensible operations of a few.

It does not load this burden on reputable advertisers and thus increase their sales cost.

Nor does it force some advertisers to compete at a disadvantage by favoring a special few with inside deals or concessions.

It does not run advertising free for some while charging others.

It does not offer secret rebates nor reruns except for legitimate reasons.

It insists that all advertisers have equal opportunities, pay promptly and at the regular card rates.

That's why the Tribune is the preferred advertising medium of reputable, experienced want advertisers.

That's why during the first eight months of this year, as it has for the past 20 years, the Tribune printed more want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

That's why the Tribune gets better, quicker results for want advertisers than any other Chicago newspaper.

If you need tenants, a loan, a car, a job, or any one of the hundred things and services which want ads can get, call Superior 0100—Want Ad-Viser!

INSURANCE FIRMS HEADED BY RENO GET R. F. C. LOANS

Report Total of $175,000 Obtained for Three.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Rumors and charges that the three Farmers' union mutual insurance companies headed by Milo Reno, president and instigator of the farm holiday strike movement, had obtained loans aggregating $175,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, were confirmed in reliable quarters today.

Directors of the R. F. C. at first denied and later remained mysteriously silent about the charges that Reno had manipulated a federal loan to keep his insurance companies out of receivership. Reno, through his secretary and press agent, would admit having received only $90,000 from the R. F. C.

Members Are Indignant.

Members of the Des Moines Cooperative Dairy Marketing association, of which there are 1,500, were aroused to indignation when they first heard of the loan to Reno's insurance companies through Carl Wilken of Wall Lake, who denounced Reno before their association on Aug. 31. Today Wilken, a former director in Reno's Farmers' union, declared:

"Congressman Ed Campbell of Battle Creek told me he had recommended the loans to keep the insurance companies from going into receivership and that they had been granted. I tried to find out the amount of the loans from directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, but they refused to tell me. Then I wrote directly to the insurance companies and they informed me that the amounts were: $90,000 for the Farmers Union Mutual Life Insurance company, $45,000 for the Farmers' Union Mutual Automobile association, and $40,000 for the Farmers' Union Mutual Property Insurance company. I also know that the companies applied for $200,000 and that another application for $100,000 has been made."

Charges Against Reno.

In his address before the dairy producers Mr. Wilken charged that Reno, to cover up a deficit of $45,000 in 1929 and 1930, purchased the Republic building in Des Moines for $30,000 and carried the building on the books of the insurance companies as an asset worth $150,000.

Reno's activities as manager of the Farmers' union live stock commission from 1922 to 1927 were discussed before the farmers by Peter Winkel of Sioux City, who told how the farm holiday leader was ousted by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine after a surplus of $81,000 was dissipated and a deficit of $45,000 piled up under his management. He said Reno lent more than $40,000 of the company funds to Frank Wheatcraft, his assistant, and other friends and employés without security.

Reno's Pay $800 a Month.

Reno was the founder of the Iowa Farmers' union, launched in 1920, and was for years its president. He is now a director and still the guiding genius, although he devotes most of his time to the holiday activities. He launched the Farmers' Holiday association last spring. From the life insurance company Reno gets $600 a month and expenses and from the auto company $200 a month and expenses, while devoting practically all his time to agitating farm strikes.

SHERIFF'S FORCE LOSES BLOODLESS BATTLE TO PICKETS

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A threatened clash between deputy sheriffs armed with shotguns and several hundred Farm Holiday association picketers, this morning melted away because Sheriff R. E. Rippey of Lemars realized that he and his deputies were outnumbered more than ten to one and ordered the trucks he and his deputies were convoying to return to Lemars.

A fleet of twenty-seven trucks loaded with live stock from northwest Iowa counties and destined for the Sioux City stockyards assembled at Lemars and were promised by Sheriff Rippey that he would escort them through the picket lines. He had armed his deputies. The news reached the thin picket lines, but word sent out soon brought scores of others, all armed with stones, bricks and clubs—with no firearms, it was said.

When the fleet of trucks reached the picketers just over the Woodbury county line in Plymouth county and just outside the limits of Sioux City, it was halted and turned back.

The will provides that $23,000 shall be given to friends after death of Mrs. English and directs that the bequest to St. Luke's hospital be accepted in the memory of Miss English's father, Charles, and to the Lying-In hospital in the memory of her mother. YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.

MILK ARBITRATOR REJECTS PLAN TO CUT PRICE 1 CENT

Discuss 10c Qt. Offer Secretly.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A proposal made by some of Chicago's large milk companies to reduce the price of milk from 11 cents to 10 cents a quart has been rejected by an arbitration decision, it was disclosed yesterday.

DR. CLYDE L. KING.

Dr. Clyde L. King of the Wharton School of Finance in Philadelphia discussed the proposal in a secret session with representatives of the milk companies and of the Pure Milk association, bargaining agency for 18,000 farmers supplying Chicago and nearby cities. The meeting, which took place several days ago, became known yesterday when the farmers were told that the arbitration decision had been to continue the present retail and wholesale milk prices.

Called to Chicago.

Dr. King, who is the milk arbitrator under a contract signed by the farmers and the dealers which ended the farmers' strike in 1929, was called to Chicago by the dealers in the present arbitration. They sought to have the farmers shoulder the entire reduction to 10 cents. It is the first time the dealers have called on Dr. King for an arbitration ruling.

The dealers and farmers were informed by Dr. King in announcing his decision that in reducing the retail price from 12 to 11 cents a quart in June and from 8 to 7 cents per pint in July he had cut prices to farmers as low as they could go and still maintain a safe milk supply in Chicago.

Dr. King was further quoted as saying that in view of the recent improvement in commodity and security prices, with other evidences of an approaching upturn in the national economic situation there was no reason to further depress the dairy industry locally. He reported that the dairymen should be able to note the improvement by Oct. 1, and indicated his willingness to reopen negotiations on that date if requested to do so.

New Companies in Field.

Officials of a group of small milk companies yesterday said they believed that the move for a price cut to 11 cents was being made to force them out of business. Several new dairy concerns have been organized in Chicago and suburbs in recent months' attempting to cut prices.

Spokesmen for the farmers were reported to have told the dealers seeking reduced prices that if competition was forcing them to cut prices the farmers would share equally with the dealers in reducing the retail quart price to 8 or 9 cents. The milk companies were said to have declined this offer.

Junius Spencer Morgan's Estate Goes to 2 Children

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Virtually the entire estate of Junius Spencer Morgan, who died on Aug. 18, was left to his two children, according to Mr. Morgan's will, which was filed in Surrogate's court today. The estate was formally estimated at "more than $10,000." The testator was a cousin of J. P. Morgan. He left nothing to his widow, Mrs. Josephine Perry Morgan, stating in his will, which was dated Dec. 8, 1930, that he had made ample provision for his wife.

Esbjorn—the family name then—was a member of the state university faculty and where Osborn formed a personal acquaintance with Abraham Lincoln.

EDITH ROCKEFELLER M'CORMICK'S WILL IS ADMITTED TO PROBATE

Probate Judge Horner yesterday admitted to probate the will of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and, in accordance with the will, appointed the Chicago Title and Trust company executor of the estate, valued at $10,000,000.

None of the four heirs, Mrs. Matilde McCormick Oser and Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard, daughters; Fowler McCormick, the son, and Edwin D. Krenn, Mrs. McCormick's friend and companion for many years, appeared in court. Attorney Charles S. Cutting, however, entered their appearances and consent to the probating of the will.

Attorney Cutting, James F. Oates Jr. and W. Clyde Jones, witnesses to the will, testified that they believed Mrs. McCormick was of sound and disposing mind and memory when she executed the will a short time before her death.

Judge Horner ruled that a previous will of Mrs. McCormick, executed on July 3, 1931, and found among her papers after her death, need not be produced in court, but should be preserved in case any contest arises to the will filed for probate. The earlier will, it is understood, left Krenn $1,000,000 instead of the five-twelfths share in the estate which he is granted under the later will.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICE TODAY FOR MRS. HURLEY

Funeral services for Mrs. Florence Amberg Hurley, wife of Edward N. Hurley, Chicago manufacturer and former head of the United States shipping board, will be held today. The funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. from the town residence at 3400 Sheridan road to Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, 590 Belmont avenue, where solemn requiem high mass will be celebrated. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame university; the Rev. Matthew Walsh, former president, and Dean James E. McCarthy of the Notre Dame school of commerce will represent the university at the funeral.

Acting Capt. John Benson of the Town Hall station assigned 24 uniformed patrolmen under the command of Sergt. Jeremiah Walsh to act as a funeral escort.

Mrs. William J. Ryan, daughter of Mrs. Hurley, who was injured in the accident, was reported in fair condition yesterday at the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park. Mrs. Ryan, who is to become a mother in a month, suffered severe shock and bruises. Her husband, who was driving the car, escaped with a fractured elbow and will be able to leave the hospital in a day or two, physicians said.

4 JOLIET BANKERS SUED IN HUNT FOR 'LOST' SECURITIES

Stockholders Demand an Accounting.

Charges that $15,000 in high grade securities have been replaced by worthless stocks in the assets of the Joliet Trust and Guarantee company were revealed yesterday. A suit by minority stockholders making these charges against the four officials and directors of the company who are also officials and directors of the closed Joliet Trust and Savings bank, was filed July 13 in the Will county Circuit court, but not made public until yesterday.

The defendants include Erwin T. Geist, president of the trust company and president of the closed bank; August Beltzner, secretary and treasurer of the trust company and cashier of the closed bank; George Barr, director in both enterprises and a University of Illinois trustee and brother of State Senator Richard J. Barr, and Thomas F. Donovan, vice president of the company and of the bank, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, and now a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Hearing This Month.

The suit, which comes up for hearing at this September term of court, declares that these officers and others control a majority of the stock in the trust company, which is capitalized at $50,000. Ownership of stock is confined to stockholders in the closed Joliet Trust and Savings bank.

John E. Morrison, president of the Peoples Abstract company, only competitor of the trust company in Joliet, has been appointed receiver of the closed bank, according to the suit.

The trust company has always paid a 10 per cent yearly dividend and such a dividend for 1931 was declared this year, the suit declares. Despite the maintenance of earnings, securities worth $15,000 have disappeared from the assets of the company. The suit charges that either Geist or Beltzner abstracted these securities and substituted worthless, or nearly worthless, stocks and notes. The complainants ask that the court determine where these securities have gone and order their return.

Ask Proper Accounting.

The complainants have been unable to obtain a proper accounting of the finances of the trust company and the books are in a disorderly state, the suit adds. An injunction is asked preventing the defendants from destroying the records. "Juggling of entries" is also charged.

The complainants state their belief that Geist, Beltzner, and certain directors fraudulently entered into a conspiracy to deprive the complainants of their rights and to convert funds and assets for their own benefit.

IF YOU want to quickly round out unattractive hollows with firm flesh—here's wonderful news!

For years doctors have prescribed beer to put flesh on thin, run-down men and women. But now scientists have perfected a new formula which not only builds even firmer, healthier flesh than beer—but which brings this marvelous result in half the time! And brings other benefits, too. A clear, glowing skin—easy digestion—new vital energy!

Concentrated beer yeast

Ironized Yeast, as these pleasant-tasting tablets are called, contains specially cultured, imported beer yeast—the richest yeast ever known—which through a new process has been concentrated 7 times—made 7 times more powerful.

This super-rich yeast is scientifically ironized—treated with three distinct kinds of energizing iron. This tonic element strengthens and enriches the blood, enabling it to carry all the health-building yeast to the worn-out tissues.

Like thousands of others you'll be amazed and delighted to see how quickly you gain on Ironized Yeast—often pounds on the very first package! Your complexion clears, gains new healthy beauty. Food tastes better, digests better. You're pepped up—on your toes—all the time.

Results guaranteed

No matter how skinny and weak you may be, or how long you have been that way, this marvelous new Ironized Yeast should build you up in a few short weeks as it has thousands of others. So successful has it been in even hopeless cases that it is sold under an absolute money-back guarantee. If you are not more than delighted with the results of the very first package, money gladly refunded.

Start building up your health right away. Get Ironized Yeast from your druggist today.

Shops Offer Models for All Occasions.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

WHEN a hitherto dissatisfied shoe shopper really starts on a buying expedition this fall, interest will be aroused and money will slide out of the various hideouts quicker than any one ever dreamed about.

Shoes this year are something to scribble a few words about . . . this year they are creations, even to the unimaginative, for the newest models show unmistakable signs of shoe spirit. You'll saunter about in walking models of brown alligator hide that are the answer to the shoe-seeing and fault finding appraisers who clutter up the boulevards and avenues. There are trim little trippers that are designed to withstand all the scuffling and stumbling you can administer. You can buy either pumps with pleasantly sensible walking heels . . . or oxford ties with an enviable outdoor air that can't be equaled.

There are plenty of delightful harmonies in matching bag and shoes for the serious costume accesory collector . . . they match with a studied perfection that will please the most particular, even the classic simplicity of an opera pump in brown suede is matchlessly mated to a bag that is as starkly unadorned and as classically simple in outline as the pumps. Perforations still mark the chic street shoes and wander over the surface of a matching handbag.

But the combinations of dull leather with suede, patent leather with suede, and patent with dull kidskin are what all the shoe shops are bragging over just now. Patchwork, a superior sort of patching is what you will wear . . . three cornered patent tips on the toes of a suede oxford . . . winglike curves above the heel swinging around the back of your foot.

Real swanky affairs of suede enlivened with scraps of dull kidskin are new. Oxfords that have insets and appliques or motifs cleverly patched on the dull suede with something that looks like white picot edging but isn't, are tremendously smart with a good looking street costume that includes these two color contrasts.

You can't get lost or wander into the wrong detour with black patent leather—these are ageless as far as being dated is concerned . . . they are certainly what the busy working girl needs, for with a swish of a handy cloth they shine as sleekly and as cheerfully after weeks of constant use as they did the eventful day they were sent out into the world.

Evening footwear continues its sandalous way . . . only this year you buy them in white and wait a few hours while experts tint them to match exactly the evening gown they dance with. Crêpe de Chine slippers are the best buys; next, the shimmering beauties of moire, for both take an easy trip to the dye pots.

Some enchanting black satin and dull silk crêpe sandals have tiny threads of silver or gold around the many straps that fashion them. Some use silver and gold heels for fashionable balance and height. These are the sandals that you will buy for the long picturesque dance and dinner gowns of sleek black velvet.

You'll conclude your first selection of black evening sandals with some of the filmy black wisps of chiffon hosiery that are particularly ideal with black ensembles.

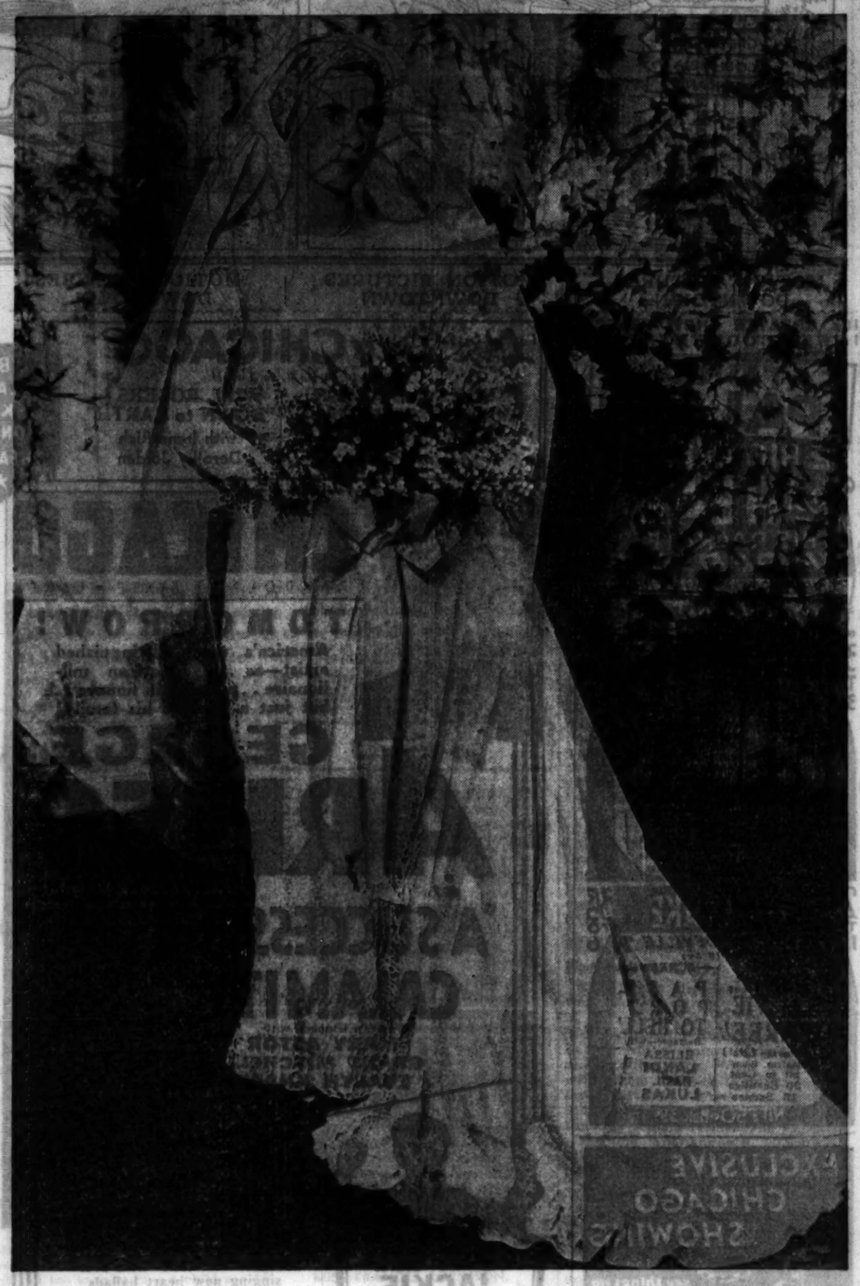
Society's First Autumn Bride



Miss Marie Smith was the first bride of the fall season when she was married to Hyde Gillette yesterday. She wore the wedding gown of her mother, Mrs. Kinney Smith. The gown is of cluny lace.

Marie Smith Becomes Bride of Hyde Gillette at Home Rite

Ceremony Performed in Drawing Room of Apartment; White Heather Used in Decorations.

BY JUDITH CASS.

JUST a handful of relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony yesterday which made Miss Marie Clarke Smith the bride of Hyde Gillette. The service was read at 4:30 o'clock by the Rev. Father Edward Mullally of St. Mary's church in the drawing room of the apartment of the bride's mother, Mrs. Kinney Smith, at 10 East Schiller street, the same place, by the way, where the intimate friends of the young couple were told of their engagement last January at a tea given by Mrs. Smith.

Yesterday an altar had been improvised in front of the windows which were banked in green with tall vases of white gladioli at either side, and it was there that the couple knelt on Mrs. Charles W. Dempster's white velvet prie dieu which has been used by almost every fashionable bride for a score of years.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of cluny lace with a sash of creamy satin, and a simple tulle veil held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms. The gown has long, tight sleeves and a bateau neck. The bridal bouquet was of lilies of the valley and white heather which had been sent to Miss Smith from Scotland to bring her good luck on her wedding day.

Mrs. Payson Is Attendant.

Mrs. Randolph Payson, the former Elizabeth Smith, was the matron of honor, wearing a gown of periwinkle blue crêpe with slippers to match and a brown velvet hat. She carried yellow gladioli and coxcomb. Her little four and a half year old daughter, Betty, looking like a flower in a bright yellow mousseline de soie frock with a yellow ribbon in her hair, and carrying a basket of yellow roses, was the only other attendant of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Kinney Smith, and Edwin Gillette, the bridegroom's brother, was the best man. Ushering were Harlow N. Higinbotham, John M. Blair, Thomas P. Field and Alexis de Tarnowsky.

Among the out-of-town relatives here for the wedding were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fraser Gillette of Pasadena, former Chicagoans, and his sisters, the Misses Helen and Marietta Gillette. After a short wedding trip, the destination of which the bridegroom has kept a secret even from the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Gillette will be at home in Barrington.

Florence Noyes Bride Today.

When Miss Florence Keats Noyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest High Noyes, walks to the altar of St. Chrysostom's church this afternoon at 5 o'clock to become the bride of George Towner Senseney she will be attended by her cousin, the former Betty Galt, now Mrs. Rodman Griscom III. of Tucson and Philadelphia, as matron of honor and by Mrs. John H. Noyes, Mrs. Michelson Dick, Mrs. James W. Rogers, Miss Katharine Kales, Mrs. Lloyd Lafin, and Miss Pauline Davis, all of Chicago, and Mrs. Joseph Brooks of New York as bridesmaids.

John Senseney of St. Louis will serve as his brother's best man and ushering will be the bride's brother, John H. Noyes, David Leavitt and George Artemonoff of Chicago, Rodman Griscom III., Charles McWilliams, Edward Burdick, and Howard O'Fallon of St. Louis. The rector of the church, the Rev. Dudley Stark, will read the service, after which there will be a small reception at the apartment of the bride's parents at 1242 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. Senseney, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene T. Senseney of St. Louis, and his bride will be at home at 55 West Burton place after Oct. 15. They chose a house instead of an apartment in which to live because both are artists and each wanted a studio at home. Mr. Senseney is engaged in the interesting business of making dioramas and Miss Noyes has achieved no small success as a painter in the ranks of Chicago amateurs.

Kirk Wedding Invitations.

Invitations were received yesterday for the wedding reception for Miss Janet Virginia Kirk, daughter of Mrs. Willing Dunning Kirk, and Robert Hampton Ripley, on Saturday, Sept. 24, at 4:30 o'clock at the Indian Hill club, Winnetka. The wedding ceremony is to be small and will be solemnized in Christ church, Winnetka.

At her wedding, a week from Saturday, to Allen Thorndyke Perry of Cleveland, Miss Myra Standish Colburn will be attended by Miss Jean Stewart of Louisville as maid of honor, and by her cousin, Miss Mary Louise Colburn of Biltmore, N. C., Miss Katherine Cowin of Boston, Miss Harriet Moore of Hubbard Woods, Miss Marion Davis of St. Louis, and Mrs. Joseph V. Quarles of Evanston as bridesmaids.

Dean Perry will be his brother's best man and the ushers will include Hobart Kales of St. Louis and Arthur Loehr, Robert Clements, Sheldon Reynolds, Joseph J. Bole and Frederic Porter, all of Cleveland. All of the young men of the wedding party were classmates of the bridegroom at Yale. Miss Mary Louise Colburn, Miss Cowin and Miss Davis attended Vassar with the bride.

The wedding is to take place at 4:30 o'clock at St. Luke's church in Evanston and will be followed by a small reception at the Evanston residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Standish Colburn.

Dance for Miss Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Larrabee Baker of Lake Forest have asked about 40 friends of their daughter, Miss Rosamond Larrabee Baker, to dine and dance this evening at the regular informal Thursday night party at the Onwentsia Country club. The party will be the first of a series to be given for Miss Baker and will serve as her introduction to society.

Miss Jean Schweppe, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Jean Wilhelm, Miss Marjorie Goodman, Miss Laura Thorne, Miss Virginia Chapman, Miss Elizabeth Bunting, Miss Lydia Swift, Miss Mary Senior, Miss Susan Badgerow, Miss Marie Swift, Miss Alma Louise Acher, and Miss Helen Ewing are among the north shore debutantes who have been asked to attend.

Miss Baker, who is a graduate of the Master's school at Dobbs Ferry, returned to Lake Forest yesterday with a house guest, Miss Jean Craig, whom she has been visiting at Beaupaire, Canada. Miss Craig will be with the Bakers for about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams are also to be hosts at Onwentsia tonight at a small party which will be a sort of farewell to their Lake Forest neighbors, for they'll be moving into their town residence at 1235 Astor street at the end of next week. They've been occupying the same house on the Lake Forest college campus that they've had for the last few summers.

Movie Pre-View Benefit Tonight.

Like similar affairs in Hollywood, the pre-view of Maurice Chevalier's picture, "Love Me Tonight," to be given this evening in Mrs. William G. Hibbard's Winnetka garden will be shown to a capacity house. Reservations have been made for more than 500 guests, which is about all that can be jammed onto the tennis court where the talking picture will be shown. After the movie there will be dancing out of doors.

A dozen debutantes wearing the Apache costume for which Chevalier is famous will usher and sell refreshments. All the proceeds of the party will go to the Illinois League of Women Voters' printing fund. In case of rain the affair will be held at the Skokie school.

It will not be a surprise to the friends of the young couple to learn this morning that Mr. and Mrs. William Murdoch Riach of Evanston are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Margery Stoy, to Isaac Leonard Ellwood II., son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Perry Ellwood of De Kalb and Lake Geneva, for every one has been expecting that young Mr. Ellwood's devotion to pretty blonde Margery Riach would result in just that announcement soon.

No date for the wedding has been set but it probably will take place soon, for Mr. Ellwood will be returning to his ranch in southwestern Texas in the late fall and he wants to take his bride with him. Miss Riach was graduated from the Mount Vernon seminary in Washington in 1929 and made her debut the following winter. Mr. Ellwood attended the Principia school in St. Louis and the Lake Forest academy and then entered the University of Illinois, where he was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He left the university to travel around the world and when he

Fashion Turns Very Feminine This Season

From Hat to Shoes Clothes Are Beguiling.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I love the ridiculous rush of bows that have fastened on so much of our new fall millinery. And the tiny veils. And the rakish, tilted angles at which hats are worn. It all looks as if women were up to mischief—their old gallish custom, as it were, of making life impossible for the misogynist.

I tell you if a girl can't look feminine this season it's because she'd rather look like her brother. Every branch of trade, from hat to shoes, is trying to put her over as a bewitching siren.

No better woman act can one of the sex put on than looking the part. And no better beauty act! You never in your life heard of a beauty, either in home circles or abroad, who tried to ape the dress, the stride, the manners, or the voice of a man. In fact, I think the ugliest sight you meet in a day's walk is one of those man tailored, felt hatted, low heeled, short haired females who gets in your path every now and then.

I'm all for women getting home from work evenings and changing into soft, flowing hostess gowns. Just so they won't let the practical spirit of the day "jell" their normal female inclinations. I'm for it, not for the looks of things only, but for the psychological beauty value this procedure lends. You can't get into what is known as ultra-feminine clothes without their having a direct action on all the physical features that make a woman more charming. Too, there is a real physical reaction in changing one's workaday type into another.

Maybe you say: "But what'd I be doing with a hostess gown? How silly!" Well, any soft, "different" frock will do. Just to insure a good cleaning up when you arrive home and a longer and more relaxed evening in which to recuperate. A more leisurely dinner hour will ensue and this is good for the digestion.

We women all need to train ourselves out of the useless habit of rushing. Especially rushing through our meals. There is pretty much the same psychological value attached to this evening change as there is to dressing for the day when one gets up in the morning.

Protestant Groups Call Special Week of Prayer

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A call for the observance of a "special week of penitence and prayer," beginning Oct. 2, in order to discover for the nation "the way to peace and power," has been issued by clergymen of a number of Protestant denominations, it was disclosed today in the September issue of the Federal Council, the official organ of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. The call asserted that "on every hand thoughtful Christians feel that the root of our trouble is moral and spiritual" and that in many areas there is urgent desire for a religious awakening.

Feather Necklace from Schiaparelli Worn Two Ways

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Our feathered fashions burst on an unsuspecting world some months ago, and they are still at the boiling point of fashionable favor. You have heard of feathered hats and boas, extracted from the ostrich. The feather necklace, however, is the most striking of these plumed styles. It gives a touch of savage splendor to the simple evening frocks of the season, and the great ladies of Paris are all wearing it.

Schiaparelli is the creator of the feather necklace, made always from coque feathers, and she was the first to wear one in white with a white evening dress. Now, however, these necklaces come in every conceivable color, and the more barbaric it is the better the ladies like it.

The celebrated necklace of coque feathers, worn in the two correct ways, is shown in our sketch today. At the bottom you can see the necklace worn as you would wear a string of pearls, hanging down conventionally in front. Worn thus it makes a flattering frame for head and neck, and is a stunning accessory for a formal evening gown. Worn as shown at the top of the sketch it looks more like a boa in front, hanging down low in back. Women usually wear it in this way with their informal frocks.

German M. E. Churches O.K. Merger Plan

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Fifteen German Methodist Episcopal churches of Chicago and northern Illinois will become completely American this fall. They will become components of the Rock River conference. This was announced yesterday by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf on his return from Milwaukee where he conducted one of the final sessions of the Chicago Northwest [German] conference.

Plans for amalgamation of the German and American conferences in this country were completed at the recent general conference of the Methodist church at Atlantic City. The merger throughout the country will transfer about 13,000 church members and 75 ministers to English speaking conferences. The Northwest German conference was organized in Chicago 61 years ago by Bishop C. S. Janes in what was then known as the Maxwell Street Methodist church. This is now the Fowler Clifton church.

A final conference of the German group will be held before the merger will be completed. This conference will be held in the Fowler Clifton church at an early date to be determined by the board of bishops. The Rev. Rudolph Malek, superintendent of the German Chicago district and the Rev. Dr. A. J. Loeppert, pastor of the Fowler Clifton church, have announced that the coming conference, which will conclude the German work, will attract large numbers of visitors from surrounding states.

Eight of the 15 churches which will come under the control of the Rock River conference are located in Chicago. The value of properties to be transferred to American conferences reaches nearly $2,000,000. Out of this total, the Rock River conference will increase its holdings by $455,000. The Bethany home for young women, Dayton and Center streets, is owned by the German conference.

Silver Fox Offered as Tuition Fee Is College Problem

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Complications faced the Illinois Wesleyan business manager today when Jane Nichols of Princeton, Ill., wishing to take advantage of the university's unique plan for accepting farm produce in lieu of tuition this fall, presented silver foxes from her father's farm. Mr. Nate Crabtree, the business manager, hesitated because he was not certain of a market for the furs.

Although the faculty for the ensuing year is complete, Dr. H. W. McPherson, president of the university, received an offer today from a resident of Missouri to teach the entire year and accept produce as a salary.

District Attorney Green Guest of Wabash Alumni

Dwight H. Green, recently appointed United States district attorney, was the guest last night of the Wabash College Alumni association at a banquet in the Illinois Athletic club. Green attended Wabash college for two years before the war. He played quarter back on the football team and third base on the baseball team. Other guests included Federal Judge George E. Q. Johnson and Lewis B. Hopkins, president of the college. Wabash college is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year.

King Albert Climbs 9,400 Foot Peak in Ten Hour Struggle

TRENT, Italy, Sept. 7.—(AP)—King Albert of the Belgians has scaled Crozzon di Brenta, 9,400 feet high, one of the hardest climbs in the Dolomitic Alps, it was learned here today. It was reported he made the ascent up the almost perpendicular rocky pinnacle after ten hours of perilous struggle.

King Albert has always been an enthusiastic mountain climber. Though he is now 57 years old, he has spent many summers, even in recent years, in the Alps. Two years ago he left the Italian Tyrol with records in climbing equaled by few of the crowned heads in history.

He was acclaimed a hero after that trip when he saved a number of guides below him from probable injury or death. He held up a huge loosened rock with his breast and hands until the guides moved out of its path.

STATIC—

The Death Watch

By Edgar Wallace

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Dunn of Scotland Yard is in pursuit of a band of thieves who some years before had robbed the Canadian Bank of Commerce in London. The robbers went to jail for the theft, but the loot was never recovered. Peter's buddy, Inspector Sam Alleyway, was dismissed in disgrace, accused of taking a bribe from the head thief, and killed himself. Peter, the only baronet in the service, kept right on working after he came into his title and fortune. It was his form of fun and he wanted to vindicate Alleyway. The year after the robbers were released Peter, on a vacation cruising on the Thames, recognizes a servant in a supposedly haunted house as one of the robbers. He stays to investigate. The house is owned by Mr. Hannay and is one of two identical villas lying side by side. Hannay's has been improved, while the other is deserted and decayed. Neither Hannay nor his daughter, Pat, believe the ghost stories, but the servants leave one by one. Pat has an unpleasant encounter with a huge, ugly new gardener, and orders him dismissed. Mr. Herzoff, a scientist living in the neighborhood, is a guest of Hannay's. Peter meets Pat Hannay several times in the course of his investigation and falls immediately in love with her. Peter learns that the stolen money is hidden in the basement of Hannay's house. The robbers are Herzoff, Hannay's butler, and the gardener, posing under assumed names. They have dug an underground tunnel connecting the two villas. Peter sends to Scotland Yard for help.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

PLANS GONE AWRY.

When Pat went back to the drawing room she saw Herzoff shoot a quick, penetrating glance in her direction, then his eyes dropped. She realized he had seen that something had happened. She caught a glimpse of her face in a mirror. It was alight with excitement.

There was danger, here. She knew it. And Peter Dunn was at hand. That gave the danger a beautiful relish.

Her father was reading. Mr. Herzoff was working out a patience puzzle. Suddenly Hannay put down his book.

"I think I'll get another dog," he said. "I don't like the idea of your"—he made a wry face—"fiancé—that was a joke in the worst possible taste, Pat—wandering about Chesterford. It doesn't amuse me at all."

"What are you reading, daddy?"

"One of the 'Famous Trials' series. I must say it doesn't seem an appropriate book to be reading in the circumstances."

Herzoff looked up calmly.

"What is it called?"

Framed in the window was the face of a woman, hideous, white.

He knew well enough what the title was. He had seen it.

"It's the trial of those three fellows who robbed the Canadian Bank of Commerce about ten years ago," said Mr. Hannay. "I suppose they got away with the money."

"I've forgotten what it was all about."

Herzoff went on dealing out the cards calmly and systematically.

"By jove!" Mr. Hannay was struck with the brilliance of the thought. "There's a big haul for somebody. They got twelve years. I suppose they're out by now."

"They were deported," said Pat. "I read it in the newspapers."

Pat suddenly lifted her head.

"What was that?"

It was the sound of moaning, and it came from the window. Pat set her teeth, went across and pulled back the curtains with a jerk. She almost swooned. Framed in the window was the face of a woman, hideous, white, streaked with wet red. Her untidy gray hair was falling over her forehead.

With a scream the girl snatched the curtains back again and ran blindly back to her father. He had seen it, too.

"The tramp woman," said Herzoff in a low tone. "That is a manifestation I did not expect to see."

He spun around. From somewhere outside came the sound of struggle. There was a crash against the door that led on to the veranda, and then a single pistol shot rang out.

It was Hannay who opened the door, and Peter Dunn staggered in. There was a streak of blood on his forehead; in his hand was an automatic. He closed the door quickly, turned the key, and for a second stood with his back to the door, eyeing two people who were amazed to see him and one who had murder in his heart.

Peter staggered across to the table and lifted the telephone.

"Dead, eh? Telephones don't have ghosts, Mr. Herzoff, do they?"

Herzoff did not reply.

Pat was by his side.

"You're hurt!" she said tremulously.

"Take my handkerchief—it's in my pocket," said Peter. "It's all right, it might have been worse."

"I'll get some water for you."

It was Herzoff who made this gesture.

"Yes, but don't trouble to get a priest; I'm not dead yet, Herzoff."

He watched the man leave the room, then he lugged out of his pocket a clumsy looking pistol.

"Do you mind taking this out on to your lawn and shooting it in the air? It's nothing more deadly than a Verey light, and I think you can go with safety."

He turned to the girl.

"Have you lost the key of your cellar?"

She nodded. She was not even surprised that he asked the question. By now Peter Dunn was the embodiment of all knowledge and understanding.

"I thought it might be the case. Will you get me some water?"

She ran into the dining room and came back with a glassful.

"Thank you, darling."

Mr. Hannay winced.

Peter drank the glassful at a gulp, and then, taking the girl's face in his hands, he kissed her. Mr. Hannay was petrified.

"What the devil do you mean by that?" he stormed.

"He meant to kiss me by that," said Pat quietly. "Didn't you?"

"Delightful," said a voice from the doorway.

It was Herzoff.

"You can lie down in my room if you wish, Mr. Dunn," he said.

He walked towards him leisurely, his hands in his pockets.

"I'm afraid you left an unpleasant stain on that door."

Peter turned his head. He did not feel the life preserver that hit him.

"Don't move, and don't scream, either of you!" snarled Herzoff. "And put that Verey light down, Hannay."

"What——" began Mr. Hannay.

"And don't ask questions. Come in, you boys."

The big gardener and the butler came in.

"Take him up to my room and tie him up. As for you, young lady, you can go to your room for the moment. When I want you I'll come for you. If you scream or try to attract attention, you'll wish you hadn't."

She walked past him, almost overtook the men as they turned into Herzoff's room, and presently reached her own. She slammed the door and locked it. She was dazed. Such things could not happen in England, she told herself again and again. She was having a bad dream, and presently would wake up.

Moderns Pen Life Stories of World's Great

First Eight of Series Well Done.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Appleton Biographies," a series of short lives of the great, by noted modern authors.

THE first eight volumes of what will be unquestionably a brilliant series of books have just arrived from the presses of D. Appleton & Co. They are "Voltaire," by Andre Maurois; "Mozart," by Sacheverell Sitwell; "Julius Caesar," by John Buchan; "Akbar," by Sir Laurence Binyon; "Leonardo da Vinci," by Clifford Bax; "Marlborough," by the Hon. Sir John Fortescue; "St. Paul," by Wilfrid Knox, and "Lenin," by James Maxton. Such a richness of reading matter is enough to triple star any day.

Of all biographers, perhaps Andre Maurois is most fitted to concentrate the volatile Voltaire for modern readers. M. Maurois is himself so essentially French in his genius, and yet, like Voltaire, enough removed emotionally from the national psychology to understand not only the facts, but the reasons for those facts in the life of his hero.

It is obvious that in less than 150 pages no comprehensive biography of a man could be written, but the concentration of the book demands that essentials be recognized and made so plain to the reader that the being of which they are the bone structure can be constructed by the reader with perfect fidelity. The art of that concentration M. Maurois has at his pen's point in "Voltaire."

The same art is evident in the other biographies, but most obviously, it seems to me, in M. Maurois' contribution to the series.

Brilliant in another sense is Sir Laurence Binyon's life of "Akbar." Himself a great orientalist, the author finds in Akbar a figure combining all the glamour of the east and of limitless power, and a soul with something of the same strange passion for understanding that Voltaire's was.

Akbar, the conqueror, is only part of the life story as Laurence Binyon records it. Likewise is Julius Caesar the conqueror only a part of the life which John Buchan records. Julius Caesar, the great administrator, the fearless and astute social leader, the organizer of state and empire, is found in the pages of Mr. Buchan's terse revaluation of almost a household hero [or ogre, if one remembers too painfully "Gallia est omnis divisa in partes tres."]. Mr. Buchan is superb at such sketching.

On the other hand it is "Marlborough," the military commander, the military genius first and last that Sir John Fortescue chronicles in his brief pages. The campaigns are briefly but excitingly elucidated by an author who is an acknowledged authority on British military affairs.

Of another type of director of events is the "Lenin" pictured by Jamese Maxton, M. P., leader of the English Independent Labor party. "Lenin was not a passive, unconscious instrument of events," the author says, but "an active, conscious, understanding director of events." With that as the thesis of his short biography, Mr. Maxton shows the long years of watchful waiting, of intensive preparation which went into the fostering of the communist victory of 1917 in Russia. Succinctly, the author explains Lenin's ideals and deeds, the facts of his private life which created those ideals and bore fruit [however bitter] in those deeds.

An idealist of quite another type is the hero of Wilfred Knox's "St. Paul." From the moment of his conversion, Saul was a man of violent and unremitting action as well as a missionary and a theologian, according to Father Knox and those actions he briefly records. Not, however, without making so clear the philosophy, psychology and theology of the first great Christian that the reader, regardless of his creed, must account St. Paul a genius.

And of one of the most versatile geniuses in history Clifford Bax writes in "Leonardo da Vinci," at the same time painter, sculptor, geologist, chemist, mathematician, architect, musician and engineer, and in every field a man of distinction. It is the inner nature of this already much biographed genius that Clifford Bax explores succinctly in his sketch.

And of one of the most spectacular geniuses of music Sacheverell Sitwell writes in "Mozart." That all too short, all too tragic thirty-five years ending in a pauper's grave the author records with emotional brevity, sensitively and subtly. As in the case of each of the great men who are judged in this series by modern authorities, Mr. Sitwell is especially fitted for his task. As a brilliant critic of the rococo period, as a noted historian of baroque art, he sees Mozart in his relation to his day, and thus presents him to the public.

Ancient Printing Blocks on Display at Field Museum

The oldest printing blocks in existence have been placed on display in the Field Museum of National History, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology. They are engraved with floral designs and were found in the Chinese city of Chu-lu, which was submerged by a flood in 1108 and excavated by archaeologists in recent years.

"The Chinese are the inventors of block printing, and, in fact, of all the essentials for printing—paper, writing brush, ink and ink-pallet or ink-stone," Dr. Laufer said. "Paper was invented and manufactured in China as early as A. D. 105. Paper money was first printed and circulated in China.

"Wall paper, much of it made from printing blocks such as displayed at the museum, is another Chinese invention. The Chinese printed books many years before Gutenburg. They were also the first to conceive the idea of the printed daily newspaper. The Peking Gazette began to appear in A. D. 713, and has since issued daily until the collapse of the Manchu dynasty in 1911."

There's something in this September air that seems to put a lot of vim, vigor and vitality into eaters and send them home from the tennis courts and golf links—even from offices—simply ravenously hungry. I suspect it's partly the autumn pep in the weather and partly the enthusiastic response of appetites to the piping hot fall foods which we are reinstating once more, now that the dog days are relenting a bit.

Flapjacks—spanking hot, and luscious with melting butter and tangy sirup running down their brown sides—are the first to make their bow. But flapjacks and griddle cakes of 1932 are not what they once were, rather, they're more so. No longer does their goodness appear only at breakfast. They are gladdening hearts at the dinner table as a foreign meat accompaniment, at the supper or luncheon nook in the form of a substantial pièce de résistance—even at the dessert course they appear glorified into dishes that set the old pie and pudding standbys to blushing.

SWEET POTATO GRIDDLE CAKES.

First for a griddled contribution to the main dinner course. Sweet potato griddle cakes may be based on your original recipe with an additional egg and one cup of mashed sweet potatoes beaten in just before frying. Make them small—about three inches across—and fry them to a golden brown. They're delicious served with baked ham and sautéd pineapple slices or fried apples.

Or other vegetables besides sweet potatoes will turn a plain flapjack into a dinner accompaniment. The addition of leftover rice gives an interesting flavor and makes a good supporter for a fricassee chicken dinner. Roast beef at our house often demands corn griddle cakes, baked small and thin with the novel addition of finely chopped pimento. Again your best griddle cake recipe, with one cup of cornmeal substituted for one of the original flour, and the pimentos—a half cup of them—added as the final touch, will do the trick.

Pancakes for dessert are the most modern thing—though they have ancestors which were served on the continent quite some time ago. The French, for instance, call one delicacy French Suzette and use it for a novel "topping off" course for a company dinner. An extra rich batter—regular recipe plus an extra egg and a doubled proportion of sugar—is fried on a hot griddle in small, thin and almost crispy cakes. These little cakes are then piled up—five or six crunchy ones to a serving—and served with a sweet tangerine sauce or with a fruit preserve spread between layers. A fluff of whipped cream tops it all—and a real food epic is accomplished!

Griddle cakes — the same sweet recipe—smothered in fresh fruit and topped with whipped cream also bring cheers from the family. Sliced sweetened peaches, sugared berries, or cherries when in season are appropriate.

Another continental fried cake delicacy turns up in the form of Normandy rolls, adding another dessert to our repertoire. These are made from a rich batter, fried thin, about four inches across when done, and spread while still hot with a jam or jelly. As each cake is spread it is rolled up and slipped onto a platter, folded side down; and when all are lined up, a generous sprinkling of powdered sugar is applied and the service made by the hostess at the table. A thin fruit sauce may be passed if desired.

Finally, pancakes for lunch or supper, really shouldering the job of the entrée, are something to grow positively jubilant over. For instance, there's one made by adding a half cup of pan fried bacon, cut fine, to a waffle batter and frying it in generous pancake rounds.

MISS ELIZABETH BUNTING.

Miss Elizabeth Bunting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Witness Would Like to Help Small Friend

Booklets Answer Questions Dealing with Life.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

There are so many people who have a sympathetic eye on some child not their own and who want very much to be of service to them. Sometimes it's a grandmother who feels she cannot interfere, sometimes it's a friend who looks on helplessly because she cannot make suggestions. They write to me asking if I cannot print something in this column that will help.

For example, "Is there anything that could be given to a child of 9 or 10 to read that would answer the questions I know she is asking of the people she is living with? I mean a book not too long to give a child some understanding of such things as how babies come and what her mother might tell her if she had one?"

Yes, there is a book that was written for just that purpose, though it is not restricted to that age. It is called "Growing Up," by Karl de Schweinitz, and is for boys and girls who cannot for some reason learn gradually and correctly from some adult. This is listed in our booklet.

The second group of questions is from the mothers of sons and daughters nearly in their teens who are themselves in need of information so they can approach in a simple way the sex education of their children. As it is not possible to cover all this ground in detail in a small booklet, I have selected short, carefully written pamphlets that take care of every phase of this subject. The names of these booklets, a brief description of what each one is, and where each one may be obtained are all in our "Sex Education" booklet. In fact, this acts as a complete guide for parents in answering the children's first questions, on through adolescence. 4 stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring the booklet to you.

Miss Nancy Leiter will return to school at the convent near Philadelphia where she went last year.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde has gone to his home in Trenton, Mo., where Mrs. Hyde is spending the autumn season. She will not return to Washington until after the elections, but the secretary will be back this week.

Rear Admiral Hutchinson I. Cone has gone to Champaign, Ill., to join Mrs. Cone, nee Mattis, who has been with her relatives there through the summer. They are expected back here next Monday.

Twin Sisters Are Engaged.

Robert W. Childs of Hinsdale is making an interesting announcement today—or rather, two announcements, for he is announcing the engagements of his twin daughters, Barbara and Janet. Barbara is engaged to Warren Tilden Stanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clinton Stanford of Ishpeming, Mich., and Janet is engaged to George Jenkins Brown of La Grange. The Childs-Stanford wedding is planned for December of this year and the Childs-Brown one for early fall.

The sisters studied in Switzerland during 1929 and 1930, and for the last year Barbara has been attending the Chicago Teachers' college, taking a course in kindergarten work, and Janet has been studying at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, taking a course in interior decorating. The late Mrs. Childs was Katharine Barton, daughter of Enos M. Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance McCaulley and Paul J. Fitzpatrick of New York arrived at the Drake hotel yesterday for the wedding of Miss Ann Ashcraft and Raymond Otis Mitchell, which is to take place on Saturday afternoon at St. Mark's church in Evanston. The Joseph B. Terbells [Phœbe Logan] also arrived in Chicago yesterday by motor from New York. Mr. McCaulley, who is to be best man, and Mr. Terbell and Mr. Fitzpatrick, who are to usher, will be among the fifteen out of town attendants scheduled to be in the Ashcraft-Mitchell wedding party.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stuart Green of Greenwood, Va., are visiting Mr. Green's parents, the William Ogden Greens in Winnetka. Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter [Lucretia Green] of 1342 North Dearborn street and her small daughter, Josephine, have returned from a month's vacation on Cape Cod.

Mrs. Hopkins Returns to City.

Mrs. Farley Hopkins arrived at the Drake hotel yesterday after a month of visiting in the east, and her little daughter, Shirley Hopkins, is expected to come to Chicago today with her grandmother, Mrs. Henry von Maur, with whom she has been staying at Davenport, Ia. Mrs. Hopkins and Shirley will leave soon to join Mr. Hopkins at their residence in Phoenix.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus S. Hibbard of 2440 Lake View avenue have returned from their summer holiday at Eagle Knob lodge at Lake Owen, Wis.

Gordon Cameron, one of the four handsome sons of the Dan U. Camerons, is just back from a wonderful vacation, which started just after he was graduated from Yale last June and which ended last Saturday. He and seven Yale undergraduates started off on June 25 from Montauk Point in the sailboat race to Bermuda, and after reaching that fair island they turned around and sailed north to Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and then down the coast to Boston.

The boat, the Discovery, belongs to John Nichols Jr. Gordon will get busy now finding a job, his older brother, Jack, who finished at Williams last June, having already started in the real estate business. Dan Jr. will be a sophomore at Northwestern this year, and Barton, who was graduated from the Asheville Preparatory school in June, is undecided about where he will go to college this fall.

WEDDINGS

Col. and Mrs. Robert Hosmer Morse of Lake Forest yesterday announced the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Joan, to George Edward Morganstern. The ceremony took place on Aug. 22 in the Fourth Presbyterian church. The Rev. William S. Meyer officiated. Mr. Morganstern, who is a Chicago newspaperman, was graduated in 1930 from the University of Chicago.

Edward J. Bullock of 540 Linden avenue, Oak Park, announces the marriage on Sept. 3 of his daughter, Elisabeth Adelaide, to Dr. Harold Charles Lueth, son of Mrs. Charles Lueth of 1716 North Paulina street. The bride is a graduate of Northwestern university and of the National College of Education.

Student Bride

MRS. FRANK DALY.

Miss Lilah Dorothy Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Brown of Round Lake, and Frank McGrath Daly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick L. Daly of Warren were married on Tuesday at Waukegan. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Nolan at the Immaculate Conception rectory. They were attended by Miss Julie Peterkort of Round Lake and Harlow Ades of Rockford.

The marriage was the culmination of a romance which started at the University of Illinois two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Daly are to continue their studies at the university.

Good Morning!

Ol' Siren Manhattan
By that ol' davil sea,
May whip you and strip you
With sly casuistry.
May fill your dazed being
With thrills and alarms;
May bite while she kisses
And stab while she charms.
May sicken your soul
With her sham and veneer
And give you a headache
With what she calls "cheer."
Sic wild women on you
And men, after prey,
And not till you're drained dry
Pronounce it a day.
But the hag's in your blood!
As she hands you the sack
You cry, on departure:
"Belov'd—I'll be back. . . ."

And that, dear children, is what happens in this well presented but no way unusual picture to the boy from the sticks of Indiana who wanted to see Broadway. He stays away from home just 72 hours.

Uncles Prove Too Strict with Adopted Boy

Keep Him Away from Both Girls and Fellows.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The boy is 14. Being raised by a couple of bachelor uncles. And like a lot of guardians entrusted with a child's care, they overdo in the matter of watching over that child when he gets to man's estate.

Harry's uncles will not let him look at a girl. As for going out with one—well, Harry wouldn't dare suggest it. Not any more. Even boy pals are denied his current home. The consequence is that the boy is so self-conscious, so ill at ease with people that he leaves a party as quickly as he can get away.

"All the girls and fellows make fun of me and call me a sissy," he reports.

As soon as he can get a job, his intentions are to get away from that home atmosphere of his. "Get out," as he says it, "where a fellow can act natural and not be scared to death all the time."

Once we listened to the plaint of a broken hearted uncle who had taken a small boy at 3 and raised him to 19, when the boy up and left him. What made it harder to bear was the fact that it was a sister of the boy's dead father who saw the need of a wider horizon for the youth and urged his leaving.

But what the old bachelor never understood was that it was a repetition of his own pretty wild youth from which he was trying to save this charge of his, that he was seeing youth from this misdirected vision of his own. He gave the boy every advantage, according to his heart broken story. But the one great advantage, he refused to recognize. The advantage of youth's contact with its own age. Contact with boys and girls with contemporary dreams, ambitions, pleasures, interests.

You can't deny youth those things without having a deprecatory influence on character building. You can't make a man's man of a boy unless he learns the rules of the game from other boys. No amount of loving care will offset this imperative need in a boy's life.

A boy of 13 should be out with boys of his age. He should be having his first fling at puppy love affairs. Girls should have a normal, healthy place in his life.

MINE OPERATORS AND UNION CHIEFS IN WAGE PARLEY

Pay Reduction Opposed at N. Y. Conference.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Fortified by the authoritative view of the tri-district executive board that a wage reduction should be opposed with every resource, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and his associates conferred for the second time today with the anthracite operators' committee which had asked for a "wage modification."

After four hours of frank discussion of the situation which was held to be "constructive" the meeting adjourned until tomorrow. When the conference ended the mine union representatives were still in the dark as to the exact amount of the wage reduction which the operators desired. This has been reported to be between 20 and 25 per cent, but one report had it yesterday that the employers might ask for as much as a 27 per cent reduction.

At 6 o'clock tonight the miners who left the meeting denied emphatically a report that they were planning to make a concession of 10 per cent because they felt that a wage sacrifice of some sort was inevitable.

May Unite to Fight High Taxes.

In accordance with their policy since 1902 neither side would make a statement to reporters, but it was learned that most of the time of the conferees was taken up with taxation.

The position of the union was that if taxes and assessments were scaled down there would be no need of reducing wages. Out of the discussion there loomed the possibility of a cooperative effort to wage such a battle for tax reduction in the anthracite fields. If this step is finally decided upon it will be similar to a joint campaign undertaken three years ago and which resulted in the elimination of the Pennsylvania state tax on anthracite, an impost that had been an annoyance to the industry for many years.

In connection with the discussion on the tax and assessment situation it was pointed out that the hard coal industry was suffering from what was considered excessive imposts placed by local school boards and township officials.

Pickets Close Another Mine.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—After a week of operation the Wilmington, Ill., strip coal mine was closed again today because of picketing by striking miners from the Springfield district.

The result was the cancellation of the Alton railroad mine run.

Mine troubles have done more to injure the Alton's business in the last 12 years than any other single factor, including motor truck competition, according to officials of that organization, whose offices are in Bloomington.

SIGN PACT WITH PROGRESSIVES.

Thirteen operators of small coal mines, mostly in southern Illinois, have signed agreements with the new Progressive Miners of America and will employ diggers affiliated with the rebel union at the old $6.10 per day scale, the "Progressives" announced yesterday at Gillespie.

This statement and an optimistic prediction that more mine owners will follow suit were made by Arthur Hughes, secretary, with the appproval of Claude Pearcy, president of the new union.

Four young men and two young women laid a picketing siege on the offices of the Illinois Coal Operators' association, 307 North Michigan avenue, yesterday afternoon. The pickets left after they had marched back and forth in front of the building for an hour and one-half. They distributed handbills declaring that miners are starving in the southern part of the state.

RULES U. S. ECONOMY PROGRAM APPLIES TO PUBLIC WORKS PLAN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The 10 per cent cut in the cost of federal building projects ordered by the economy bill will also be applied to the $22 millions authorized for public works under the relief bill, Controller General McCarl ruled today.

Treasury officials construed this to mean that 10 per cent must be lopped off the cost of each separate project. The ruling was handed down by Mr. McCarl in response to a request by the treasury department for an interpretation of the law.

It had been the view of the treasury department that the cut laid down by the economy act should not be applied to the relief appropriations. In accordance with the treasury request the controller's ruling applies specifically to the 100 million dollars authorized for public buildings and the 120 millions for highway work, but it was unofficially stated that if a ruling were asked on the projects contemplated in the remaining portion of the 322 million dollars the same answer would be returned.

SCORE ONE FOR DEPRESSION IN GAME OF HEALTH

Has Decreased Deaths from T. B., Doctor Says.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Facts and figures came out of the west today to startle the American Congress of Physical Therapy into admission that not all the depression records are written in red ink. Dr Benjamin Goldberg of Chicago devoted twenty minutes before the scientific gathering in the Hotel New Yorker to prove that financial restrictions of the slump have returned physical gains to the country, notably an 8 per cent drop in the mortality rate from the white plague.

The general opinion prior to his address had been that unemployment and reduced incomes must have resulted in a marked increase in deaths from this disease. Dr. Goldberg, who is an associate professor in medicine at the University of Illinois and was formerly director of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium of Chicago, quoted comparative totals from ten states having an approximate population of more than 52,000,000 persons. Not one showed a gain in mortality of tuberculosis for the first half of 1932 as against the same period in 1931.

Statistics of Several States.

Some of the largest states, notably California and Texas, could not supply the figures. Others, he found, had not yet been compiled. The table read by the speaker was:

	1930 Population.	1931.	Ind. (Jan. to June) 1932.
New York	12,588,066	4,619	4,394
Pennsylvania	9,631,350	2,501	*2,312
New Jersey	4,410,334	1,422	1,388
Ohio	6,646,697	2,290	2,060
Illinois	7,630,654	2,500	2,288
Kansas	1,186,999	366	328
Minnesota	2,563,953	576	502
Alabama	2,646,248	1,148	1,143
Kentucky	2,614,589	1,324	1,049
Louisiana	2,101,593	965	854
	52,014,483	*17,717	16,289

*January to May, 1932, inclusive.

These figures, indicating a decrease of better than 8 per cent for the first six months of 1932 below the same time in 1931, are corroborated by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company from its files for the same six months of both years.

They showed that in 1931 there were 7,316 t. b. deaths among industrial policy holders, with a mortality rate of 81.9 per 100,000, as against only 6,447 in the first half of 1932, with a rate of 75.3 per 100,000.

Dr. Goldberg cited among the reasons for the improvement the simpler forms of living, more relaxation, less fatigue due to high industrial production and pleasure seeking, and a return to the farm of many city workers.

AGREEMENT REACHED BY PRINTERS AND JOB SHOP OWNERS

Committees representing the Chicago Typographical union and the owners of job printing shops in a conference concluded last night at the office of the Franklin association, 330 South Wells street, reached a tentative agreement on wages and working conditions to end the strike of approximately 800 printers in 30 shops throughout the city. The agreement, when ratified by both organizations, will affect about 500 shops normally employing 4,500 men.

Pending ratification the terms of the agreement were not disclosed, but it was reported that it would be effective for six months beginning on Sept. 19. It was understood that the proposals include a reduction from the $1.29½ an hour wage scale of the existing contract and several changes in working hours and conditions.

The employers will meet next Tuesday in the Great Northern hotel to ratify the agreement. The union will hold its ratification meeting on Sunday, Sept. 18. Meanwhile, it was reported that the 800 striking printers had returned to work yesterday at the $1.29½ scale pending the ratification.

The wage dispute occurred when employers arbitrarily reduced the scale to $1.10 an hour, contending they could not meet the existing scale and survive in the competitive field. In the negotiations yesterday the union was represented by a committee headed by J. M. McKeown and William J. Hedger. The employers' committee was headed by Harry G. Cantrall, secretary of the Franklin association.

AGREE TO ARBITRATE.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The Publishers' Association of New York agreed today to arbitrate the question of wages and hours with Typographical Union No. 6, it was announced. This was in accordance with a proposal from Austin Hewson, president of the union, which said the position of the union was: "In order to place both sides of the controversy properly before the arbitration board, the union will place its proposal as to hours and wages before that board while the Publishers' association will place its proposition as to wages and hours before the board."

JAPANESE TROOPS SENT TO RESCUE KIDNAPED BRITON

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Fifty Japanese soldiers were sent from Kaoling today to the rescue of two British citizens who were seized by bandits near Newchwang.

The foreigners were riding and had dismounted at an old race track to change horses, when the bandits surrounded them.

The party included Mrs. Fawley, Charles Cockran, and Duncan McIntosh, all employes of the Asiatic Petroleum company. McIntosh freed his hands after the bandits had tied him, leaped across a ditch and gained cover under the bandit fire. He gave the alarm which resulted in the dispatch of the rescue force.

KILLED UNDER FALL OF COAL.

Taylorville, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—James Nanni, 50, of Mark, met instant death today when caught under a two ton fall of coal in the Mark coal mine.

DEPUTY HELD AS PRISONER KILLER IN PLEA FOR BAIL

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Upheld by his superior, who refused to suspend him, Deputy Sheriff C. O. Skinner of Tazewell county today sought release on bond from the Peoria county jail, where he is held for the murder of Arthur Virant, alleged third degree victim.

Skinner, arrested last night on his return from Chicago to obtain custody of a boy paroled on a delinquency charge, "cried like a baby" when the warrant was served on him, said Chief of Police Ralph Goar of Pekin.

Skinner was arrested after Dr. William D. McNally, Chicago toxocologist and pathologist and former Cook county physician, reported after examination of Virant's body that the prisoner "did not die of his own hand and did not die of strangulation."

Virant was found hanging by his belt in the Tazewell county jail last Thursday afternoon.

Viewpoints differ, but the choice is Norge. One might choose Norge for the lasting beauty of its cabinet. Another for the shelf arrangement—waist high, easily accessible, ample in size. Still another would prefer Norge because of the odor-proof ice compartment with its tidy, spring-hinged, gasket-sealed door. To some, features such as the Icevoir, Watervoir, Hydrovoir and Preservoir might have the strongest appeal.

But back of all such refinements, improvements, and original features is the one most important reason for selecting Norge—the Rollator mechanism. Simple, sturdy, extra-powered to meet extra needs, the Norge Rollator mechanism is practically everlasting. There is only one Rollator and only Norge has it.

U. S. CONTROL OF SLOT MACHINES! THERE'S AN IDEA

Politicians Get the Profit, Anyway.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the pious verboten of the United States postoffice department, which forbids the dissemination of information pertaining to any of the British horse race lotteries, it has been your correspondent's misfortune to run foul of persons offering for sale certain documents, something like the English pound note, having to do with a race called the Caesarewitch to be run at Newmarket, England, on Oct. 12.

It is set forth on the reverse side of these documents that if certain events come about the holder thereof will be awarded 30,005 pounds. Under no consideration would your correspondent encourage vice to the extent of announcing where and from whom such certificates may be acquired and the subject is mentioned at all only for the purpose of viewing with alarm.

It May Be Gambling.

Also, in the course of your correspondent's coming and goings this summer he has noticed in many little places here and there from New Hampshire to Los Angeles numbers of slot machines all bearing the imprint of a Chicago manufacturing house. It is your correspondent's belief that these machines constitute a gambling device. The customer drops a quarter into the slot and yanks a lever where at certain gears clank and whir and certain combinations of still life pictures revolve on rollers behind a glass window.

There are attractive portraits of bananas, apples, cherries, parsley, turnips and so forth and the popular theory is that once every thirty days or so the gears become sentimental and let down hatfuls of quarters. Persons engaged in the refreshment business have informed your correspondent, however, that the gears may be adjusted in such a manner as to restrain their generous impulses to a ratio of about one to fifty.

This means that somebody is retaining a great many quarters in this year of great popular need, and the increase in the number of the machines at this time may have some relation to the fact that this is a political year. The political campaign committees are having difficulty raising donations from the faithful and, inasmuch as no slot machine can operate without the consent and connivance of the sheriff, prosecutor and other political officers of the community, there might be a sort of connection there.

It's a Possibility.

Possibly the next President when he takes the solemn oath of office in the sleet and rain next March 4, with his plug hat pressed to his bosom, will owe his office in some part to the regulated gears of the slot machines which have been collecting quarters in New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, California, and many places in between.

It was rather a surprise to note the appearance of these devices in the refreshment resorts of New York and the neighboring county of Westchester during the last year, because always hitherto it had been popularly supposed that these machines were immoral in character. They did not give the sucker an even break. In fact, they did not give the sucker any break at all.

There was an honest difference of opinion as to the legitimacy of the refreshment business and the ayes plainly had it. But even where the seductive chiff-chiff-chiff of the cracked ice bouncing among the ingredients in the cocktail shaker was a familiar sound, the clank and whir of the gears never was heard until about a year ago. Now the clank and whir is a very familiar sound, too.

It Is Shocking.

But almost anything might be expected in New York, especially in the year of a solemn referendum to select the people's choice. The shocking thing was the discovery of such devices in New England and particularly in New Hampshire. New Hampshire is dry, practical, moral, and the very opposite of New York and yet, in the campaign year, the gears may be heard clanking and whirring even as

GREENTREE POLO TEAM CONQUERS EASTCOTT, 11-10

Smith and Williams Lead Smashing Attack.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 7. — Jock Whitney's Greentree team defeated Eastcott, 11 to 10, in an extra period game this afternoon on international field and won the right to challenge Templeton for the polo championship of America here Saturday.

Two Texas stars—Cecil Smith and Rube Williams—riding like tornadoes and hitting like Babe Ruth, kept the veteran E. A. S. Hopping and his teammates on the defensive most of the afternoon. Gerald Balding, the British internationalist, and Greentree's leader, Whitney, passed the ball as if it were a football and kept the 6,000 spectators on their feat in the first two chukkers.

The game was marred just at the bell in the sixth period when Cecil Smith, the outstanding star on the Whitney team, suffered a bad spill. The Texan was following the ball along the west sideline when his mount, Glider, a chestnut gelding from the plains, crossed his front feet and began a long skid.

As Glider went down Smith was hurled from his saddle and sent spinning on his shoulder. After a 20 minute wait he climbed on his horse again as the crowd cheered.

Young Hopping Crashes.

In the first chukker young Hopping crashed into the grandstand when he overrode the boards. The collision injured his knee, but Hopping kept on playing.

The hard riding, slashing tactics of the Texas boys and the passing of Balding broke up the team work that Talbott, the two Hoppings, and Bobby Strawbridge had shown in winning Eastcott's first game from Tommy Hitchcock's Sands Point four last Sunday.

Gerry Balding, at No. 3 for Greentree, mounted on Blue Train in the fourth period, gave the crowd an exhibition of how to play polo. Balding flashed in and out of every scrimmage and in two long races down the length of the field outrode the elder Hopping first and then took Young Earle in the same stride.

Cecil Drives 'Em Far.

The long hitting of Cecil Smith had a lot to do with Greentree's victory. Smith socked the ball high over the goal posts from the 100 yard line in the third and it looked so good that the goal tender waved his red flag. The referee, however, ruled that the ball had passed just outside the uprights and the score was not allowed.

Eastcott scored three goals in the first chukker and Greentree didn't catch up until the fourth, when a rally tied the score for a couple of minutes, The Whitney team, however, was leading 5 to 4, at half time and continued to lead until the eighth.

The wind had taken on a winter chill and blankets and overcoats began to appear in the grandstand when young Earle Hopping cut loose. His bald head flashed past the grandstand twice and each time a goal flew off his mallet. Then Talbott caught a pass from the elder Hopping to make it three and the score 10 all.

There was a huddle as the game went into extra periods and the referee ruled that the first goal would decide the match. The teams lined up and Balding raked the ball out and was off down the field toward Eastcott's goal. It took him just thirty seconds to rap one between the uprights and win for Greentree.

Every game in the open championship series has been an upset so far. The favored team has failed each time and there were few opinions expressed tonight as to who would take the title Saturday. Winston Guest's Templeton four looked unbeatable when they were running away with Aurora yesterday and this afternoon the Greentree Cowboys had everything.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

This probably is no time to recall unpleasant incidents in the Cubs' history, except on the basis that what happened once could happen a second time.

There was that 1930 campaign when the Cubs, champions of the league at the time, started away in September on the same route they're covering today. They were five games ahead of the second place Giants, six ahead of Brooklyn, and six and one-half in advance of the Cardinals. It was just a matter of going through the motions to bring a second consecutive world series to Chicago. At least that's what everybody thought.

The Cubs thought it themselves, but from a five game lead the morning of Sept. 1 they slipped and skidded and slipped some more until they finally relinquished the lead the evening of Sept. 13. And they never regained it.

It Starts Sept. 1.

The 1930 foldup started Sept. 1 at Cincinnati when the Reds, who had been a nuisance to the Cubs all season, won a double header. On that same day the Cardinals, who on Aug. 1 had been 11 games behind Brooklyn, then in first place, started their famous pennant march by whipping the Pirates twice. And the Cards kept it up, winning 20 while losing only 3 during the month of September. And the poor Cubs, floundering through the east, came home second placers after winning only 9 and losing 13.

One consolation the Cubs now have, even if they do another nose dive, is that Pittsburgh, the only club with an apparent chance to nose them out, is hardly equal to a splurge such as the Cardinals staged.

And still another consolation is in the fact that where they were handicapped by injuries late in 1930, particularly by the loss of Charley Root, they now have their full strength. But they'll need all that, especially pitching, to offset their tendency toward light hitting. And possibly Cub partisans will not find any comfort in the fact that the team on the road has played .459 ball, whereas the Pirates have a .500 road average.

Here, in chronological order, is how the 1930 collapse started and finished:

FOUR GAMES AHEAD

Sept. 1—Cubs lose two at Cincinnati. Cards win a pair at Pittsburgh. Cubs hold first place by four games over Giants and four and one-half ahead of Cardinals.

Sept. 2—Root pitches his last good game by holding Reds to three hits, Cubs winning, 8 to 2. Cubs four games ahead of Giants and five ahead of the Cards, who were idle.

Sept. 3—Cubs lose at Pittsburgh, 9 to 6. Giants trail by three and one-half games; Cardinals by four and one-half.

Sept. 4—Cubs defeat Pittsburgh, 9 to 6, on homer by Hartnett in tenth. Hornsby returns to game after absence of three months. Cards and Giants tied for second place, four and one-half games behind.

Sept. 5—Cubs lose to Pirates, 8 to 7. Giants lose to Boston while Cards are idle. Cards take second place, four games behind leaders.

Sept. 6—Cubs hold four game lead by beating Pirates, 19 to 14, while

DEFEATS TRIM CHICAGO LEAD TO FIVE GAMES

Malone Routed in Opener.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—The Boston Braves today checked the rush of the Cubs toward a National league pennant by beating the Chocagoans in both games of a double-header, 11 to 4 and 2 to 0. The two defeats cut the Cubs' lead over the second place Pittsburgh Pirates to five games.

The terrible afternon was not as bad as it might have been, for the Pirates' winning streak was halted at 11 straight when they split a doubleheader with the Dodgers. Thus the Cubs were set back only one game instead of two, which would have been their fate had the Pirates won both contests.

Pittsburgh has 13 games to play, all away from home. The Cubs' schedule calls for 20 games, six at home, and four against the Pirates.

Nine Run Blowup.

The first game was decided in the most shocking blowup the Cubs have suffered since the world series in Philadelphia on Oct. 12, 1929. The A's on that day made 10 runs in one inning. Today the Braves fell only one run short of that historic total. In the seventh inning, after Malone had held them to one scratch single in the first six innings, they wrecked a 0 to 0 tie by chasing home nine runs on six hits off Malone and Grimes, an error by Maloen and two errors by Koenig.

The Cubs made three runs in the eighth, probably because Frankhouse had to lay off so long between pitching sessions, and they made one more in the ninth, probably because Frankhouse was tired from driving home one run in the Boston eighth and scoring the No. 11 marker himself.

Jordan's Homer Enough.

The second game, as things turned out, was decided by Baxter Jordan's homer with two out in the first inning. The 1 to 0 tabulation was preserved until Bob Smith took over the pitching job from Guy Bush in the eighth. Three hits, two of which might have been scored as Cub errors, gave the Braves their superfluous run in their final offensive appearance of the day.

Ben Cantwell was the winning pitcher and had the boys subdued to a startling extent except in the fifth and eighth innings. In the fifth Grimm's slowness afoot kept him from scoring on a long double by Koenig. The bases later were filled, but nothing came of it. In the eighth Herman and English singled with two out, but Cuyler supplied an easy forceout to retire the side.

Another Doubleheader Today.

Before the blow-up in the first game Cub efforts thrice were thwarted by double plays and the Braves added more discouragement of this type when they completed three more double plays in the second game.

In getting by with Frankhouse and Cantwell, both of whom were used only for relief duty in the last two Cubs-Braves series, the Bostonese figure themselves in excellent shape for the doubleheader to be played between the teams tomorrow. Ed Brandt and Bob Brown, top flight performers, will be available against Root and Tinning.

FIRST GAME

In view of the later happenings, there doesn't seem to be a real need for commenting on the high class features of the first two-thirds of the first game. In the first six innings the Cubs made five hits, all singles, and in the same span the only hit off Malone was a Texas league single to left which Jordan knocked with one out in the fourth.

Cuyler made a single with two out in the first and Stephenson ended the inning with a fly to R. Moore. J. Moore led off the second inning with a single to right and Grimm hit into a double play, after which Koenig fanned. In the third Malone singled with one down and Herman walked, but English popped to Maranville and Cuyler flied to Berger.

Stephenson led off the fourth with a single to center, J. Moore fanned and Grimm again hit into a double play. Koenig started the fifth with a single to center, was sacrificed to second by Hartnett, and went to third while Malone was grounding out, but died when Walters threw out Herman.

Here Comes the Riot.

This brings us right up to the detail of that horrible Braves' seventh: R. Moore started things with a bouncer to Grimm. Malone paddled over to cover first and got there in ample time, but failed to touch the bag after taking Charley's toss. The error did not seem to distress Pat especially, but it must have, regardless of appearances, for Berger forthwith slammed the Braves' second hit, a line single to center which put R. Moore on third.

Holland cracked the first pitch for a single to right, which scored R. Moore and put Berger on third. Walters singled to center, scoring Berger and putting Holland on third. With the infield playing in close, Spohrer tapped to Koenig, and when Mark fumbled the ball Holland scored, Walters reached second, and Spohrer reached first.

The runners moved up on Frankhouse's sacrifice. Then Maranville tapped to Malone and Walters was

Vines, Cochet Win National Net Matches

Forest Hills, L. I., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The national tennis tournament today appeared more than ever to be a two man monopoly, with Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Cal., and Henri Cochet of France holding equal shares. Both won their fourth round matches in convincing style and went into the quarter finals.

Vines crushed Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, Cal., co-holder with him of the national doubles title, by a score of 6-1, 6-3, 6-1. Cochet defeated John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., 7-5, 6-3, 8-6.

Wood Whips Perry.

Sidney Wood of New York provided the major upset of the day by defeating Frederick Perry, England's second ranking star, 3-6, 4-6, 6-0, 6-0, 7-5.

After losing the first two sets, Wood called for time and changed his shoes. He came back to take two love sets from Perry, and then outplayed and outgamed him in the fifth after it had been deuced at 5 all.

Another upset saw Clifford Luther of New Orleans beat H. W. [Bunny] Austin of England, 6-2, 6-0, 7-5.

Wilmer Allison, Davis cup player from Texas, won easily from Edward Avory, another British hope, 6-4, 6-1, and 6-2.

Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles defeated Gregory Mangin of Newark, national indoor champion and eighth seeded player, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4.

Lott Beats Japanese.

George Lott of Chicago ended the titular aspirations of Japan by defeating Tokeo Kuwabara, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Frank Shields of New York eliminated John Olliff of England, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

In the Wake of the News

FOOTBALL BROADCASTING.

WHETHER broadcasting reduces attendance at college football games is a moot question. There is no definite way of proving either the pro or con. Broadcasting became popular and customary during the game's greatest prosperity from a turnstile viewpoint. So basis of comparison is lacking.

Despite large crowds of recent years, less large during the depression, The Wake inclines to the affirmative—that broadcasting to a certain extent does affect attendance. Even in this opinion we differentiate between so-called "big" games and minor games. The effect is felt mostly on minor games, especially in bad weather.

Here's how we view it: Even with the prevailing large stadiums, there is demand, often approaching and sometimes exceeding the supply, for tickets to "big" games between traditional or intersectional rivals. Those wishing choice locations apply for season tickets, if residents of the vicinity, or apply early for tickets for that particular game, if living at a distance, to insure vantage points. Thus their attendance is assured, radio or no radio.

Then take the minor games for which no demand for tickets exceeding the supply will arise. Those contemplating attendance, if not season ticket holders, are inclined to wait until the day of the game before purchasing their tickets. If the day be rainy or bitterly cold, they may declare, "Well, I'll sit in a warm room and just listen in."

Whether colleges should protect their athletic treasuries by refusing permission for broadcasts—action taken in the east but now under reconsideration—we do not pretend to say. Our middle western colleges have decided to allow the broadcasts.

It is conceded it might be difficult for a state university to refuse such requests if there were widespread demand for the service in its own territory. That is because state universities are dependent on legislatures for their appropriations. Legislators reflect the sentiment of their communities. It is therefore desirable such sentiment be friendly.

The problem, if it be a problem, is one likely to solve itself. No hard and fast rule, binding for the future, can be adopted. Changing conditions, both in football and in radio, will determine the issue. It is conceivable various groups of colleges may take opposing views according to their own interests.

Do You Remember 'Way Back When:

Cub rooters tendered Frank Chance's world champions a banquet at the Congress hotel Oct. 17, 1907, and sang this parody:

So long, Hughey, Hughey, we miss you so,
So long, Hughey, how we hate to see you go,
For your team has been a pudding, dear old mate,
Stay here, Hughey, let us make it twenty straight. S. L. M.

[Editor's note — "Hughey" was Hughey Jennings, manager of the Detroit American league champions, who, after tying the first game, lost four straight to the Cubs.]

Boston Opens Series with Sox Today

After two days of rest, barring a couple hours of schooling yesterday, the White Sox announced themselves in readiness for the opening of a "kroocial" series with the tail end Boston Red Sox today. The "kroocial" feature is presented by the fact that the Boston boys are determined to get out of the cellar and put the Chicagoans in their place.

Because his team is so close to the cellar, Manager Fonseca probably will abandon, temporarily, all ideas of providing experience for his young talent which is arriving almost daily. None less than the capable Ted Lyons probably will be called on today to deliver a winner in the opener of the three game series.

The south side squad was enlarged by two newcomers yesterday. Willis Norman, an outfielder originally picked up in the Western association and farmed out last spring to St. Paul of the American association, arrived after a recall order had been served on St. Paul. Chad Kimsey, a big right hander who for several years gave occasional flashes of promise as a member of the St. Louis Browns, was claimed by waiver. Inside of a day or two Ed Walsh, recalled from Oakland, Cal., also will be back in the uniform he wore for several seasons.

Lotshaw's Magic Cures Warneke; Look Out Boston!

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Lonnie Warneke, the National league's only pitcher with twenty victories to date, who had been reported by Manager Grimm as out of the Boston series because of "a mysterious misery in his back," will pitch Friday, following a sudden but in no way miraculous recovery.

LON WARNEKE.

Lon was sent to Trainer Andy Lotshaw's sick bay as soon as Andy could get his lamps connected and his lotions sorted after the Cubs arrived in Boston last night. At 2 o'clock this morning Lon became a little weary of it all and, rolling out from under the ultra violet rays, said:

"That doctor who monkeyed around with me in Cincinnati Monday was the first doctor that ever laid a hand on me and there ain't ever been a dentist who looked into my face. I've gone 23 years without needin' either doctor or dentist and I think I can go for a longer spell."

Lon apparently was right, for at 7 o'clock this morning he advised Lotshaw that he felt like a new man.

INDIAN RUNNER'S NO QUITTER; WINS BY SIX LENGTHS

Lincoln Fields Patrons See His Name Cleared.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Indian Runner didn't falter in the Oak Park purse at Lincoln Fields yesterday. He didn't quit like he did at Hawthorne a week ago, when he stopped so suddenly the spectators staged a demonstration against Jockey Charley Allen, who was riding him.

The race cause Jockey Allen to be barred for the remainder of the Hawthorne season.

Jockey W. Wright, just about the liveliest young rider in the country, was in the saddle on Indian Runner in the Oak Park, and Indian Runner was such a lively horse that he won by six lengths from some of the best 3 year olds in this part of the country.

Prince Hotspur Places.

Prince Hotspur rallied to be second and Marmion landed third.

It was Indian Runner's race all the way. His head was showing in front a second after the start came. He increased his lead as he galloped over the seven furlong course to smash a track record. His time was 1:22 4-5. It bettered the old mark, held by Eskimo, by one-fifth of a second.

He was four lengths in front when the stretch run started. Then the crowd expected him to swerve and quit. That's what he seemed to have done out at Hawthorne. But he didn't swerve, nor he didn't quit. Jockey Wright kept him running straight and true and he was going so easily when he sped over the finish line that he gave the impression he could keep up the spectacular pace all day.

Fans Stay With Him.

Indian Runner's admirers didn't lose faith in him because he was beaten when Jockey Allen was in the saddle. They stampeded the mutuel machines to buy tickets on him and he wound up as the odds-on favorite, paying $3.82 to win, $2.80 to place, and $2.44 to show. Prince Hotspur paid $5.94 for the place and Marmion was at $4.08 to show.

It was a parade of favorites, as far as the best races on the program were concerned. In the Dahlia purse Esseff made a show of her opponents, winning by four lengths from Stuyvesant Peabody's Miss Melody, with Gertrude L. running third.

Esseff sailed to the front going down the back stretch and stayed there. It was the best performance of a 2 year old at Lincoln Fields this season. She skipped over the six furlongs in 1:11 1-5, which was nearly a second faster than Miss Brilliant had run the same distance 24 hours earlier.

Jockey Finnerty rode Esseff to her victory. The daughter of High Time-Labelle Helene races in the jacket of Charles T. Fisher of Detroit. She frequently has indicated during the summer that she ranks with the best of her age and sex in the country, but this was the best race she has turned in during the season.

CHICAGO GIRL IS SEMI-FINALIST ON GRASS COURTS

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Helen Fulton, Chicago tennis star, advanced to the semi-final round of the national girls' grass court tennis championship tournament by defeating Millicent Hirsch, New York, metropolitan junior champion, today. The scores were 6-4, 6-2.

Others entering the semi-finals were Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, Cal., Bonnie Miller, Los Angeles, and Katharine Winthrop, Boston. In tomorrow's matches Miss Fulton will meet Miss Wheeler and Miss Miller will face Miss Winthrop.

Miss Miller, seeded No. 3 in the draw, had little difficulty in disposing of Cecil Bowes, Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-2. Miss Wheeler won from Elizabeth Keating, St. Paul, 6-2, 6-2, while Miss Winthrop defeated Fanny Goodyear, Springfield Center, N. Y., 6-2, 7-5.

Officials Meet Tonight to Discuss Grid Rules

The Central Officials' association will hold the first of a series of semi-weekly meetings at the Great Northern hotel tonight. The session will be devoted to an interpretation of the new football rules. High school coaches in the Chicago district are invited.

These 2 Punters Would Enjoy Kicking Jalpur

Two unidentified racegoers suffered severe heart shocks during the running of the third race at Lincoln Fields yesterday. Throughout the early part of the event a horse called Jalpur was well up in the running. When he wheeled into the stretch it was announced that "If Jalpur wins the daily double pays $4,011.14."

Only two tickets had been sold on the combination of Altmark, the winner of the second race, and Jalpur.

But Jalpur proved a quitter. A lot of horses ran past him and the dreams of two daily double punters went smash. Bagsmasher won the race, making the daily double worth $109.28.

A red hot tip got out on Col. Edward R. Bradley's colt, Back Kick, a 20 to 1 shot, in the first race. He showed startling early speed, but finished third back of Pharahead and Hueu.

MATTERHORN IN CONGO'S JUNGLE! THAT'S MEDINAH

Elmer Dubb Braves Club's New No. 3 Course.

[The following statement was taken from Elmer Dubb after he regained consciousness on his return from eighteen holes over the championship No. 3 course of the Medinah Country club yesterday.]

BY ELMER DUBB.

So they call it a golf course, that No. 3 layout at Medinah. It might be that to some of these hot shots but to a Dubb it's combination of the Alleghenies and the Argonne, with a couple of roller coasters and a merry-go-round thrown in. Certainly, I was warned not to attempt to get over it. There were tales of the dazed men who lurched off its 18th green during the recent district amateur tournament, muttering about the horrors they had encountered on it, begging for one look at a good treeless, grassless plain.

But the Dubbs, they are a foolish race, so I hied myself out to Medinah yesterday and with a couple of recent performances in mind in which I neared 100, asked to sample this nemesis of the district. I knew that Art Sweet, shooting like one possessed, had established the course record of 70, and that prior to this, Abe Espinosa, the club professional, had turned in the best card up to then, a par 72, and also that the old champion himself, Gene Sarazen, had rassled it to no better than a 75 on Labor day. But I was young and stubborn and no amount of argument from the Medinah people could dissuade me from setting forth with my partner, Franklin Sturdy, son of the club's president.

Off Into the Unknown Wilds.

A mournful party composed of Abe, Ned Jamieson and Joe Flynn bade us godspeed at the first tee with such sincerity that I began to suspect that there might be something to this bug aboo after all. Abe asked me to leave my home address in the event I should not return, and offered me a compass, but I scorned these and we started out.

After I had gotten off my usual vigorous tee shot of fully 75 yards, we rambled down the first fairway. We lost sight of civilization somewhere about the middle of it, where a large bump in the scenery, which might well be called Mount Espinosa, rears itself. This latter proved to be a mere foothill compared to some of the mountain ranges splitting other fairways before the finish.

Frank and I finally struggled away from the first hole, grateful for a pair of eights. Incidentally, this will be about the last mention of scores in this essay. Even a Dubb has his pride, you know, and Frank is a good guy. I am not one to expose my fellow man. Some things in life are sacred.

Anyway, we came to the second hole, jocularly called a water hole. It's only 150 yards, but about 148 of that is composed of a stream big enough to float the Robert E. Lee and a couple of showboats. We will not go into the matter of how I got on the green. There is a handsome bridge to the other side, and golf balls are not a dime a dozen yet.

Over the Matterhorn.

The third fairway is bordered by a parade of trees which offer the makings for a new national forest. If your drive doesn't go down the middle, you will have to be an Eagle scout to get back, and when you've done that, ask your caddy for an alpenstock and begin to yodel, for there's many an Alp between you and home.

This goes on and on until you begin to wonder when the searching party will come riding up, and where you can pitch a tent for the night. Then it is that the fiendish nature of the course begins to show itself. You stagger into a clearing where greenskeepers' men are working, and your grateful ears pick up the sound of automobile motors humming along the Lake street road.

This brief return to civilization is only a trick, however, to lure you back into the wilderness. Innocently you go along with nary a stretch of forest to weary you, and then of a sudden you are back in the jungle once more. It is the terrifying thirteenth, the horseshoe hole, with its sharp break in the middle, which even Sarazen thinks is too severe. It's 500 yards long, and undoubtedly the most difficult par 5 hole in the district. Say you do get a good drive to the break in the fairway. You're still only half way home, and there's that mountainous green at the end of the road. As far as one Dubb is concerned, any one who gets a par on this hole should be credited with an eagle.

Another Long Sea Voyage.

Before you have recovered from the 13th, you find yourself on the 14th tee, gasping at one of the strangest fairways in golf. The green is only 170 yards away, but if you don't reach it, you'll find yourself at the foot of the fairway, which tilts so sharply to the left that you must be a mountain climber to get back.

After that you don't care. The only thought is to get home, but before you do that you must cross the young Mississippi once more in going to the 17th green. The home fairway is more or less right down the middle, and a welcome sight after what has gone before.

This is merely the report of a Dubb on the hardest course in the Chicago district, but if the United States Golf association does not give Medinah's young No. 3 a call for a national tournament within the next few years, after it has had the proper amount of culture and aging, it will be laying itself open to the charge that it is pampering its Oulmets and Dutras and Sarazens.

Brooklyn Dodgers Grid Team Signs Bud Toscani

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Bud Toscani, half back at St. Mary's college, Oakland, Cal., for the last three years, signed a one year contract today to play professional football this season with the Brooklyn Dodgers, the club announced. Toscani caught the pass and scored the touchdown that beat Southern California in one of the upsets of last fall's collegiate season.

CARDINALS BEAT GRAND RAPIDS ELEVEN, 13 TO 0

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Chicago Cardinals opened the professional football season tonight by defeating the Grand Rapids Maroons, last year's champion of the Michigan professional football league, 13 to 0, in a practice game.

Passes gave the Cardinals both touchdowns, one in the second period on a 12 yard pass, Simas to Rogge, and the other in the third, Simas to Moore. Frosty Peters' dropkick added the extra point after the first touchdown.

The Cardinals, using the Notre Dame shift, outplayed Grand Rapids except in the last quarter when the Maroons smashed the line for long gains until held for downs on the 20 yard line.

Max Baer to Fight Tuffy Griffith at Stadium Sept. 23

Max Baer, who recently knocked out Ernie Schaaf at the Stadium, although the bell ended the tenth round before the count was finished, will meet Tuffy Griffith in the same ring Sept. 23, it was announced last night. Jack O'Keefe, Tuffy's manager, signed the contract last night following a conference with Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager.

Baer is expected to accept the fight formally today. Following his victory over Schaaf, Baer went to New York at the instance of the officials of Madison Square Garden, but it is reported that terms offered here for a match with Griffith were more to his liking.

Roy Tramblie, Rockford middleweight, started training yesterday at the Arcade gymnasium for his ten round match with Young Stuhley of Kewanee, Ill., at White City Monday. Stuhley will begin workouts at the same place today.

Tramblie will be seeking his third straight victory, having knocked out Bud Saltis and Joe Feldman in his latest starts. Stuhley has won his 17 bouts in Chicago, his most recent being a victory over Bob Groshek.

Mique Malloy made two six round supporting matches yesterday. Dick Sisk, Brighton Park junior welterweight, and Harry Menering of Crawfordsville, Ind., meet in one. The other match bring together Billy Gladstone, stablemate of Tramblie, and Young Terry of Davenport, Ia. Terry's best accomplishment is an eight round draw with Barney Ross on the southwest side two years ago.

Another six round event and two fights at four rounds each will complete the card.

Braves Whip Cubs Twice, 11-4 and 2-0

It Goes On and On.

R. Moore, up the second time, grounded to Koenig, who booted the ball for his second error of the riot, Jordan reaching third and R. Moore landing on first. Berger doubled to center, Jordan scoring and R. Moore stopping at third. Holland singled to left, scoring R. Moore and Berger. Grimes threw out Walter and the score was Boston, 9; Chicago, 0.

Frankhouse, of course, had had plenty of time to lose his perspiration between Cub innings, and this cooled out condition enabled the Chicagoans to make three runs in the eighth on singles by English and Cuyler, a double by Stephenson and a single by Grimm.

The Braves made two runs in the eighth on a double by Spohrer, Frankhouse's single, a passed ball, and a pop fly which Stephenson muffed.

SECOND GAME

The customers didn't have to wait seven innings to witness run production in the second game, once the Cubs had been retired in the first inning. Herman had opened the game with a single, but English flied to right and Cuyler hit into a double play. Then Jordan came up with two down in the Boston half and socked a homer into the right field stands. R. Moore flied to J. Moore.

A single by Walters with two out was the nearest thing to a threat by either team in the second inning. Koenig led off the third with a single to right, but Hemsley hit into a double play and Cantwell threw out Bush. The Braves made two singles in their end of the third, but to no avail.

Grimm Too Slow to Score.

Had Grimm been of average fleetness the Cubs would have tied the count in the fifth. Charley singled with two out and Koenig doubled to deep right center, but the boss didn't feel equal to the job of going on home, so he stopped at third. Hemsley was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Then Bush popped to Maranville.

Except for the ability of English to wheedle a base on balls from Cantwell with one out in the sixth, the Cubs were helpless in both the sixth and seventh innings.

Hack batted for Hemsley to start the eighth and Maranville made a leaping one hand catch of his drive. Gudat batted for Bush and R. Moore made a nice running catch of his fly. Herman singled to left, the fifth hit off Cantwell. Walters drew an error for dropping English's foul, and then Woody singled through Jordan, Herman stopping at second. Cuyler tapped to Urbanski to force English.

Braves Pick Up Another.

Smith took over the pitching job in the eighth. Urbanski singled to center and went to second on Jordan's sacrifice. R. Moore generously was given a hit when Herman juggled his grounder, Urbanski stopping at third. The official scorer also gave Berger a hit when Herman failed to handle his bouncer. Urbanski scored and R. Moore stopped at second. Holland flied to J. Moore and Smith threw out Walters.

Stephenson led off the ninth with a single to left, but J. Moore hit into the Braves' third double play of the game and their sixth of the afternoon. Grimm ended a most profitless afternoon with a fly to R. Moore.

MILLS PLAY MADISON.

The Mills will oppose the Madison Blues Sunday at Mills stadium in the second game of a double header celebrating Arthur C. Lueder day at the west side park. In the opener two picked postoffice teams will play seven innings.

Giants' Homers in Seventh Beat Cincinnati, 7-5

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Paced by Joe Moore and Mel Ott, the New York Giants came from behind to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 5, today.

Moore led the Giants' attack with five hits in as many trips to the plate, one of them a home run which started a three run rally in the seventh. Mel Ott connected with his 32d homer of the season in the same inning to put the Giants out in front.

It's 2d Double Defeat for Bush, Malone Combine

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—The last time the Cubs lost a double header, on Aug. 14, to St. Louis, today's losing pitchers were charged with the defeats, and in the same order. In St. Louis Malone dropped the first one, 2 to 0, and Bush was vanquished in the eleventh inning of the second, 2 to 1.

The Cubs win 18 out of 20, then turn around and lose three straight and four out of six. There ought to be a law.

The biggest edge the Cubs have had over the Pirates since the Chicagoans supplanted the Pittsburghers in first place on Aug. 11 was 8½ games. Obviously the Cubs have been shaved down 3½ games. But the Pirate winning streak has been broken and the Chicagoans are predicting improved going.

Koenig, in the terrible seventi of the first game today, made two nervous errors for his only bad showing since joining the Cubs. However, he made a double and two singles in seven times at bat during the afternoon. It wasn't his fault that the double didn't tie the score.

By hitting in each game Koenig made it 18 straight contests in which he has hit safely.

The best fielding play of the day was a great one-handed catch by Cuyler off Berger to start the fourth inning of the second game. Ki crashed into the wall after the catch, but was not injured.

All six of the double plays made by the Braves were infield affairs and reflected the class of the pitching rather than the skill of the fielders.

Rabbit Maranville, who did not get a hit during the August visit of the Braves to Wrigley field, went hitless in the first game today, and the one he made in the second game was scratchy in that it bounced between Koenig's heels.

Hits sometimes mean something, but they certainly didn't in the first game today. The score was 11 to 4 against them, but the Cubs outhit the Braves, 11 to 9.

PATRICK WHIPS WILLIE OSTER IN TEN ROUNDS

Mickey Patrick, East Chicago middleweight, defeated Willie Oster, Chicago, in the ten round windup at the Northwest stadium last night. Jackie Davis won the decision over Billy Gladstone in the six round semi-windup. In another six rounder Mickey O'Shea whipped Les Darcy. Tony Muscarello, who was one of the leading amateurs in the Chicago district, lost to Dominick Petrone, Chicago featherweight, in his professional debut. Pat Flowers won a four round decision oved Al De Rose.

Pirates Divide with Dodgers; Gain Full Game

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, starting their final bid for the National league pennant, broke even with the Brooklyn Dodgers today to shave a full game off the lead of the Chicago Cubs, who lost two games to the Braves.

After extending their winning streak to 11 straight with an 8 to 3 victory in the first game, the Pirates fell before the southpaw pitching of Fred Heimach in the second game, losing 4 to 2. The even break left the Pirates trailing the Cubs by five games with the Dodgers another four games back.

In the first game, the Pirates concentrated their attack on Van Mungo, scoring six runs on five hits in the first inning. Joe Shaute pitched effective relief ball, but the Dodgers were unable to connect with the offerings of Bill Swift.

Capt. Pie Traynor and Tony Piet cracked out three hits each in the second game, but the remainder of the Pirates found Heimach's pitching puzzling. Twice Piet drove Traynor across the plate with doubles and in the ninth hit a triple with two out.

The Dodgers made only eight hits off Bill Harris, but three of them came in the second for one run and three more in the fourth for the Dodgers' second score. They counted again in the sixth and seventh, a wild throw by Gus Suhr permitting Heimach to score the fourth run. Scores:

HANLEY THINKS ILLINI WILL BE SEASON SURPRISE

Coach Dick Hanley paused in the midst of activities at Northwestern yesterday to make the following observations regarding the Western conference football campaign:

1. For the standout team in the conference keep an eye on Purdue, Ohio, and Minnesota. These three appear to be the strongest contenders at this time.

2. Illinois will be the most improved team in the Big Ten. Coach Bob Zuppke appears to have another winner on the way.

3. Both Northwestern and Michigan have a chance to become contenders. Their losses in the line makes their positions uncertain. The outcome of the early season game between these teams will settle their status.

4. Northwestern will endeavor to offset the loss of Riley, Marvil, and Engebretsen by resorting to a "speeded up" offense, built around Rentner, Sullivan, and Olson.

Hanley predicted that this fall's race would be one of the most interesting in years. Any one of a half dozen teams is likely to finish on top.

As for Northwestern, he declared, it will take at least two games to reveal how strong the Wildcats will be this fall.

OIL UP THAT GUN! DUCK SEASON TO OPEN ON OCT. 16

But Snipe Are Fair Game for Hunters Oct. 1.

BY BOB BECKER.

When does the jacksnipe season open in the central states? Will the duck season start on Oct. 15 or 16 in Illinois? These and other similar questions related to the approaching waterfowl shooting season were found in numbers in our mail bag when we returned from the Black hills.

Here are the 1931-'32 regulations. For Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and several other central states the opening day on ducks and geese will be Oct. 16. The season continues to Dec. 15. On the opening day shooting cannot start until noon.

Snipe Season Opens Oct. 1.

The snipe season opens Oct. 1 in Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin and many other states.

Hunters should keep in mind the 12 o'clock opening hour on Oct. 1. This regulation will prevail on snipe, just as it does on ducks. The government regulation reads: "The hour for the commencement of hunting waterfowl, rails, gallinules, coot, and Wilson's (jack) snipe on the opening day of the season shall be 12 o'clock noon." The snipe season continues to Dec. 31. After the first day one may hunt them from sunrise to sunset. The noon regulation holds good only on the first day.

Gallinule Season Opened.

The season on rails and gallinules, except the mudhen, already is opened. The government regulation reads: "The open season for sora and other rails and gallinules (except coot) shall be from Sept. 1 to Nov. 30, except in Massachusetts, Washington, New York, and Louisiana."

Although comparatively few Illinois hunters burn up ammunition in hunting wild doves, sportsmen are reminded that in Illinois the dove season opened on Sept. 1 and will continue to Dec. 15, according to the government regulation. The dove is a migratory bird and therefore comes under the migratory bird law, which concerns itself with the ducks, geese, coots, etc.

These open seasons give central states sportsmen a staggered season for marsh hunting. Rails may be hunted in September, but no jacksnipe can be taken until Oct. 1. On Oct. 16 is the big day, the start of the duck and geese season.

SALICA WHIPS HIS CONQUEROR IN OLYMPIC GAMES

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Lou Salica, America's amateur flyweight boxing champion, squared accounts tonight with Steve Enekes, Hungarian fighting lad, who is the Olympic champion.

Before a crowd of about 6,000 greeting the fall boxing season in Madison Square Garden, Salica hammered his way to the decision in three spectacular rounds over his Hungarian rival in the feature bout of an international amateur boxing tournament in which Italians won five bouts to three for the Americans.

Unusual interest attached to the bout because Enekes had eliminated Salica on a disputed decision in the semi-finals of the Olympic games title bout. But there was no disputing the American champion's superiority tonight in a battle which overshadowed any flyweight struggle between amateurs this city has seen in recent months. Other results:

115 POUND CLASS—Julie Katz, United States, defeated Edelweiss Rodriguez, Italy.
118 POUND CLASS—Victor Melis, Italy defeated Ralph Sohmers, United States.
126 POUND CLASS—Caspare Allesandri, Italy, defeated Louis Stipo, United States.
125 POUND CLASS—Mario Miachini, Italy, defeated Harry Goldman, United States.
147 POUND CLASS—Sam Kanter, United States, defeated Luciano Sarbroni, Italy.
160 POUND CLASS—Mark Hough, United States, defeated Aldo Longinotti, Italy.
175 POUND CLASS—Gino Rosi, Italy, defeated Jerry Wright, United States.
HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS—Luigi Rovati, Italy, defeated Pinkerton Bell, United States.

New York, Sept. 7.—Interest in today's bond market was centered in the unlisted section. There New York City issues rose 1 to 4 points. In "when issued" trading, the new United States government numbers went up to a premium. While those descriptions were climbing, domestic corporation liens made little headway.

Announcement of Mayor McKee's drastic retrenchment program and a speedy start toward its fulfillment were the signal for rapid gains in New York municipal bonds, including issues of both long and intermediate maturity. The long term 4¼s, due 1981, soared to 94 bid, compared with 90 bid yesterday, the two prices comparing with a level below 80 several months ago.

New U. S. Issues Advance.

The new government issues included in the treasury's September financing program reached substantial premiums, with the 1¼ per cent certificates selling ¾ point above par and the 3¼ per cent notes changing hands at 19-32 of a point above par during the course of spirited trading. This action reflected the prompt oversubscription and a belief that allotments will be curtailed.

Holders of the maturing certificates, due Sept. 15 next, were the principal participants in the "when issued" trading in the new treasury issues. Owing to the preferred privilege given them such holders are assured of 100 per cent allotment on their holdings.

Rail Bonds Are Feature.

Exhaustion following their extended advance appeared among domestic corporation bonds, both speculative and investment issues. While trading continued active on a broad front, little progress was in evidence anywhere. Speculative rails accounted for much of the volume.

Strength continued in foreign dollar bonds, with German municipal and corporate liens pacing the advance.

Some high grade rails and utilities sold at new highs today and nearly all of them were in favor. Higher prices were paid for Burlington 3½s, Cincinnati Gas 4s, Jersey Central 5s, Central Hudson Gas 5s, Canadian Pacific 5s of 1944, Canadian National 5s, Santa Fé general 4s, American Telephone 5s, Consolidated Gas 4½s and 5s, Morris and Essex 3½s, and Union Pacific refunding 4s and the 4½s.

Few speculative issues underwent much change in price. International Telephone 4½s of 1939, Postal Telegraph 5s, Remington Rand 6½s, Colon Oil 8s, Ontario Power Service 5½s, and Youngstown 5½s of 1970 were some of the exceptions.

New issues totaling $3,052,323 of 5 per cent bonds of the city of Los Angeles were offered today by a syndicate led by the Chase-Harris-Forbes corporation and including Continental Illinois Company, Inc., First Union Trust and Savings bank, R. L. Day & Co., F. S. Moseley & Co., Mercantile-Commerce Company, Inc., and Lawrence Stern & Co., Inc.

COTTON TRADERS EXPECT BULLISH CROP REPORT

A good percentage of the trading in cotton was evening up for a crop report from the government due today at 11 o'clock. A bullish showing is expected. This has made shorts uneasy and they have reduced their commitments while holders of contracts are none too confident and take profits on the bulges. This made for a nervous market and held prices within a more moderate range. A bullish construction was placed on the government's weekly weather crop report which tends to confirm private advices of crop deterioration. With the exception of a few light rains in Texas the cotton belt was practically rainless. Trade reports continue favorable. At the close futures in Chicago were 1 point net lower to 12 points higher, the latter on December which was the most active trading month. New York was 1 to 5 points higher, and New Orleans unchanged to 8 points higher. Spots in the latter market advanced 10 points to 8.90c, while New York advanced 5 points to 9.05; Galveston-Houston 8.80c. Liverpool closed 14 points net lower. Prices follow:

STRONGER SIGNS TELL OF STEADY BUSINESS RISE

Autumn Revival Is Widely Shown.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The long anticipated after-Labor-day increase in business activity seems to have gotten a good start.

For two months stock, bond and commodity prices were going steadily up, but the indices of actual business showed no improvement. Sentiment was getting better, but the wheels in factories were moving at the same slow rate.

All hopes have been centered on the upturn that was expected after the beginning of September.

That these hopes have not been in vain is the story contained in the current reports on trade.

1. Car loadings are up.
2. Steel operations are up.
3. Electric power consumption is up.

Indicate Business Weather.

These are tangible developments that cannot be influenced by the wishful thinking of hard pressed business men or the propaganda of politicians. They are perhaps the three most reliable barometers.

They all cover so much territory that it is almost impossible to tamper with them.

Normally some expansion of business is to be expected at this season, but the figures for electric power output and car loadings indicate a rate of improvement that is better than seasonal.

Electric output for the week ended Sept. 3 totaled 1,464,700,000 kilowatt hours, the National Electric Light association reports. This compares with 1,436,440,000 in the preceding week.

Total output was only 10.4 per cent below the 1931 level, compared with 12.3 below registered for the preceding week. Disregarding the seasonal factor, this means a two per cent improvement in one week.

All Sections Are Affected.

All sections of the country shared in the betterment. The Atlantic seaboard made the best showing, with the spread cut down to 5.8 per cent, compared with a deficiency of 8.2 per cent in the preceding week.

Sporadic reports from individual railroads point to another substantial increase in car loadings. On the Illinois Central freight traffic was reported up 8 per cent for last week. The Great Northern and the St. Louis-San Francisco enjoyed similar increases; the Chicago and North Western gained 1.5 per cent. Combined figures for all railroads will be released Saturday.

Steel ingot production, according to the weekly survey of the Iron Age, has risen to 14½ per cent from 13 per cent last week.

Further gains in September will depend almost entirely on the volume of incoming business for immediate requirements, as steel mills have virtually no backlog on their books.

Better Ingot Production.

"At Pittsburgh and Chicago," says the Iron Age, "ingot output is barely holding at last week's low rate, which was 12 per cent for both districts, but there has been a sharp increase at Cleveland, from 12 to 26 per cent, because of the starting up of two plants that had been idle for several weeks, and lesser improvement has developed in the valley and Wheeling districts and at Birmingham and Buffalo. There is no change at Detroit, where Ford's steel plant is still idle."

Scrap prices continue to strengthen. In eastern Pennsylvania heavy melting scrap has advanced 50 cents a ton.

Meanwhile, miscellaneous indices continued to reflect a trend for the better in business.

Business failures during the last week in August showed a sharp decline from the preceding week and were the smallest in number since the last week of November, 1931, Bradstreet's reported yesterday.

The failures index now stands at 125.5 per cent of the 1925-'30 average, compared with 157.2 last week. This is one of the few instances during the present year when failures were lower than during the corresponding week a year ago.

Mutual Savings Banks to Back Railway Pleas

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The railroad industry of America today found a new champion for its welfare when announcement was made that the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks now would participate actively in efforts to solve the roads' difficulties.

Wilson G. Wing, president of the association, said that the Mutual Savings banks hold about 15 per cent of the $11,500,000,000 of railroad bonds outstanding and represent 13,432,139 depositors. In the past, he explained, the association has kept out of railroad controversies.

Out of Slump, Bankers Say; Give Reasons

BY SCRUTATOR.

Chicago and New York bankers are convinced that the turning point from depression to recovery really occurred a month or two ago. Although it is impossible to judge exactly just when changes in economic cycles take place, the varied activities of the great banks afford a composite picture that makes for quicker and more accurate judgment of changing conditions.

"It is only after a change actually has taken place that the indications begin to appear," the head of one of the larger Chicago banks said yesterday. "Even then it requires a little time to determine whether a new trend has been established or only a minor interruption has occurred.

Commodity Low is Passed.

"It now appears that the low point in commodity prices was passed during the third week of June. This is indicated by the various indices and is made more clear by various price advances that have taken place since. Similarly, it appears that the low point in the securities markets was passed during the second week in July. The strong upward movement of stock prices since then seems to have established another trend.

"The turning point in banking appears to have come around the first week in July. Several serious banking troubles were remedied and this relieved considerable tension that had spread over the country. Runs on banks subsided as confidence returned and hoarded money began to flow back.

"The August figures for all Chicago banks show that approximately $5,000,000 was added to total savings deposits. This is after taking into account all shifting of deposits among banks, which was mostly among the downtown banks, as the outlying banks as a whole maintained their deposits. This return flow of hoarded money has continued at about the same rate thus far in September. At the same time, commercial deposits, which slid off about 10 per cent during May and June, have recovered that recession."

Another Sees Progress.

The president of another big bank pointed out that a better sentiment toward business is spreading over the country.

"Just the other day the head of a big hotel system told me that for the first time in months salesmen are appearing at his hotels with their sample trunks," he said. "They are calling on the local merchants and showing their merchandise. This means that wholesalers and jobbers now believe that business is to be had. Drummers report that retailers are more willing to replenish their depleted stocks, which in turn means that they foresee improved purchasing on the part of consumers.

"This better feeling also is evidenced in reports on business of several mail order concerns, which have shown rather sharp gains in sales in the last two or three weeks. These various indications of quickening in business, with the earlier background of rising commodity and security prices, lead to the belief that the improvement of the last two months is not merely a flash in the pan but the changing of the economic cycle from depression to recovery. What now is most needed is the translation of this improvement into better employment. The main problem now is to put men back to work."

Farmer Pays Off Loan.

Finally, a Nebraska banker writes that a farmer last week finished paying off a $5,000 loan.

"Every year for the last five years, this thrifty Danish farmer has repaid $1,000 and interest, always in cash," this banker writes. "Who says that it is impossible for a farmer, even in these times, to make any money? But it all depends on the kind of farmer."

MOTOR SHARES STAGE RALLY ON EXCHANGE HERE

Motor shares were the principal features of the trading yesterday on the Chicago stock exchange. Bendix, Borg Warner, Cord corporation and Noblitt Sparks were conspicuous in the day's trade. Each of the stocks appeared on the tape frequently at better prices.

Shares in other sections also displayed buoyancy. Marshall Field and Continental Chicago were strong. Walgreen was dull and lower.

U. S. MONETARY STOCK OF GOLD INCREASES $3,556,700 FOR DAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—A rise of $3,556,700 in monetary gold stocks was reflected in today's report of gold transactions by the Federal Reserve bank of New York. A gain of $1,735,600 from the release of metal earmarked for foreign account, $299,500 of the amount being reported as additional for Monday. Imports at New York consisted of $484,100 from England and at San Francisco $1,337,000 from China.

In the foreign exchange market guilders broke 7½ points and Swiss francs 4½. The decline in the "neutral" currencies was viewed as further belated readjustments from the high premiums to which they went early in the year when fear for the safety of the dollar and the breakdown of the gold standard in many other countries sent a large volume of money into Holland and Switzerland. The selling was chiefly in Paris, Amsterdam, and Zurich, but much of it was carried on through this market after the close of business in those centers.

LAMBERT CO. VOTES DIVIDEND OF $1 ON STOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—A quarterly dividend of $1 a share was declared on the capital stock of the Lambert company. In the previous quarter the company authorized an extra dividend of $1 in addition to the quarterly of the same amount. Prior to that the stock had been on a regular $2 quarterly basis.

Directors of the Homestake Mining company declared today an extra dividend of $1 a share in addition to the regular monthly dividend of 75 cents, both payable Sept. 26 to holders of record September 20.

Directors of Capital Administration Company, Ltd., have declared two dividends of 75 cents each on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, series A, both payable Oct. 1 to stockholders if record Sept. 19. One dividend is the regular third quarter disbursement; the other is the second quarter disbursement, action on which had previously been deferred.

A quarter dividend of 25 cents in cash and 1 per cent in common stock were declared today on the common stock of Federal Light and Traction. Previously the company had been paying 37½ cents in cash and 1 per cent in common quarterly.

RECEIVERS SEEK STOCKS FROM TORSTENKREUGER

Stockholm, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The receivers for Kreuger and Toll today sought securities nominally valued at $1,034,271 and $90,000, in cash in proceedings against Torsten Kreuger, brother of Ivar Kreuger, match king who killed himself in Paris.

The proceedings were for restitution of large parcels of shares in Swedish companies and three Greek government bonds with a nominal value of £268,957, and 500,000 kronen in cash.

It was alleged that Ivar had given his brother these amounts six months before he killed himself and threw the affairs of Kreuger and Toll into confusion.

Crowds were besieging the Kreuger flat today where the sale of private possessions of the late multi-millionaire was going on, and police regulation was required for the enormous queues of buyers.

Kitchen pots and pans were going at ridiculously high prices to souvenir hunters. The sale of an art collection starting on Monday was arousing high interest.

ORGANIZE GROUP TO PROTECT N. Y. "L" BONDHOLDERS

A committee has been organized to represent the interests of the holders lineasconsolidated mortgage 4 per cent bonds of the Manhattan Railway company, which operates the New York "L" lines. The position of the Manhattan first mortgage bondholders is complicated at the present time by the extension to the Manhattan properties of the receivership of the Interborough Rapid Transit company which holds a 999 year lease on the Manhattan Railway company lines. It is feared that efforts may be made to reject the Manhattan lease and to sever the two properties as the result of the receivership.

American Airways Report More Passengers Carried

American Airways, one of the three major transcontinental air lines, carried 10,537 passengers last month, a new record for passenger traffic in one month for that line. The figure was above the total passengers carried the previous month, which also exceeded 10,000, according to L. B. Manning, vice president of Cord corporation and director of the Aviation corporation, of which the air line is a subsidiary. Mr. Manning said that during the summer improved service has been effected with reduced operating costs and an increase in express poundage carried. The system operates 174 planes a distance of 32,700 miles daily, connecting 63 cities.

Telling Why State Banks Turn National

The decision of the Continental Illinois to become a national bank again calls attention to a movement that has been gathering strength for many months. There is a definite trend all over the nation toward the establishment of a single unified national banking system.

This is due, not to any change in the banking laws, but to increasing conviction among bankers that a change is inevitable. And the state banks are getting ready to participate in the advantages that coming legislation is expected to extend to banks in the national fold.

The Glass banking bill, after two revisions, failed to come up in time to be voted upon at the last session of congress, but a new Glass bill, phoenixlike, always arises out of the ashes of its predecessor and bankers throughout the country are of the opinion that it will be only a matter of time before the law is changed to permit national banks to have statewide branches, even in states where statutes forbid state banks to have branches. This provision was contained in the third Glass bill at the last session of congress.

Under the McFadden act of 1927 national banks were permitted to have city-wide branches, but only in states that did not specifically prohibit branch banking to state banks. Since 1927 the public's attitude toward branch banking has been changed by reason of its baptism of fire.

Another interesting sidelight on the decision of the state's biggest bank to go national is the effect this action will have on the amount of aggregate resources of Illinois state banks.

On June 30, 1932, the sixty-three state banks in Chicago, including the Continental, had total combined resources of $1,611,110,039, and the 741 state banks in Illinois outside Chicago had total combined resources of $400,567,300.

This meant that all state banks combined had total resources of slightly more than 2 billion dollars. Of that more than 800 millions were represented by the resources of the Continental.

Nationalization of the Continental, therefore, subtracts roughly 40 per cent from the aggregate of resources of Illinois state banks.

Same Fight; New Round.

Grain men yesterday believed that they recognized in the farm board plan for disposing of wheat and cotton some of the proposals which were made more than a year ago by B. W. Snow of Bartlett, Frazier & Co. But that still doesn't make it entirely acceptable to the Board of Trade. The Board of Trade officials feel that the farm board is trying to put them in the middle by such statements as that of United States Senator Dickenson. The G. O. P. keynoter declared that it is up to the grain exchange to do something constructive now that the farm board has removed its holdings as a market factor. President Carey of the Board of Trade says Dickinson is attempting to mislead the public, inasmuch as the farm board thrust a new bearish element into the market by concealing its holding of futures contracts.

Passing on the Tax.

Passing on the tax is a favorite American pastime these days. It's a game in which the person who in the end has to absorb the tax is the loser. Thus the American Telephone and Telegraph company has revised its stock sales plan because of the higher taxes on sales. Effective at once, buyers of A. T. & T. shares must pay the transfer tax and also an additional mailing cost due to increased postage. In other respects the plan is unchanged and calls for the payment of $50 monthly on account.

Operations Drop; Output Gains.

Despite the fact that steel operations in August were carried on at a lower rate than in July, the actual production was larger. This was due to the two more working days in August. Production for the month was 832,402 tons, against 792,533 tons in July. These figures are those of the American Iron and Steel institute, whose members in 1931 accounted for 95 per cent of the nation's ingot production.

COOK COUNTY TAX FIGHT IN HIGHEST COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Five thousand Cook county real estate owners, through their counsel, today petitioned the United States Supreme court to hear their claim that Cook county real estate has been made to bear 82½ per cent of the local tax burden while personal property has carried only 16½ per cent.

JAMES E. BISTOR.

In their appeal from the verdict of the Illinois Supreme court which dismissed their bill of complaint last April they declared that the inequalities of Cook county tax assessments were so grave as to constitute a violation of the due process clause of the federal constitution.

James M. Beck, Pennsylvania representative and noted constitutional lawyer, heads the lost of counsel for the petitioners, whose appeal is filed under the name of James E. Bistor, Chicago real estate man. Associated with Mr. Beck are Attorneys Ferre C. Watkins and Peter J. Ten Hoor.

Charge Amendment Violated.

The attorneys closed their brief by explaining that they believed that "this case raises for the first time in this court the precise question of whether the fourteenth amendment is violated by an intentional and unlawful discrimination in favor of one class of property at the expense of another."

The suit originated when a number of taxpayers asked the Circuit court of Cook county to enjoin County Collector Joseph B. McDonough from collecting 1929 taxes on their real estate or to sell their property for nonpayment. The Circuit court dismissed the bill and an appeal was taken to the state Supreme court, which likewise dismissed the complaint for want of equity.

It is this last judgment that the petitioners ask the United States Supreme court to consider.

Recalling their representations before the Illinois Supreme court, the counsel for the taxpayers declared in their brief that the value of real estate in Cook county on April 1, 1929, was approximately 10 billion dollars.

Walgreen August Sales Are Below Month Last Year

The Walgreen company reports August sales of $3,663,330, as compared with $4,626,601, a decline of 20.8 per cent from August last year. Sales for the first eight months totaled $30,950,803, against $36,710,137 in the comparable period of 1931, a decrease of 15.7 per cent.

RAIL OFFICIALS TO MEET HERE ON WAGE CUT

Another step in the plan of the railroad managements to get a further reduction of union wages will be taken today. A committee of nine officials will meet here to draw up a notice of wage revision.

That committee is expected to elect a chairman and organize subcommittees. Reports have been current that the roads plan to service notice of a 20 per cent wage cut from the level prevailing before the present 10 per cent reduction was effected last Feb. 1, the new pact to cover one year. It is understood the operators desire to leave the way open for arbitration under the railroad labor act.

The committee of western railroad presidents, headed by President Carl Gray of the Union Pacific, met here yesterday and is to meet again today for the purpose of choosing a "czar" to regulate the competitive activities of their lines.

The list of candidates for the job was a carefully guarded secret. One railroad official stated that it had been agreed to withhold names until a choice had been made. In addition to President Gray, others attending the meeting were Fred W. Sargent of the North Western, H. A. Scandrett, Milwaukee; Charles Donnelly, Northern Pacific, and L. W. Baldwin of the Missouri Pacific.

Carey Attacks Farm Board's Latest Stand

BY PAUL POTTER.

The federal farm board was accused of insincerity and of an attempt to mislead the public in declaring that its wheat holdings had been almost entirely removed from the American market. The charges were made by Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, yesterday.

PETER B. CAREY.

Mr. Carey replied to an announcement made by Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa from the Republican headquarters to the effect that the threat of farm board holdings has been removed from the wheat market.

"Such is distinctly not the case," Carey declared. "With its inevitable insincerity, the farm board has concealed the amount of futures wheat contracts which it holds. It has thus thrown a new shadow of doubt across the markets.

Market Still Fettered.

"Simply transferring its cash grain holdings to future contracts by no means removes the fetters from the markets. Nor can the markets respond in full measure as long as such dominance remains. Broken farm board promises have destroyed the confidence of farmers, the grain trade, and foreign buyers. Only a complete end of this bureaucracy can bring permanent improvement."

Carey expressed his conviction that the farm board's declaration last Monday that it would sell no more wheat before Jan. 1, 1933, "if maintained," should be an aid to prices.

"But if this new futures trading policy only pours more commissions into the Farmers' National Grain corporation to maintain a topheavy pay roll, then the damage is simply prolonged," he added.

Seeks Better Markets.

"Meantime," said the exchange executive, "the grain trade continues its policy of the last two years of striving constantly to improve the price level as a means of aiding the grain grower. And with the farm board stocks reduced the outlook is more hopeful than for some time past.

"Greater progress would have been made, but there has been much dangerous tampering with the marketing machinery, in the way of piling up surpluses, destroying foreign markets, and bringing retaliatory tariffs."

Carey concluded his remarks on the latest farm board stand with these observations:

"The farm board has punctured the tires, dirtied the spark plugs, and drained the gas tank. It now sits aside like a group of despoilers and grinningly tells the grain trade to go on and win the race."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—This was the third anniversary of the biggest bull market of all time. Prices today went bobbing up 1 to 10 points. Auburn Auto jumped 10¼ points, mostly at the expense of agonized shorts. Federal Mining and Smelting rose 7 points on a single sale.

Motors, motor accessories, business equipment, steel, and other groups in line to benefit from the expected autumn revival were favored in the buying. The rails were rather laggard, but even they got a whirl before the day's end. The volume was 4,100,000 shares.

Steel Outlook Better.

Midweek reports on steel production and electric power output, showing substantial improvement in both cases, were made the excuse for the demonstration.

Pools were aggressive in various specialties, however, particularly the lower priced descriptions.

Once it started the recovery movement was rapid. Closing prices generally were the best of the day, and various issues scored rather substantial gains in the last half hour or so of trading.

Motor stocks had their best day of the whole two months advance, with General Motors, Chrysler, Mack Truck, Nash, and Studebaker all active and strong. General Motors rose 2 points to 29½. That compared with its July low of 7⅝. Chrysler, late down to 5, rose to 21, a gain of 1⅝. Mack and Nash rose more than 2 points each. The display in this group came in the face of an estimate of a new low in output in August.

Utility Shares Benefit.

Utility shares made much of the figures showing improved power output, and Peoples Gas, Public Service, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, and others bettered their ratings by 2 points or more each. American Telephone, a laggard in the early dealings, spurted toward the finish to record a net gain of nearly 4 points. International Telephone reached a new high on a large turnover.

The coppers also took a fresh start, Utah Copper jumping 10 points, Greene

COUNTY PREPARES ANSWER.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell is preparing a brief in answer to the petition of James E. Bistor and other Chicago taxpayers for a writ of certiorari by which they are seeking a review by the United States Supreme court of their attack on the validity of the 1929 tax levy in Cook county.

The brief must be filed by Sept. 26, Mr. Bell said. The Supreme court will then decide, without further argument by attorneys, whether it will grant the writ and hear the appeal from the ruling of the Illinois Supreme court, which upheld the tax levy.

Mr. Bell expressed confidence that the federal court will refuse to hear the case, basing his hope upon another Chicago tax case in which the United States Supreme court refused to take jurisdiction.

FOREIGN ORDERS SET 6.35 CTS. FOR COPPER'S PRICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—Continuous foreign demand for copper resulted in a further increase in price today to 6.35 cents a pound at European ports from the 6.25 cents a pound at which sales were made yesterday. At the same time the domestic price was marked up to 6¼ cents to bring the market more in line with the foreign market, and it now appears that the predictions for a price of 7 cents before the end of this year may be realized.

With producers advancing the price for domestic, leading fabricators followed the rise in announcing increased quotations for wire to the 6¼ cent base. The General Cable company and the Anaconda Wire and Cable company advanced prices on bare and magnet wire ¼ cent and weatherproof wire ⅛ cent a pound. The base price for bare wire is 8 cents a pound, 9½ cents for magnet, and 10⅛ cents for weatherproof in carload lots.

In copper circles the European buying is looked upon as a perfectly natural development owing largely to the fact that as the price for copper continued to drop, continental consumers held off their commitments in the hope of even more favorable bargain prices and to the bottom of the market.

DECISION SEEN NEAR ON BARGE COTTON RATES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—Negotiations by the Federal Inland Waterways corporation and southwestern railroads for lower rail-barge freight rates on cotton advanced another step yesterday toward a final decision.

A tentative agreement for lower rates was approved by Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, chairman of the Waterways corporation which operates the government's barge lines. No details were announced pending action by the railroads.

The southwestern carriers are expected by officials here to reach a decision on the proposition after a conference tomorrow. It will be presented to them by Vice President J. A. Brown of the Missouri Pacific.

Complete details of the conferences were presented to Ashburn today by L. D. Chaffe, traffic manager of the waterways corporation, who has been representing it during the negotiations in St. Louis.

PULLMAN UNIT REPORTS SEVEN MONTHS' DEFICIT

The Pullman company, carrier subsidiary of Pullman, Inc., yesterday reported a net deficit after taxes of $1,026,851 for the first seven months of 1932. The company reported a net income of $1,422,232 for the same period last year.

The seven-month gross was $26,919,664, as against $37,994,666 in 1931. The July gross this year was $3,608,337, as against $5,412,552 in July, 1931, and the net after taxes $110,547, as against $589,673.

Kresge August Sales Below That Month Last Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—The S. S. Kresge company reported today August sales of $8,804,746, in contrast with $10,976,121 for the same month last year, indicative of the decline of 19.7 per cent. For the first eight months of this year total sales of the company aggregated $76,592,777, compared with $88,936,613, a drop of 13.8 per cent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today with sales confirmed of 15,000 bags of Cubas to 10-cal refiners for prompt shipment at 3.18c. Holders of Cuba and duty frees were generally asking 3.20c for spots.

TRADING LIGHT, WHEAT PRICES DOWN FOR DAY

Small Lot Deals Are the Feature.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy hedging sales against the movement of the new American and Canadian spring wheat crops is understood to have convinced some of the eastern bulls the time is not yet ripe for a sustained advance.

Aggressive buying of late has resulted in sharp bulges, but they have been hard to maintain due in part to the selling of futures here against purchases at Winnipeg and Minneapolis, especially the former.

Trade in Small Lots.

There was not the free buying and selling of wheat yesterday by local and eastern speculators which has been a feature in the market for some time. The bulk of the trade was in small lots, with commission houses absorbing the surplus in the pit around 57½c for the December on resting orders and against bids. At the inside prices were off around 1c from Tuesday's finish. The market failed to show much rallying power, closing ¼@½c lower. September was 58¾c; December, 57¾c, and May, 62⅝@63c at the last.

Favorable weather in the Canadian northwest has resulted in rapid progress being made in threshing, and deliveries of wheat at interior points in the three provinces Monday and Tuesday aggregated 6,355,000 bu compared with 4,818,000 bu for the same period in 1931.

Hedging pressure in the Canadian market increased materially and despite the removal of hedges against export sales estimated as high as 1,000,000 bu there was a net loss of 1@1¼c for the day. December wheat there closed at 57¼c in Canadian funds, or ¼c under Chicago without allowance being made for a 9¼ per cent discount on the exchange rate.

Hedging Sales in Winnipeg.

Part of the hedging sales in Winnipeg have been offset for sometime by purchases there against sales of wheat futures at Chicago. The same character of spreading prevails between Chicago and Minneapolis December with the latter closing at 1⅝c under Chicago.

Some damage was done to the late crops in the northern sections and in west central Alberta by recent frosts, according to the weekly Dominion Government crop summary, but the low temperatures prevented grain from sprouting in shock.

Estimates on the wheat crop of the prairie provinces are being lowered somewhat, the Winnipeg Free Press report placing the probable yield at 427,000,000 bu, against 284,000,000 bu harvested last year. Recent returns suggested a harvest of as high as 472,000,000 bu. The report had some effect on the market early. Liverpool lost 1@1¼c per bu for the day with the December closing at 59⅞c.

Corn Lacks Leadership.

There is a rather striking lack of leadership noticeable in the corn market and prices fluctuate erractically within moderate limits. Selling by cash and commission houses caused a break of around ½c early, with a rally later on local buying and short covering and the finish was ⅛@¼c lower. September closed at 39⅝@39¾c; December, 33½c, and May, 33⅜@33½c. The country sold 105,000 bu cash grain to arrive, but is was noticeable that offerings dried up on the declines. The shipping demand was the best in a number of days with sales of 231,000 bu, and charters were made for 250,000 bu to Buffalo.

Hedging pressure was in evidence in oats, and the close was ⅛@⅜c lower with September closing at 16⅞@17c; December, 19¼@19¼c, and May, 22½c. Rye was ⅜@½c lower with wheat. September was 33½c at the last with December 36c and May 40½c.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 6,000; hogs, 16,000; sheep, 15,000.

Much cooler weather continued the good demand for fresh pork at advancing rates. A 40 per cent decrease in this week's Chicago hog receipts drove hog prices up 5@15c further yesterday. Favorable news from the wholesale market for pork contributed most to the advance and stimulated active buying on local account. The clearance was best for midweek in some time, with some orders for top grades unfilled at the finish because of the shortage.

The extreme top for light hogs reached $4.70, while the general average moved up 10c to $4.20, the latter being within 5c of the highest daily average in more than three weeks.

Easterners Good Buyers.

Although local demand is the main support, eastern houses are taking out a greater share of the supply lately and this is adding to the competition in top classes. So far this week shippers have bought 12 per cent of the Chicago receipts, against 8 per cent during the first half of last week. With 21,000 fewer hogs on the market during the first half of this week, just a small increase in outside buying is certain to have effect.

The fact that pork loins are selling at the highest prices since July 12 and 3c above the low point in August, practically all of the advance coming the last two days, explains the aggressiveness of all smaller local houses. Large local packers entered the market earlier than usual, buying within 10c of the extreme top in high quality 190@220 lb hogs. Top loins advanced to 16c yesterday.

Best Cattle Advance.

Cattle developed weakness after setting up a new season top of $10.15 at the opening yesterday. With the exception of a thin "upper crust" of highly finished weighty beeves selling at $9.50 and above, tendency was lower most of the day, the rank and file slipping down 15@25c in midsession and later. Few steers were eligible to $10, this price taking 1,126@1,330 lb averages.

One load averaging 1,256 lbs reached $10.10, while 42 whiteface steers averaging 1,421 lbs from Linn county, Mo., established the new top of $10.15. Sturtevant & Haley, a Boston house, was the buyer. The majority of steers were the kind to sell at $7.00@9.25.

Poorer kinds ranged down to $5.00 and thin 1A-bred stock lower. Plain quality steers got the poorest action and showed the most loss for the day. Choice grades of fed heifers were firm, while most cows sold 15@25c lower. Calves were quoted steady. No changes were noted in the stocker and feeder division.

Lambs are Steady.

The lamb market maintained a steady level with some effort yesterday when 25,000 head arrived. Eastern houses were not so aggressive and large local packers found a better selection of high quality lambs for their demands at just barely steady rates. Most good slaughter lambs sold on local account at $5.75@6.00, the tops from 62 carloads of rangers going within this price range. A few selected natives reached $6.25, with both packers and city butchers handpicking occasional "stick-out" lots as high as $6.50. Old sheep and yearlings were steady to 25c lower, light ewes going around $2.50 and yearlings at $4.75.

FORD MOTOR CO. REDUCES WAGES, IT'S REPORTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—Officials of the Ford Motor company refused to comment today on reports that a downward revision of the salaries and wages had been put into effect by the company.

The company's Dearborn plant reopened yesterday after a three weeks' shutdown. The company called back several thousand men and is said to be planning to reemploy several thousand additional men.

The report of the wage revision was prevalent in trade circles as well as in the financial circles in the east. The company put into effect a wage reduction nearly a year ago. At that time the minimum wage rate was cut from $7 to $6. It is understood that the present reduction does not affect the minimum wage rate.
